Campbell, Johnson Named Chairmen.

Scalp Chieftain

Tammany ousts John F. Curry after five years at helm as conclusion to row over his opposition to Franklin D. Roosevelt. Details on Page 6.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—Illinois Democrats and Republicans laid down the gage of battle to each other today in separate meetings.

The Democrats held a roisterous, harmonious state convention devoted to a glorification of President Roosevelt and Gov. Horner. They elected Bruce A. Campbell of Belleville state chairman and promised firm support behind the New Deal in November.

The Republicans elected Justus L. Johnson of Aurora state chairman and cheered as one of their candidates for congressman at large, C. Wayland Brooks of Chicago, took after the NRA and the regimentation of industry and individuals in a biting prediction that the voters of the state will rebel in the fall.

Since the Democrats held meetings of both their state convention and the state committee, their show was the more prolonged. But the Republicans exhibited a fighting determination which made their gathering important, although the regular convention was recessed until Aug. 9.

Interpretation of Vote.

On that date attempts will be made to obtain former Gov. Frank O. Lowden as keynoter. The Lowden voice will be a powerful one, the G. O. P.'s believe, and the time of its deliverance well suited to the Republican cause.

Incoming Chairman Campbell exhibited the confidence of the Democrats by reciting the record Democratic vote polled in the primaries last week. More than 650,000 votes were cast downstate, and 585,000 in Cook county. This was more than ever before registered.

"It augurs well for our continued success this fall," Campbell said. "The Democratic cause is continuing to draw thousands of voters."

Mr. Brooks had another explanation for the primary vote.

"Its numbers were polled," he said, "out of the PWA, the CWA and the NRA. The freedom of our country has already been stifled. Pressure brought this vote."

Parties Pick Chiefs.

But jubilance continued in the house of representatives, which was packed for the Democratic convention. Gov. Horner was chairman and such leading Democrats as Mayor Kelly of Chicago, Chairman P. A. Nash of Cook county, and scores of others were in attendance. Nothing occurred to mar the harmonious fiesta.

The state committee met before the convention and Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan of Joliet set the harmony motif by refusing to accept renomination as chairman when it was proposed by Committeeman Edward Mulcahy of Chicago. Instead Donovan nominated Campbell and moved the choice be unanimous. Daniel Sullivan of Chicago was chosen secretary.

Over in the Lincoln hotel three blocks away Mr. Johnson was named chairman of the Republicans and Edward Goetz of Chicago secretary. There, too, there was no dissention.

Cheering their new chairman, the Democrats called the convention to order. Gov. Horner was keynoter and both temporary and permanent chairman. His keynote sounded pæans of praise for the Roosevelt administration and did not neglect to say a word for what Democracy has accomplished in Illinois. Both ideas were received with acclaim.

"Ins" Assail "Outs."

The projection of the primary vote was made by Secretary of State Hughes. Its probabilities for the fall were stressed by Mayor Kelly of Chicago, who lit into the opposition with the declaration that "there is not an intelligent idea in the Republican party today."

The mayor also took after Republican "obstructionists" who have been opposing Gov. Horner in the legislature and closed with a recital of his administration's accomplishments in Chicago.

The war against crime was especially stressed and there the mayor praised State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney of Cook county.

When it got down to the business of nominating three trustees for the

HITLER DRAFTS YOUTH TO TRAIN FOR NEW ARMY

All Men of 20 Are Sent to Camps.

This Troubled World

TOKIO—Japanese ultimatum to the world powers to keep hands off China seen as check on efforts to improve relations between the United States and Japan.

MOSCOW—President of Russia calls for immediate measures to train women, children and peasants for war duty behind the lines in case of hostilities.

LONDON—Britain prepares to accede to France's demand for security guarantee as price for disarmament treaty.

LUXEMBURG, April 20.—Mysterious slips ordering the 20 year old youths to report for duty in military or labor camps in the course of April are stirring Germany. They convince military observers that Chancellor Hitler's government is quietly providing military training for all 20 year old men, the same as if the reich had already signed a military convention with other European nations permitting her to enforce military conscription for a full sized army.

Officials deny any such drafting orders have been issued. Nevertheless, on a recent visit to Berlin I met scores of young men who admitted to me they had received orders to report to Camp Doeberitz this month. None of these drafted youths is a member of the storm troops or any other Nazi organization. Some asserted their orders read: "You must be ready to serve for a year and a half."

Get Military Training.

Surprised by these statements, I investigated. I found the entire 20 year old male generation undergoing military or semi-military training, together with their older and younger brothers in the reichswehr [regular army], in the storm troops, in the "schutzstaffeln," and in labor camps. At a moment's notice these youths could be incorporated in the reichswehr.

Former members of the one time monarchist Steel Helmet organization, who are trained war veterans, are ready to form the framework for their incorporation.

The disappearance of youthful policemen in the streets of Berlin was startling.

"They are being trained out of town," was the answer to queries. "The reichswehr is getting them into shape."

I visited the universities to see what youth was doing there. Every student must be a storm trooper or a schutzstaffel boy. His training is semi-military. The schutzstaffel is composed of the stronger youths who are better military timber than the storm troopers. At a moment's notice they could swing into line with the reichswehr.

Many Recruits in Army.

I found the reichswehr chockful of very young recruits. According to the Versailles treaty, German soldiers must serve 12 years. One would expect to find many men in their late twenties, early thirties in the army. But there are only a few men with stripes on their sleeves indicating five or six years' service.

Almost none has any service stripes for a longer period of service. The older soldiers have either resigned or are out in the provinces instructing young policemen, helping improve the military quality of storm troopers and members of labor camps.

"They are training to become noncommissioned officers and officers of the future German army of 300,000 men which Hitler is demanding," individuals close to the Hitler government admit.

Young men employed in factories and shops must belong to storm groups. Only storm troopers get jobs. Labor camps provide military training for those who, for some reason or other, did not become storm troopers. Many of these labor camps are virtually military finishing schools for storm troopers. Target practice and similar military maneuvers are staged.

Veterans Train Youth.

The men must sign statements promising not to talk about their real experiences in camp. Veterans of the former Steel Helmet body help train these young men.

Money Guard Is a Mystery, Even to Wife

A woman, nervous and fearful, and a man, calm and collected, confronted each other last evening in the state's attorney's office. The woman is Mrs. Allen R. Hammel, whose husband, a trusted guard for the Brinks Express company, fled with $39,000 on Dec. 16. The man, who insists he is Burt Armstrong of New York, had already been identified by ten persons as Hammel. He was brought to Chicago yesterday from Philadelphia, where he was arrested.

"Allen, dear," cried Mrs. Hammel, weeping, "don't you know me? Don't you remember Princess?"

There was no flicker of recognition in the man's eyes.

Denies Ever Seeing Her.

"Lady, I never saw you in my life," he said.

"You've got to remember me. You've got to remember the five children," cried Mrs. Hammel. She threw her arms around "Armstrong's" neck. "You know you are my husband."

"I am nobody's husband," the man declared firmly. "I was never married."

Mrs. Hammel, discomfited, retreated to a chair in the office. Assistant State's Attorney Morris Meyers took Allen Hammel Jr., 9 years old, and Helen Hammel, 7 years old, to his prisoner.

Children Fail to Move Him.

"These are your children," said the prosecutor.

The man looked at them without any display of emotion.

"Daddy," called the little girl, climbing on his knee.

"She looks like a little girl I used to know in New York," said the prisoner. "They're both nice little girls. I don't know where you found this one, Mr. Meyers, nor the lady, but I never saw them before."

He stroked the child's hair. He asked the little boy his name and smiled as he said it was pretty. But there was no indication of any emotional weakening, and the interview was ended a few minutes later.

Wife Tells of Mental Trouble.

Mrs. Hammel declared her husband was subject to mental trouble due to muscular convulsions. He was worried all the while after he got his job as guard on a money truck, she declared, fearing the company would learn of his failing and discharge him. Perhaps, she suggested, he was a victim of amnesia.

Mr. Meyers said there was not the slightest doubt of the man's identity. Among those who have pointed him out are Phillip G. Baracke and C. E. McAllister, who were with him on a truck shortly before he fled.

They left him alone while they went into a bank to draw more currency and he departed after writing a brief note. Eight other Brinks employés corroborated the identification.

When "Armstrong" was seized in Philadelphia a pistol and the badge Hammel had worn were found in his room. But from the time of his arrest the prisoner maintained he had never heard of Hammel and had never been in Chicago. He had $900 in his pockets when the Philadelphia police took him into custody.

'ELECTRIC WOMAN' IS TAKEN TO ROME FOR SCIENTIFIC TEST

ROME, April 20.—(AP)—A group of scientists hovered anxiously tonight about the bedroom of Mrs. Anna Monaro, Trieste's "electric woman," hoping for a chance to study under the most modern clinical conditions the strange blue illumination which occasionally emanates from her breast.

Italy's famed inventor, Guglielmo Marconi, as president of the National Research institute, asked that the woman be brought to Rome for the most detailed scientific examination.

But the 50 year old center of international scientific and medical speculation seemed troubled and said her only desire was to return to her family and avoid further publicity. But Marconi and others persuaded her husband and other relatives to allow her to remain under observation indefinitely.

Mrs. Monaro appeared reluctant to speak with journalists. She answered questions in monosyllables and showed a somewhat superstitious awe of her phenomenon, but offered no explanation. The scientists were hardly hopeful of an illumination tonight, because it is known the light only occurs when the patient is in a deep sleep. She was nervous after her long journey here from Trieste. She was given a comfortable hospital room.

IRISH KILL OFF CALVES; BOUNTY GIVEN ON SKINS

CORK, Irish Free State, April 20.—(AP)—Cattle owners needed no second invitation when the Free State government announced a bounty of $2.50 on calfskins in order to reduce the number of cattle. Wholesale slaughter of calves is going on throughout the Free State in the rush to get the bounty.

The killings exceed 25,000 calves a week and the export of thousands of skins has depressed the English market. The government estimated that 200,000 calves could be slaughtered, but this number is likely to be exceeded.

The veal market is glutted and huge quantities of the meat are daily being distributed to the poor. In many parts of southern Ireland hundreds of carcasses are being dumped into old quarries and any other place that may be handy.

Reduction of live stock is part of the government's campaign to increase wheat production.

Surprise Jury Verdict Frees Alleged Killer

A jury before Judge Michael Feinberg, after nearly five hours of deliberation, found Joseph Rowitz, 31 years old, not guilty last night of the murder of Harry Moskowitz, also 31, thereby bringing to an unexpected conclusion a case that had been regarded by the state as ironclad against the defendant.

Police strategy in investigating the murder had brought about an apparently swift solution of the crime through confessions from two accessories before the fact. The two took the witness stand and accused Rowitz. Because of this the state demanded the death penalty. Court observers informally wagered 100 to 1 against an acquittal.

Gets $250 Tip from Bandit.

Moskowitz, a Checker cab driver, was robbed of $250 and shot to death on Feb. 16 in front of his home at 3144 West 15th street. The money had been given to him an hour or two earlier as a tip by Frank Barton, who a few days before, with Sanford Alexander and Frank Brundage, all of Wheaton, had robbed a Burlington, Wis., bank. The three are now in prison. The huge tip so excited Moskowitz that he told fellow cab drivers and displayed the roll of bills. This rashness cost him his life. Some one who saw the money killed him.

Rowitz, a Checker cab driver, and Irving Pavitsky and Davis Skurie, also drivers, were arrested for the crime. The latter two confessed and named Rowitz as the killer. All three were indicted. At the trial Skurie and Pavitsky became state's witnesses.

The pair told of seeing Moskowitz with the $250 tip and conspiring to rob him. They drove near his home, they said, and Pavitsky and Rowitz alighted and started for the Moskowitz home. However, Pavitsky became frightened and turned back, finally fleeing with Skurie, who had remained behind.

Meet Rowitz Later.

The two men testified they met Rowitz 10 minutes later and that he told them: "I had to give it to him." They testified that they noticed scratches on his left knuckles, and that when he was asked for an explanation of the injury he said: "Moskowitz bit me."

Then Rowitz took the stand. "Sure, I went with Pavitsky and Skurie to commit robbery," he testified, "but when I got to the address I saw it was the home of my friend Moskowitz. I said: 'Count me out on this' and I ran away. But Pavitsky ran away ahead of me. I meant to rob some one, but I didn't, and I didn't kill any one."

This and a discrepancy in description by an eyewitness of the killing furnished the basis of the defense. When it was all over Defense Attorney Samuel A. Hoffman took Rowitz out of jail and home. Pavitsky and Skurie remained in jail.

Britten Names Hideaway of Brain Trust

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—For that "little green house on K street," where the now notorious principals of the Harding régime once gathered to plot and scheme, Representative Fred A. Britten of Illinois today named a present day counterpart.

It was a "little red house in Georgetown," where, he said, the young liberals of the Roosevelt administration now gather nightly to devise and plan the New Deal legislation that congress is asked to pass.

Rumors of the Georgetown meetings have floated about the capital for weeks, but it remained for Mr. Britten to bring them officially to light during the course of a vigorous speech on the floor of the house. And the catch-phrase he coined—"a little red house in Georgetown"—promises to stick in a city as fond of intrigue as this one is.

From Ships to Brains.

Mr. Britten started out to demand the immediate recall of the British consul general at New York, Gerald Campbell, whom he charged with publicly opposing the Vinson treaty navy bill.

Interrupted repeatedly by that turbulent Texas Democrat, Tom Blanton, however, he suddenly veered to a scathing denunciation of the "Roosevelt brain trust."

The seat of government, the Chicagoan asserted during a heated exchange with Blanton, has shifted from the White House to a "little red house in Georgetown."

"To whom did the gentleman refer in his statement about the 'little red house in Georgetown'?" demanded Representative McFarlane [Dem., Tex.].

"I referred to a little red house down in Georgetown occupied by Mr. Cohen, Mr. Corcoran, and Mr. Landis," Britten replied.

Source of Red Ideas.

"Almost every night in the week men like Frederic C. Howe—O, a number of men, not necessarily of the highest importance, not necessarily cabinet officers, but the men who wrote the Fletcher-Rayburn bill, for instance—meet there.

"It is the little red house down in Georgetown," he went on, "where are held the meetings out of which comes the communistic legislation we all talk about in the cloakrooms. It is the little red house in Georgetown where every night of the week from ten to eighteen young men of communistic mind meet—so-called young liberals—they call them Frankfurter's hot dogs."

Representative Truax [Dem., O.] jumped up indignantly.

"Would the gentleman prefer the little green house on K street that owned and robbed the country for twelve years?" he inquired.

Attack on Consul.

The three "young liberals," named by Britten as the occupants of the little red house are well known as the authors of the Fletcher-Rayburn stock market control bill. Corcoran is an attorney for the RFC, Cohen is a lawyer in the department of interior. Federal Trade Commissioner Landis, it was reported, does not live at the Georgetown address.

Mr. Britten took the floor for the purpose of demanding that Secretary of State Hull request the withdrawal of Campbell as British consul general at New York.

His demand, the Chicagoan said, was prompted by an effort on the part of Maj. Charles MacKenzie-Kennedy, a British subject, to influence the house naval affairs committee regarding navy aviation legislation.

REDUCE BONDS OR GOVERNMENT WILL—PRESIDENT

Faces Price Crisis

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today warned the railroads that they must reorganize their debts at the expense of their bondholders and stabilize their labor conditions or be faced with government control or ownership.

At the same time the President asked that the smoldering railroad wage dispute be settled through a continuation of the existing 10 per cent wage cut. This request was contained in a letter addressed to Federal Coördinator of Transportation Joseph B. Eastman, who is carrying on negotiations between railroad employers and employés.

Names Three for Study.

So serious does the President consider the long range question of stabilizing railroad labor and financial policies that he appointed Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, and Attorney General Homer S. Cummings a committee of three to continue the study.

Two fundamental problems must be settled, the President feels, to put the railroads on a sound footing. They must wipe out the threat of receiverships by scaling down their fixed charges and they must stabilize their labor and wage schedules, he believes.

Unless these questions are solved promptly the railroads, according to the President, must be brought under federal control or ownership. He makes it clear, however, that neither he nor any of his advisers now favor this second alternative except as a means of last resort.

Holds Lines Overexpanded.

Holding that the railroads are far overexpanded because of their 1915-1929 building boom, the President feels that the carriers may never again be able to earn the interest payments on the bonds which were floated to finance the building of tracks, stations, and rolling stock.

As an example the President points out that many roads laid down four tracks where they now only need two. Yet the roads are still trying to pay interest on this unused equipment and being threatened with receivership if they do not.

To solve the dilemma the President, it was learned at the White House, has tentatively suggested that the railroads refinance that portion of their bonds representing unused equipment into stock. Such a refunding would remove the regular demands for bond interest since stock has no interest provisions. Dividends would not have to be paid on the stock—and probably could not be paid for 10 years, the President feels—unless earnings warranted them.

Writes Views to Eastman.

The President as yet has put forward no specific proposals for stabilizing railroad labor conditions, as far as could be learned. To solve the present wage dispute he wants the existing 10 per cent wage cut continued on the grounds that any additional earnings by the carriers should go into wider reëmployment and purchase of new equipment rather than to higher wages for present employés. In his letter to Coördinator Eastman the President said:

"The trafic and earnings of the railroads are improving, but they are still below the 1931 level, a very large amount of deferred maintenance exists, and maintenance expenditures are still on a subnormal basis. I cannot avoid the conclusion that during the remainder of this year it is very important that increased earnings should be used in the rehabilitation of the properties and in providing such added and improved service as the increased trafic may demand.

Add to Number Employed.

"This will not only decrease part time employment but it will add materially to the total number of men employed. An increase in wages will help men now at work, but it will be of considerably less advantage to the employés as a whole and it will also operate to defer the rehabilitation of the properties and the provision of good service which are essential to the good health of the railroad industry. The employés are part of the railroad industry and are tied to its future. It is essential that the railroads should be able to meet effectively the severe competition by which they are now faced, and inability to do this will inevitably react on the men. The railroads need the next few months to put their houses in order for this purpose.

"After careful consideration of existing conditions, therefore, I am fully persuaded that the position which I took in my letters of Feb. 14 and March 20, addressed jointly to the railroad managements and the labor executives, was sound, and that an extension of the present wage status for at last six months is what the welfare of the railroads, of their employés, and of the entire country demands as the immediate and temporary disposition of this matter. This includes, of course, the recommendation in my letter of March 20 that the minimum wages of railroad employés should be brought into conformity with the standards followed by the National Recovery administration.

"I shall be glad, therefore, if you will undertake to effect a settlement with the employés and the management along these lines."

CONGRESSIONAL RECEIVER QUIZ TO HEAR JUDGES

At least two Chicago federal judges are expected to be heard in executive session this morning when the congressional judiciary subcommittee on equity receiverships and bankruptcies convenes again. This probably will be the last session of the committee in Chicago.

The committee, headed by Representative Tom D. McKeown [Dem., Okla.], has extended an invitation to all judges who have handled receivership and bankruptcy cases, and Judges James H. Wilkerson and Walter C. Lindley have signified their intention of testifying. The executive session was decided upon, according to George F. Cummerow, investigator for the committee, because several matters under scrutiny are still pending before the judges.

Following the session Chairman McKeown is expected to issue a statement. In the evening he will address the Illinois Woman's Bar association at a meeting in the Blackstone hotel on the subject of bankruptcies.

CAPONE TO SEEK FREEDOM NEXT WEEK IN APPEAL

Washington, D. C., April 20.—(AP)—Al Capone is going to make a bid for freedom Wednesday in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans.

It was disclosed at the department of justice today that Frank J. Wideman, assistant attorney general, would resist the Chicago gangster's latest effort to get out of the Atlanta penitentiary, where he is serving an eleven year sentence for income tax evasion.

The proceedings in New Orleans are in the nature of an appeal from a decision of the United States District court of northern Georgia, which dismissed an application for a writ of habeas corpus for Capone on Dec. 9, 1933.

Capone's contention at that time was that the indictment on which he was convicted was brought after the expiration on the three year statute of limitations.

PACIFIST RALLY ON THE MIDWAY ENDS IN BLOWS

A meeting last night at the University of Chicago, sponsored by the United Anti-War association in the interest of pacifism, was enlivened by hecklers and was followed by fisticuffs exchanged by the hecklers and the pacifists.

Among the speakers at the meeting, which was attended by about 150 persons, were Rosika Schwimmer and Tucker Smith. A group of fraternity men who still believe that fighting may be necessary interrupted Smith several times and, when the meeting adjourned, followed some of the better known campus pacifists to Hitchcock hall.

There was a brief battle, with Fred Noff, president of the Socialist club, leading those who dislike fighting by nations. It ended with nothing worse, it was explained, than a few sore noses and bruises.

FALLING PRICES NEW CRISIS FOR ROOSEVELT PLAN

Silver Bloc Seizes on Opportunity.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—The Roosevelt administration is facing a new crisis in its recovery program and new inflationary schemes have leaped to the fore.

As a price raising lever the monetary manipulations up to date are now recognized by the President to be a virtual failure. They have raised prices a little but nowhere nearly enough to restore the purchasing power aimed at.

With the price of wheat actually going down, the agrarian west is clamoring for inflation as never before and the President is confronted with the necessity of trying another experiment in the artificial influencing of prices. Just what it will be he does not know.

Discussed With Cabinet.

The situation was discussed by the President and the members of his cabinet at their meeting this afternoon but no definite conclusions were arrived at.

If the President decides to give the country another shot of inflation in the arm, he might further devalue the dollar. Last February he revalued the dollar at 59 cents. Under existing law he could by proclamation reduce the value nine points farther to 50 cents.

But he could attain the same result and even depress the value of the dollar below 50 per cent of the old value by buying gold at increasingly higher prices. Gold is now being purchased at $35 an ounce, at which level the dollar is worth 59 cents.

Other inflationary schemes open to the President under the Thomas act are the issuance of 3 billion dollars of greenbacks and the remonetization of silver.

If Mr. Roosevelt desires to avoid further experiments in inflation at this time he may endeavor to restore the price of wheat by buying huge quantities of the cereal for the relief of the destitute.

Silverites Renew Demands.

With the drop in the price of wheat the silverites in congress have waxed militant in their demands for mandatory legislation remonetizing silver, or requiring the government to purchase enormous amounts of the metal under the guise of farm relief, as provided by the Dies bill. They want mandatory legislation because the President has failed to use the permissive authority of the Thomas act to resort to inflation by means of silver.

Mr. Roosevelt took occasion today to put himself on record as unqualifiedly opposed to mandatory legislation. He would not object to more legislation for silver if it merely conferred on him permissive authority.

His attitude split the silver bloc in the senate. The group headed by Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah] is disposed to accept the President's terms and put through permissive instead of mandatory legislation. The group with which Senators William E. Borah [Radical Rep., Idaho] and Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] are identified, is disposed to fight the President and try to put over a mandatory bill.

Borah Spurns Compromise.

"I am not interested in permissive legislation," said Senator Borah. "I am in favor of mandatory legislation and I think congress should pass a mandatory bill to remonetize silver before it adjourns."

"I am thoroughly convinced," said Senator Wheeler, "that we should not have permanent prosperity until we crack the corner in gold and that can only be done by remonetizing silver."

Because of the President's attitude Senator Borah at first said he would not attend the silver conference at the White House tomorrow. But the President telephoned him an invitation which he could not refuse and he said he would go.

The President has turned thumbs down on inflation via silver because of his disappointing experience in trying to inflate prices through gold manipulations. That experience convinced him that a panacea does not always cure the patient in the manner expected by the doctors.

Professors' Scheme Fails.

The President had been assured by Profs. George F. Warren and James H. Rogers and other member of the brain trust that large scale purchases of gold at ever increasing prices would result in a general increase of the commodity price level. Prices have gone up somewhat, but not as much as the President expected, and he has not concealed his dissatisfaction with this particular panacea.

Whether he has turned his back on Prof. Warren, chief architect of the monetary manipulations, does not appear at this writing, but there has been gossip for some time that the Cornell professor is no longer in high favor at the White House.

The Committee for the Nation, for which Prof. Warren is economist, has complained all along that the President was not going far enough in the gold purchase operations. He ought, said the committee, to shove the gold price up to $43 or more. Prof. Warren himself contended that it would take a long time for the gold manipulations to be translated into higher commodity prices.

Not Patient with Declines.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, was prepared to be patient in the matter of commodity price advances, but he was not prepared for actual declines of the price level as in the case of wheat and some other commodities.

The President's disillusionment in the matter of the gold manipulations set him against similar experimentation in the matter of silver. If, he reasoned, the gold policy was a failure when all the factors were definitly known, what chance would there be of success with an experiment in the manipulation of silver in which the factors are almost wholly unknown?

The amount of gold in the world is definitly known within a billion dollars' worth. But on two people agree how much silver there is in the world. In the case of gold, the treasury was buying a large portion of the total gold supply. Some guesses place the amount of silver at 11 or 12 billion ounces, little of which is held by governments. It is mostly in private hands.

Only Drop in Bucket.

Buying 50 million ounces a month, as proposed in the senate bill, would be only a drop in the bucket, as the President views it. It might raise the price of silver 15 or 20 cents an ounce, but probably never to the desired $1.29 an ounce.

Last December the President undertook to raise the price of silver 20 cents above the world price. The silverites hailed this as the most glorious and far reaching event in our history. The treasury offered to buy silver at 64 cents. It halted at 46 cents and now has slipped back to 44 cents. So, the President thinks, silver manipulations would be no more successful than the gold experiment.

JOHNSON ADMITS NRA MISTAKES IN TALK TO EDITORS

Denies Any Attempts to Curb Press Freedom.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA taskmaster for industry, confessed to some of the Blue Eagle's mistakes and inadequacies today, but he denounced the critics who have attacked errors in his policies.

Speaking before the Society of American Newspaper Editors, Gen. Johnson fired a special broadside at editors who have accused him of attempting a censorship of free speech through the newspaper code or through a gag rule on his own NRA organizations.

In admitting the shortcomings of his NRA régime, the general confessed that the NRA does not have a single case against any alleged large code violators which will stand up in court. His admission blew up reports circulated by Attorney General Cummings that a drive was on against code violators.

Without Cases, He Says.

"In all the conspicuous cases," Gen. Johnson revealed, "all the big cases that have had a lot of publicity for supposed violation of the NRA, on reference either to the federal trade commission or to the attorney general's office or our own legal department, although there are some of them that are skating pretty close, we haven't any case against a large employer that we think would stand up under prosecution. That is literally the fact. In other words, they are complying with this law as they see it."

Besides admitting that he had been unable to find any large code violators, Gen. Johnson confessed that the so-called "basing point price system," which the steel code approves and which has been attacked as throttling small steel mills, is a mistake.

Turning his attention to those who have accused him of seeking to censor the views printed by newspapers or broadcast by radio stations, the general hotly defended his position. He denied that he had any ulterior motive in drafting the newspaper code.

Charges False Accusation.

"We have been accused of a diabolical desire to impose a censorship on the press and the radio," the general declared. "Considering the articles and speeches in opposition to the President's program, we certainly have made the poorest kind of a mess if control of the agencies of publicity was one of our objects. As a matter of fact, the constitutional prohibition against interference with the press has been taken into account with every draft of the newspaper code since the appearance of the publishers' commitee in the matter.

"More than that, although I could see no reason for reasserting the sanctity of liberty of expression in the newspaper code and in reaffirming the whole constitution of the United States, we have right along reinserted that provision because the publishers wanted it inserted. We might as well have put in the ten commandments and I probably would have done so had the newspaper committee requested a positive reassertion of the decalog.

Expects More Criticism.

"Yet there have been representations written and published, and I dare say there will continue to be representations written and published, presenting us as desiring to throttle criticism.

"As to the radio, let me give you my personal assurance that never at any time have we asked that a critic be kept off the air or have we sought in any way to trammel the broadcasts of such gentlemen as Col. McCormick, Mr. Hearst, Mr. Sanders, Senator Dickinson, or any of the others who were minded to tell the people how monstrous was what we were trying to do and how wicked were the people who were trying to do it."

At the close of his speech and in response to questions by Arthur J. Sinnott of the Newark News, Gen. Johnson denied that the administration had sought intentionally to put pressure on the newspapers before the code was approved by putting emphasis on alleged bad labor conditions in newspaper plants.

Questioned by Editor.

Asking Gen. Johnson why the government was in such haste to clamp the newspaper business under a code, Mr. Sinnott said that he believed there were other problems calling more loudly for a mention. The NRA has been going too fast, Mr. Sinnott said.

"I think you are trying to get heaven and earth, a code for this, a code for that," Mr. Sinnott explained to Gen. Johnson, "and I have no doubt that codes are very badly needed for a lot of things. But I didn't know the newspaper trade was exactly a sweatshop—maybe some shops are."

"Who said it was?" Gen. Johnson challenged.

"I read that somewhere. I think it was from the White House," Mr. Sinnott retorted.

TEACHER CAPTURES THIEF; HOLDS HIM TILL POLICE ARRIVE

Miss Agatha McCarthy, 1907 West Garfield boulevard, is a teacher in the Kelly public school and knows how to handle bad boys. Last night, on her way to attend a parent-teacher meeting, her purse was snatched by two youths at Garfield boulevard and Hermitage avenue. This made her angry, so she pursued the pair and captured one in a doorway half a block to the west. Moreover, she held him for the police. The youth who had Miss McCarthy's purse is Ray Malanowski, 4535 South Paulina street. He named Theodore Kowalski, 19 years old, 5525 South Hermitage avenue, as his companion. Kowalski was arrested.

1,000 MILE ROAD AROUND LAKE IS DISCUSSED HERE

A proposal for an unbroken 1,000 mile highway encircling Lake Michigan was discussed yesterday by representatives of the four states through which the road would pass, at a meeting called in the Hotel Sherman at the request of Gov. A. G. Schmedeman of Wisconsin.

The unbuilt portions of the highway, largely in Michigan and Wisconsin, would be constructed as a federal project under allotments to each state. Illinois and Indiana would have only short stretches of road to build, within sight of the lake wherever possible. The project would include the outer drives of Chicago and Milwaukee.

BIDS ARE OPENED ON AIR MAIL; FAR UNDER OLD RATE

Former Carriers Among Those Competing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.] — A startled crowd of aviation leaders listened today to the reading of amazingly low bids for temporarily carrying the air mail. Some of the bids were below 20 cents an airplane mile, less than a fifth of the maximum rates formerly permissible under the law.

There was a tense and dramatic scene in the postoffice building when the bids were opened and the figures shouted by an announcer so that every person jammed into the big office of the general superintendent of air mail services might hear.

President's Friends Named.

Almost as much excitement ruled about the same hour in the senate as the names of Kermit Roosevelt and Vincent Astor, companions of the President on his last yachting trip, were mentioned as subjects for an investigation by the senate air mail investigating committee.

Kermit Roosevelt is vice president and Astor is one of the largest stockholders of International Mercantile Marine. Taking as his text a "gossip column" prediction that President Roosevelt had gone for his last cruise on Astor's Nourmahal, Senator Arthur Robinson [Rep., Ind.] demanded to know whether it was true that investigators for the special committee investigating the ocean and air mail had copies of radiograms sent to Kermit Roosevelt on the Nourmahal by P. A. S. Franklin, president of I. M. M.

Senator Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.], committee chairman, avoided the direct question concerning the radiograms and the indirect implications that Cousin Kermit and friend Vince had used the cruise as an occasion for a bit of quiet lobbying. But he promised that I. M. M. would be investigated, that Kermit Roosevelt and Astor would be called, and that Senator Robinson would have an opportunity to ask them any questions he might desire.

Company Enjoys Concessions.

"It has been charged," said Senator Robinson, "that the I. M. M. is completely dominated by Vincent Astor, who put into it some one-half million dollars. It has been reported that the Black committee has got hold of certain radiograms sent by President Franklin of the I. M. M. to Kermit Roosevelt on the Nourmahal telling him what sort of story to give to President Roosevelt concerning the I. M. M.

"The I. M. M. has valuable mail contracts and concessions from the government. What these radiograms told Kermit to say to his cousin, Frankin D., nobody knows, but if their contents were known to the country they might prove sensational, perhaps shocking. They should be made public. Everybody knows that the I. M. M. has been under suspicion.

"But," said the Indiana senator, looking across the chamber at Chairman Black, "it will take considerable pressure to make the investigating committee investigate the I. M. M."

Has Distinguished Audience.

Never before, perhaps, has the usually prosaic business of opening bids for government contracts drawn as distinguished an audience as attended unsealing of the air mail bids.

Postmaster General Farley, whose cancelation of the air mail contracts created a national uproar, sat at one end of a big table. Near him was Clarence Chamberlain, one of the noted aviators who criticized the cancelation. Col. L. H. Britten, who went to jail for contempt of the senate, was also there, together with the presidents and officials of several aviation companies, some of which in the past have striven vainly to get air mail contracts.

Whistles and exclamations greeted the reading of some of the bids. The government maximum had been set at 44 cents per airplane mile, and many of the big companies' bids ranged around the 40 cent mark.

But the bid of Pacific Seaboard Air Lines, Inc., for the Chicago-New Orleans route was 17½ cents. In comparison, the bids of the other companies on this same route were as follows: American Air Lines, Inc., 39½ cents; Wedell-Williams Air Service, Inc., 30 cents; Muncie Aviation corporation, 30 cents; Braniff Airways, Inc., 22½ cents; St. Louis Flying Service, Inc., 24 cents; Robertson Airplane Service, Inc., 28 cents.

Many Companies Newly Formed.

Postmaster General Farley hastened to explain that a low bidder need not be awarded a contract. It was pointed out that many of the companies have been hastily organized and their financial standing may be insecure.

"All of the bids received were at a lower rate than was paid for the same routes and the same service under the contracts which were annulled on Feb. 19," he said. "A considerable saving to the government is assured by these bids. The competition appeared to be keen and bona fide.

Face Mail Quiz

Kermit Roosevelt and Vincent Astor, companions of the President on recent cruise and one an official and both stockholders of big shipping line, who face quiz before senate air mail investigating committee.

"All bids were carefully analyzed by air mail officials of the postoffice department, officials of the aëronautics branch of the department of commerce, the solicitor of the postoffice department, and a special assistant attorney general.

"Before any contract is awarded it will be determined whether the bids were responsive to the advertisments and the responsibility of the bidders and the adequacy of the equipment will also be determined. It will be several days before the contracts can be awarded."

Old Companies Under New Names.

Many of the country's old air mail lines whose contracts were canceled two months ago appeared under new names in the bids, having conducted reorganizations to comply with the postoffice department action.

United Air lines, one of the largest air transport systems, was underbid by a number of competitors on routes involving Chicago. The bidding, for example, on the Chicago-Dallas route was as follows: United Air Lines, Inc., 39½ cents; Alfred Frank, 35 cents; Braniff Airways, Inc., 22½ cents; Midwest Airways corporation, 39.9 cents.

Officials of the United Air Lines have said that unless they have air mail contracts they may be forced out of business. The company had no competition in bidding for the Newark-Chicago route and the Chicago-Oakland route. In both instances its bid was 39 cents.

The bids opened today were on 17 main routes and at least one bid was received for each route. Bids on four additional routes are to be opened a week from today. These 21 routes comprise about 80 per cent of the mileage flown by commercial concerns before the cancelation order.

The bidding on other Chicago routes was as follows:

Chicago-Jacksonville: Eastern Air Lines, Inc., 19 cents; Braniff Airways, Inc., 35 cents; American Air Lines, Inc., 39½ cents.

Chicago-Pembina, N. D. [The United States portion of the Chicago-Winnipeg route]: Northwest Air Lines, Inc., 39 cents; Hanford's Tri-State Air Lines, Inc., 19 6-10 cents; National Air Line Taxi System, 24½ cents.

Political Phases Emerge.

The senate interchange between Republican Robinson of Indiana and Chairman Black of the investigating committee again emphasized the political uses to which the air mail controversy has been put.

Two months ago letters were brought out showing the confidence felt by certain shipping interests in their ability to influence President [then President-elect] Roosevelt. A. J. Ball of the Pennsylvania railroad, which was interested in a proposed new shipping line, and in which the I. M. M. also was interested, wrote to an associate:

"We feel we are in close enough to Mr. Farley [now postmaster general] through Vincent Astor to accomplish what we want. Kermit Roosevelt is away with Vincent Astor and the President elect on Mr. Astor's yacht, and we have wired a complete statement of facts to Mr. Kermit Roosevelt so that he can get in his good work as soon as possible."

That letter referred to the cruise of February, 1933, which ended with the assassination attempt at Miami.

Another Letter Cited.

Another letter from Ball during that period said that the "Roosevelt-I. M. M. people" felt they were "strong" with the incoming administration.

Senator Robinson suggested that the "Roosevelt-I. M. M. people" still felt they were strong with the President.

Concurring in the conference committee report on the war department appropriation bill today the senate approved the committee's action in cutting in half a 10 million dollar fund to be used by the President in his discretion to build up the army air corps.

18 HIGH SPEED BOMBERS WILL CARRY AIR MAIL

The army air mail corps is planning to reduce the flying time on transcontinental air routes to 12 hours or less, it was disclosed yesterday at the Chicago airport. The speediest coast to coast schedule flown by the commercial lines, prior to the cancelation of their contracts last Feb. 20, was 14 hours. The army hopes to cut this time substantially, it was said, by using 18 Martin bombing planes on the east-west airways. Six of these planes have already been stationed in the western zone and six others were delivered this week to the military mail pilots in the eastern zone. The central zone of operations which lies between Chicago and Cheyenne, Wyo., will receive its equipment within a short time.

The Martin bomber is the newest and probably the most deadly attack weapon acquired by the army air corps. It is the fastest high altitude bomber in the world today. It has a speed in excess of 230 miles an hour carrying a load of 2,000 pounds of bombs, defensive armament of machine guns and ammunition, fuel for 1,500 miles range, and a crew of three. As a military ship its best performance is registered at an altitude of 20,000 feet. It is powered with two 750 horsepower Cyclone motors.

VIOLATES CODE, 35 CENT SUIT PRESSER JAILED

Small Shop Tailor Given 30 Days, Fined $100.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—A Jersey City tailor, father of four children, today was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $100 for pressing a 3 piece suit for 35 cents instead of 40 cents as prescribed under the code.

Jacob Maged, 49, is the luckless small shop tailor who was sentenced by Common Pleas Judge Robert V. Kinkhead after pleading guilty to violation of the state code for tailors.

Penalty Should Deter Others.

"The state and federal authorities are now engaged in regulating industry by means of codes, in order to reduce unemployment and raise the standard of wages," Judge Kinkhead said. "The punishment for violation of these codes should be one which will deter others."

The legal fight to enforce the cleaners' and dyers' code waxed hotter today as the Spotless Dollar Cleaners, Inc., were granted a stay, pending an appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, of the injunction restraining them from doing work below code prices.

The injunction was granted last week by Federal Judge John C. Knox on the plea of United States Attorney Martin Conboy, and the cleaning company appealed. Mr. Conboy opposed the stay, expressing fear that a hearing on the appeal could not be had until fall.

However, Judge Learned Hand of the U. S. Appellate court fixed May 19 as the date for the appellant to file its record and brief, and promised that the hearing could be over and the decision passed within 30 days. The stay was granted by Judge Hand and Judges Thomas W. Swan and Harris B. Chase.

Hosiery Plant Loses Blue Eagle.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—(AP)—After many weeks of delay, during which President Roosevelt's intercession was sought by employés, the Harriman Hosiery company Harriman, Tenn., tonight was ordered by Hugh S. Johnson to surrender its Blue Eagle for alleged violation of the labor section of the industrial law.

The Harriman case involved refusal by the company to accept settlement of a strike as proposed by the national labor board; a request by the latter on March 13 that the Eagle be removed.

WILLETT TO SUE WIFE ON CHARGE OF DESERTION

Divorce Action to Reopen Sensational Case.

Howard L. Willett, wealthy head of a trucking company, indicated last night that he would contest the separate maintenance suit brought by his estranged wife, Mrs. Grace Williamson Willett, 2130 Lincoln Park West. The effect of Willett's action will be to reopen the sensational hearings before Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court in which Mrs. Willett has demanded $25,000 a year for living expenses and in which her husband has intimated that she was guilty of improprieties with Edmund Harris Jr., a young architect.

Attorneys Jay Fred Reeve and J. B. Martineau of the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, counsel for Willett, announced last night that they would appear before Judge Desort this morning and file a cross bill for divorce in which he will charge desertion. Notice of the impending cross bill was served on the firm of Socrates, Davis & Cohen, representing Mrs. Willett.

Willett's Suit a Surprise.

Although it had been rumored for several weeks that Mrs. Willett was balking at the settlement on which she and her husband had agreed in Judge Desort's chambers on March 10, Willett's action came as a surprise. It had been expected that Mrs. Willett would acquiesce to the terms of the settlement this week-end.

Under the terms of the settlement Mrs. Willett was guaranteed an income of $17,500 annually for five years by her husband. This was to be made up from incomes from an insurance trust and from one-third of the Willett Trucking company stock, which would be assigned to Mrs. Willett. For the five year period Willett would contribute any amount necessary to assure the $17,500 annually. After five years the guarantee would be canceled, but it was not expected that Mrs. Willett's income would ever fall appreciably below this figure.

Other provisions of the settlement were that Willett was to give his wife $3,200 to pay her current debts and that she was to determine whether the penthouse apartment at the Lincoln Park West address is an asset or a liability. If she regarded it as an asset she was to be given outright title to it, but if it was considered a liability she and Willett were to continue to hold it in joint tenancy.

Agreement to Ask Divorce.

In return for the settlement, Mrs. Willett agreed to amend her separate maintenance bill to one for absolute divorce, charging desertion, and to dismiss her million dollar suit against Mrs. Mary Cave Hall, wealthy widow, charging alienation of Willett's affections. This suit is still pending.

Attorney Martineau said that since the conference in Judge Desort's chambers he had sent ten property agreements to Nicholas Socrates and Benjamin B. Davis, Mrs. Willett's lawyers, but that she had refused to sign any of them because she would not accede to the specific terms of the settlement.

"She doesn't seem to know what she wants," Attorney Martineau said, "and so we are forced to file this cross bill for Mr. Willett.

Accuses Wife of Cruelty.

The cross bill alleges that, beginning on Jan. 1, 1932, Mrs. Willett "commenced a course of harsh and cruel conduct, calculated to drive him [Willett] from their home; that she requested him to leave their home and caused his baggage to be packed; and that she continuously demanded that he grant her a divorce and she retained various attorneys to represent her in proposed divorce proceedings in an attempt to obtain an exorbitant property settlement from him."

The bill further says Willett has since discovered that her purpose was that she might obtain her freedom and a property settlement "so that she might fulfill her desire to marry another man."

In depositions taken at Waukegan on behalf of Mrs. Hall in the alienation suit an effort was made to show that Mrs. Willett had had an affair with Harris and that she had discussed a divorce with her husband for the purpose of marrying Harris before Mrs. Hall came into the picture. Witnesses for Mrs. Willett denied that there were any improprieties between Harris and Mrs. Willet during a Mexican tour on which they were together in 1932. Attorney Reeve tried to introduce evidence concerning the Mexican tour at the separate maintenance hearings, but this type of questioning was blocked by the objections of Attorney Davis.

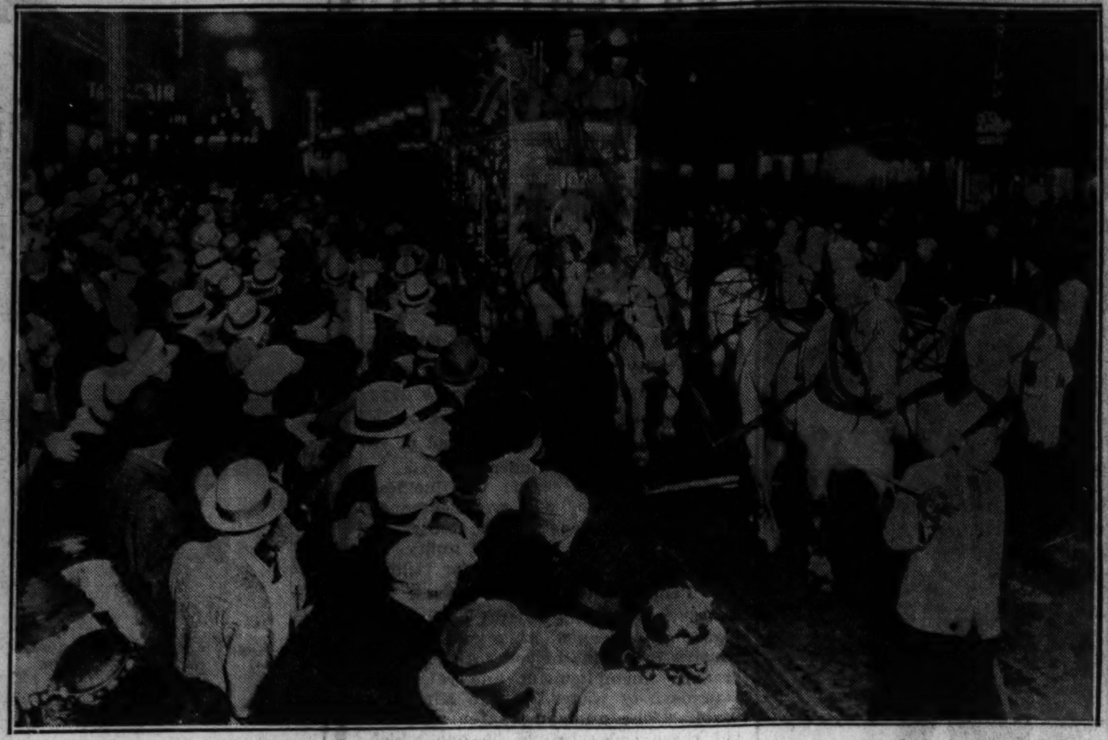
Forced to Leave, He Says.

Mr. Willett states in his cross bill that he was compelled to leave his wife on Jan. 6, 1933, "in order that he might retain sufficient peace of mind to continue to operate his business and thereby supply her with the luxuries she demanded." Mr. Willett contends that the alleged action of his wife in forcing him to leave home constitutes desertion on her part. His bill also alleges that the charges against Mrs. Hall are untrue.

Attorney Socrates said last night that the cross bill was a "complete surprise." He said he had anticipated that the settlement would go through soon and asserted that Mr. Willett had no basis for the allegations in his bill.

Harris, who was married several months ago, is living at the Plaza hotel, 1553 North Clark street. When informed that Willett charged that Mrs. Willett wanted a divorce for the purpose of marrying another man, Harris said: "That's only Mr. Willett's idea to drag somebody else into the case." Harris is defendant in a suit in the federal court charging misuse of the mails. It was charged that he wrote an extortion note to Mrs. Hall demanding $5,000 on the promise that he would have the alienation suit withdrawn.

Downtown Circus Parade Thrills Thousands, Young and Old



Scene in the loop last night as the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus parade rolled by to the mutual enjoyment of thousands, young and old. Thirty-two elephants tramping through loop streets in double file, other animals of the jungle, combined with the screaming of calliopes and the usual fanfare of circus pageantry sent hundreds home with the idea of seeing more of the picture when the circus opens today in the Coliseum.

Circus Opens Today

Thousands of children perched on shoulders, automobile tops, and other vantage points were the most thrilled members of an audience of more than 20,000 that lined downtown sidewalks last night to see the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus parade. The show opens today at the Coliseum, where the procession began and ended.

Thirty-two elephants marched in double file in State street from 9th street to Wacker drive, accompanied by prancing steeds carrying men and women riders. From wagon cages, lions and tigers snarled at the bright lights of State street, two Russian bears engaged in what looked like a fight, and a hippopotamus splashed water from his tank on the crowd.

One exciting incident of the parade occurred when a horse slipped and fell, and was trampled by his three harness mates.

'COUNT' ACCUSED ON HOTEL DEBT FREED BY JUDGE

Anthony de Bosdari, who says he is an Italian count, won a dismissal on charges of defrauding an innkeeper yesterday when he appeared before Judge Frederick W. Elliott in South State Street court. De Bosdari was arrested on Thursday on the complaint of John Eicker, manager of the Sovereign hotel, 6200 Kenmore avenue, who charged him with nonpayment of a hotel bill for $87.06.

Judge Elliott agreed to enter a nol pros after De Bosdari promised to make restitution.

De Bosdari was arrested at the Maryland hotel, 900 Rush street, where he had registered March 9 under the name of A. H. Burch. He is the former husband of Miss Josephine Fish, daughter of Mrs. Charles King Corsant of Chicago. She divorced him in 1928 on the grounds of infidelity. A year alter she married Lieut. Thomas J. Ryan of the United States navy.

Folsom Going to Capital to Push Teachers' Pay Fight

Richard S. Folsom, board of education attorney, will take to Washington tonight a survey of Chicago school finances which is expected to provide a basis for congressional action next week on one of two plans to play in full back salaries of teachers and school employés.

Mr. Folsom indicated that he will remain in the capital until a definite decision on pending plans is made. He declared yesterday that all information from Washington points to early enactment of legislation which will provide funds for settlement of the board's $31,000,000 salary debt.

Seeks Federal Loan.

The first plan under consideration is one devised by Mayor Kelly, which would provide for a federal loan up to $40,000,000 against Chicago school property not used for educational purposes and additional school securities. The second proposal, drafted by Prof. Simeon E. Leland, University of Chicago economist, who is now head of a treasury department tax committee, calls for an RFC purchase of $32,500,000 of school board's 1934 tax anticipation warrants.

"Mayor Kelly and the board of education are not interested in which plan is adopted," Mr. Folsom said. "They want to pay the teachers and either proposal will accomplish this. It's near the last inning in Washington and every indication points to favorable action soon. I feel confident that one of these plans will go through."

Harry J. Brackett, school auditor, yesterday completed a statement of school finances which Mr. Folsom will take to the capital. The statement shows Chicago is well qualified for either of the federal loans, the attorney said. It was drafted at the request of the congressional subcommittee now considering the Kelly plan.

Debt Now $24,400,000.

The financial report shows that on April 30 the board of education will owe teachers $24,400,000 and other school employés $5,600,000. These accounts will be the first paid if federal aid is received, Mr. Folsom said.

"I'm going to Washington because Mayor Kelly wants money to pay the teachers," he said. "Whether we get it by the purchase of warrants or a loan similar to those the Reconstruction Finance corporation has already made to banks and railroads is unimportant. What interests us is the fact that we have adequate security for loans and that congressmen and government officials have declared themselves favorable to our plans."

Mr. Folsom will confer with a number of congressmen, including J. A. Sabath [Dem., Ill.] who introduced the first school bill, and James Simpson Jr. [Rep., Ill.], who has been pushing it in committee, and with Prof. Leland.

HIJACK $5,000 LOAD OF BUTTER; KIDNAP DRIVER

A truck containing 18,000 pounds of butter, valued at $5,000, was hijacked by six armed men near Harlem avenue and 31st street early yesterday, the driver and his helper kidnaped, and the cargo stolen.

The driver was Bert Taylor, 320 West 29th street, an employé of the Powell Brothers Motor Service. The helper was Lyle Thompson of Springfield, Mo., and the truck was en route from the latter town to the Armour & Co. plant in Waukegan.

Three of the hijackers manned the truck, while Taylor and Lyle were forced into the bandit machine. They were driven about for several hours, then hurled from the car at 63d street and Cicero avenue. Taylor suffered a broken nose in the fall to the pavement.

Sergt. Bernard Kennedy of the cartage detail reported the truck was found empty later in the day in Blue Island.

FINES 22 AFTER RAID.

Police Magistrate Henry J. Sandusky of Cicero yesterday assessed fines ranging from $5 to $100 against six women and three men arrested March 31 in a raid on an alleged disorderly house in Calumet City. Thirteen men were fined $5 on charges of being patrons.

Kenneth B. Fiske and His Former Wife Rewed

Kenneth B. Fiske, 1210 Astor street, and his former wife, Mrs. Ellen Spry Fiske, yesterday got a marriage license. Last evening George E. Spry, brother of Mrs. Fiske, whose residence also is at 1210 Astor street, said the couple had been remarried and had gone away on a honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. Fiske were married for the first time in 1912. They separated in 1930. They are the parents of a daughter, Jennie. Mr. Fiske formerly was an official of the Roberts Portable Oven company in Chicago and later was an executive of a stove manufacturing company in Albion, Mich.

Woman Hotel Proprietor Indicted for Murder

An indictment charging murder was returned by the Du Page county grand jury at Wheaton yesterday against Mrs. Ida Michaels, 52 years old, of Bensenville, proprietor of a small hotel. On April 7, Mrs. Michaels took her former husband, Jesse, to the Elmhurst hospital and left him there, after reporting he had been hurt in an automobile accident. Examination disclosed that he had been shot in the back. He died later of his wound. She admitted after being arrested that she and Jesse had quarreled, but denied shooting him.

SMALL PRINTERS SAY NRA PERILS THEIR BUSINESS

Assert High Prices Drive Away Trade.

The small job printers of Chicago, who employ 6,000 persons and collectively have an investment of $3,000,000 in this city, assert that they cannot continue to remain in business and abide by the provisions of the National Recovery Act printing code. This was disclosed yesterday after a survey of a number of the small shop owners.

All the printers in Chicago, whether owners of large, modern plants or of small shops with only one press, are governed under the NRA by the Chicago printing code authority, which is the Chicago Graphic Arts federation. Ten men chosen from the industry are members of the code authority and took part in fixing the provisions of the industry's code.

The small shop owners, while refusing to be quoted directly, charged that they were unrepresented in the membership of the code authority. They stated that the owners of large plants, with investments in excess of $25,000 each, elected eight members of the code authority and the small shop owners the remaining two members. Thus, they said, the policies of the Chicago code authority represented the sentiment of the larger shop owners exclusively.

Price Levels Fixed.

Under the code provisions, the small shop owners stated, prices for certain types of work were fixed at definite levels. They added that the quality of paper and inks used in the job printing was also definitly set by the code.

These prices, they charged, are so high that the man who needs only a small amount of printing will refrain from having it done. They stated that the code provisions will force the small purchaser out of business and thus will force the small printer who depended upon this business for his livelihood to close his shop. The small shop owners charged that the high code prices would kill the class of business upon which they depended.

Several of the small shop owners charged that the code is especially unjust to them because the price of paper has jumped from 80 cents a ream to $1.90 cents a ream in many cases. The code, they added, prohibits the use of "seconds," which enabled them to cut prices.

Code Fees Cut Profits.

Code fees cut more deeply into the profits of the small printer than into the larger, the small shop owners charged, adding that according to code rules they are forced to pay $25 each year for the Franklin printing catalog which has been adopted as the standard periodical fixing job printing prices.

James Kane, president of the Kane Storage company and head of the Chicago authority for the national furniture and piano moving and household storage code, announced yesterday that permanent terms for the code have been accepted by NRA authorities in Washington. The movers, after a struggle, were able to keep the code for their industry separate from the trucking code, although they use large numbers of trucks in their business.

Gunmen Raid Hospital and Rob Superintendent of $200

Five gunmen invaded the Lutheran Deaconess' hospital at 1138 North Leavitt street late yesterday and robbed the superintendent, E. E. Hanson, of $200. After warning Hanson and a young woman cashier to make no outcry, the gang ran to their car outside, where a companion was waiting at the wheel, and escaped.

Report New Oil Strike on Farm Near Moline, Ill.

MANUFACTURERS' BODY VOICES OPPOSITION TO STATE NRA BILL

The Illinois Manufacturers' association, through its board of directors, unanimously went on record yesterday as being opposed to the state industrial recovery bill now pending before the Illinois legislature at Springfield. The bill would provide for state enforcement of the terms of the NRA.

"We believe that this measure is unnecessary, untimely and unwise, and should be vigorously opposed by workers, employers, and the general public," stated the association.

Citing from an opinion prepared by its law firm, the association declared that the effect of the state bill, if enacted, would be for the state to abdicate a large part of its vital and inherent powers. State authorities would become mere agents of the federal government, the association suggested.

"It is universally recognized," continued the association's statement, "that the NRA is an experimental undertaking. The experiment is still in progress. The success of the experiment can be determined only by actual experience. Under such circumstances, it seems wholly improper to undertake to project the novel principles of the NRA into state legislation."

CHICAGO WINS A REHEARING IN GRAND JURY CASE

Supreme Court Grants Courtney's Petition.

The Illinois Supreme court at Springfield yesterday granted a rehearing of the Jack Lieber case, in which the majority of the court previously had decided that the methods used in selecting grand juries in Cook county were illegal.

Under the court decision, announced on Feb. 24, doubt was cast on the legality of some 700 pending indictments, affecting 1,000 defendants. It was also feared by State's Attorney Courtney and other officials that it would necessitate the freeing or retrial of many notorious criminals, including the three Touhy gangsters who have been convicted of the kidnaping of John Factor.

Obtain Stay of Mandate.

Mr. Courtney and Attorney General Otto Kerner immediately took steps to have a reconsideration of the decision. On Feb. 27 the attorney general obtained from Chief Justice Warren H. Orr a stay of mandate, at the same time filing his petition for a rehearing on the ground that additional evidence should be presented to show that the Supreme court had erred in its ruling.

In granting the rehearing yesterday Chief Justice Orr made the following statement:

"A petition for rehearing has been filed in this case and the court, after consideration, has decided to grant it. Our action in this regard is not to be taken as any indication that the majority of this court has reached a conclusion against the original opinion filed in this case on Feb. 23. It has been the rule in this court to grant rehearings in any case where its further consideration is deemed advisable. We have always given the consideration to all matters before us which the public welfare and the correctness of our decisions might seem to require.

Invite Additional Briefs.

"From the petition of the attorney general it appears that he desires to present new arguments and that the public interest requires their consideration. We invite not only the attorney general but likewise the attorneys for Jack Lieber to file additional briefs with such additional authorities as may be collected, particularly on the subject of whether the statutory directions relative to the method of impaneling a grand jury are mandatory or directory. No decision will be reached in this case until we have had sufficient time to thoroughly consider the issues involved and to give attention to such additional authorities as may be cited."

Jack Lieber, the central figure in this legal struggle, is an obscure robber who was sent to the Joliet penitentiary to serve one year to life. Attorney Bernhart Frank, representing him, pressed the case in such a manner that it was necessary for the Supreme court to rule directly on the legality of the grand jury selections in Cook county.

Contends Jury Was Illegal.

The statute on selection states that "twenty-three veniremen shall be called for grand jury service." It was Attorney Frank's contention that the grand jury which indicted Lieber was not legal because the sherif had summoned not twenty-three, but sixty, men for jury service. Of the sixty, all but four reported to the court. All of these but twenty-five were dismissed, and twenty-three of these, chosen by lot, became the grand jury.

Under a strict interpretation of the letter of the law, Mr. Frank argued, the indictment of Lieber was void because the sherif called more than an exact twenty-three grand jurymen.

The state Supreme court divided on its ruling in the matter, five to two. Two justices, Frederic R. De Young and Clyde E. Stone, held that the grand jury, regardless of the summoning method, was legal. Chief Justice Orr, however, wrote the majority opinion, in which it was stated that as Lieber's attorney had claimed at the trial the indictment was illegal he was not convicted according to law. The trial judge, the Supreme court majority ruled, should have quashed the indictment.

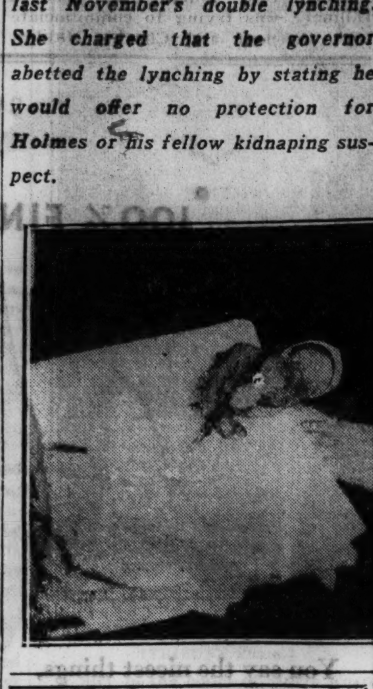
System for 60 Years.

For 60 years the calling of grand juries has been done in Cook county by the method that was held illegal. All defendants who have been tried since 1929, and whose attorneys have raised the point that Lieber raised, according to Mr. Courtney, would have to be retried if the original decision stood. He estimated that this would cost at least a million dollars and would mean, in practice, that many of those already convicted would go free.

Attorney General Kerner's application for a rehearing was drawn by experts on Mr. Courtney's staf. They will aid him in the presentation of the arguments for a reversal of the former majority opinion.

Governor Rolph Sued Over Lynchings

Gov. James Rolph Jr. of California, who was sued for $1,050,000 yesterday by Mrs. Evelyn Holmes, widow of John Holmes, victim in last November's double lynching. She charged that the governor abetted the lynching by stating he would offer no protection for Holmes or his fellow kidnaping suspect.



HUNT WOMAN HERE AS NEW LINDBERGH CLEW GAINS IMPETUS

Boston, Mass., April 20.—[Special.]—The Lindbergh kidnaping clew involving William Lardner, federal prison convict, today gained additional impetus when the secret service department requested Chicago police to locate a woman accomplice who escaped when he was arrested last Jan. 24, in a downtown Boston hotel.

This development occurred while local federal officials and outside police and department of justice units continued to exchange controversial views on the importance of the Lardner photograph and gold belt buckle.

The hunt for the woman has been opened as a result of information recently called to the attention of the secret service bureau here. She disappeared while Lardner was struggling to escape from the arresting officers in the hotel lobby, but hotel employés furnished police with an excellent description of her.

United States Marshal John J. Murphy again replied to the denials of New York and Chicago authorities in connection with his request to ask Dr. John F. [Jafsie] Condon to visit Boston to view a photograph of Lardner. The department of justice here is quoted as being "keenly interested" in Lardner's reputed connection with the Roger Touhy gang of Chicago.

Police Bullet Subdues Chauffeur with Pistol

George Cebulinski, 27 years old, 1728 West 15th street, a chauffeur, was shot in the right arm by police last night after he had allegedly terrorized the neighborhood with a gun. Police said he was drunk. Summoned by neighbors, Policemen John Mackey, Edward Quinn, and John Shanahan of the Marquette station went to the Cebulinski home. He leveled a small rifle at Mackey, but dropped it when Mackey pinked him in the arm with a bullet. In Cebulinski's pocket police found a toy "Dillinger" gun.

The $100 monthly James A. Patten award for March was divided yesterday among five patrolmen, a sergeant, and a lieutenant of the Evanston police force. The award is confined to Evanston. The winners were Policemen Jack Serbin, Edward Bessean, George Ammon, Henry Engstrom, and Otto Brey; Sergt. Anton Schultz and Lieut. Carl Ekman. All of them captured burglars.

JACOBS ASKS TAX CHIEFS TO MEET ON 15 PCT. CUT

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday including those for 1932 were $2,154,174, making a total of $157,378,969 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the four years follow:

	1928	1929
April 20........	$ 10,522	$ 18,665
Uncollected	14,558,010	39,191,146
	1930	1931
April 20........	$ 40,310	$ 152,504
Uncollected	63,089,419	57,099,605

The day's collection of 1932 real estate taxes totaled $1,942,173, of 1931 personal property taxes $10,188, and of 1932 personal property taxes $781,383.

Assessor J. L. Jacobs yesterday announced he has invited Cook county taxing officials and Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton to a meeting in his office today to discuss the effect of the 15 per cent reduction ordered by County Judge Jarecki on the 1931 assessments on single homes and small flat buildings. The assessor said he would ask the officials for advice on carrying out the reduction. Revisions on the assessments have been concluded by Mr. Jacobs' staf in the township of Rogers Park. Assessments in Lake View township are now being revised.

ROLPH, OTHERS SUED BY WIDOW OF LYNCH VICTIM

Woman Seeks Damages of $1,050,000.

San Francisco, Cal., April 20.—(AP)—Gov. James Rolph Jr. of California, who declared the lynching at San José last November of two kidnap-slayer suspects "the best lesson California ever has given the country," was sued today for $1,050,000 by the widow of one of the victims.

Mrs. Evelyn Holmes, widow of John M. Holmes, alleged in her complaint the governor aided and abetted in inciting the public mind by statements he would offer no protection to Holmes and Harold Thomas Thurmond, held as suspects in the kidnap-slaying of Brooke L. Hart, young San José merchant.

The suit also named as defendants Sherif William J. Emig of Santa Clara county, from which jail the men were dragged by a mob and hanged to trees; the San José News and radio station KQW of San José and its operators. Fred J. Hart, C. V. Dahl, and Eva P. Hart, and 100 John Does, ten identified as San Francisco policemen.

Made Children's Guardian.

Mrs. Holmes filed the suit in her own name and that of her two children, David, 6, and Joyce, 5. She was made their guardian today by Superior Judge Timothy I. Fitzgerald and her suit asks $50,000 actual damages and $1,000,000 punitive damages.

Apprised of the suit, Gov. Rolph said, "I haven't seen any of the papers yet, so I can't comment."

After the lynching there was repercussion throughout the country, but the governor retracted nothing, asserting: "The might of the people was aroused to serve notice that kidnaping and murder will not be tolerated in California."

The governor, who declined to call out National Guardsmen when a mob gathered and allegedly proclaimed his intention of pardoning "any one who is arrested for lynching those two guys," was accused in the suit of "violating his oath of office, and aiding, abetting, and encouraging the mob."

Suit Blames Sherif.

Sherif Emig, who was slightly injured when a section of the crowd stormed the jail and seized Holmes and Thurmond a few hours after the body of young Hart was taken from lower San Francisco bay, was blamed for allegedly disarming his deputies and turning Holmes over to the mob.

Regarding the allegations against the San José News, the complaint sets forth the charge "that the paper inflamed and enraged the minds of the other defendants and other persons in San Francisco and Santa Clara counties against John M. Holmes.

FEWER POLICE THAN LAWYERS CROOKED, GEN. O'RYAN INSISTS

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Police Commissioner John F. O'Ryan, who was assailed by the association of the bar of the city of New York because he adversely criticized the characters of lawyers, made public today a letter in which he states that "the percentage of dishonorable men in the police department is a lower percentage than the percentage of dishonorable men among the members of the bar in the city of New York."

The letter, addressed to Thomas D. Thacher, president of the association, asserted he considered the standard of the bar as a whole low.

The dispute began when the commissioner was quoted as saying in a speech, "members of the New York police department are of a higher integrity than members of the City Bar association." Judge Thacher wrote to Gen. O'Ryan and took him to task.

POLICE OF CICERO CAPTURE GANG OF TAXICAB BANDITS

Sergt. George Comerford and his squad, of Cicero, yesterday caught up with three young men who they say have been luring taxicab drivers out to Cicero and then robbing them.

The men are Edward Kozlonski, 20 years old, 5219 West 29th place; Joseph Zarelski, 19, of 5119 West 29th place, and James Groenendal, 19, of 1845 South 55th court, all of Cicero. Police say the three have confessed robbing seven taxicab drivers recently.

During the last few weeks these drivers complained they had been hired in Chicago or elsewhere by three youths, directed to Cicero, and then robbed. Early yesterday Sergt. Comerford and his men kept an eye on Chicago cabs entering Cicero. They saw one containing the three youths, stopped them on suspicion, and found they had landed the right ones.

WOMN, 63, DIES AFTER FALL.

Mrs. Emma Becker, 63 years old, 324 Starr street, died yesterday in the county hospital of pneumonia and complications resulting from a fall in her home a week ago.

Pointers—that name for our bow ties is of our own choosing and it gets across more than just the idea of the general shape of these bows. Here is easily a hundred good pointers in what is new in bow tie patterns, colors and fabrics for spring and summer, 1934. Clusters and widely spread small figures on silk foulard, repp silks that cling to stripes for pattern, but choose stripes in the narrower widths running closely together or widely separated for best effect.

As to headgear, the crusher, as it is called, because you can do anything with it up to tying it in knots, is one felt hat whose good points not enough men know about. The ease and comfort, for instance, with which it rests upon the head. Its ability to take any shape its owner thinks he looks best in and, above all, its lightness of weight. It's easily half the weight of the felt we men are accustomed to wearing during the winter months. In grey, brown, and blue.

The Habana—To quote the recent Palm Beach footnotes just released—was accorded phenomenal acceptance. It was the one type of sports footwear seen everywhere. After trying on a pair of this Cuban idea in shoes, we can well understand it. Here's a new treat in easy going footwear. The Habana has heavy looking but actually very light weight crepe rubber soles and the uppers are of brown elkskin and white elkskin.

CURRY TUMBLES FROM THRONE OF TAMMANY, 10-14

Steering Committee Is to Succeed Boss.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Tammany deposed John F. Curry tonight.

The executive committee adopted a resolution revoking the leadership vested in Mr. Curry five years ago by a vote of 14 1-3 to 10 1-6. The only absentee was a pro-Curry member with one-half a vote.

Thus concluded a revolt brewing ever since Mr. Curry opposed the nominations of Franklin D. Roosevelt for President and of Herbert H. Lehman for governor. Insurgency throve on the defeat last November of John P. O'Brien, candidate for reëlection as mayor, and the rest of the Tammany city ticket.

Despite repeated requests for his resignation, some of them by friends who wished to save him from humiliation, Mr. Curry refused to comply. An unannounced test vote failed to budge him. He thus became the first leader of Tammany Hall to be ousted, although others have resigned under pressure.

Berates Old Allies.

Mr. Curry virtually charged James J. Hines, old standby leader of the 11th district, whose arrival in the forenoon from Arkansas had furnished an illusory hope of victory, of "double-crossing" him.

He charged William P. Kenneally, chairman of the executive committee, with ingratitude in opposing him after he had made him a sachem of the Tammany society. He also, by inference, accused David Lazarus of the 6th district, who occupied a key position on the roll call, with disloyalty.

He hinted of appeal to the courts, declaring that he had been elected leader to serve until 1935 and that the executive committee did not have the power to oust him.

This threat did not impress the successful insurgents, who commented that Mr. Curry had shown himself a "poor loser." Next week or the week after, Mr. Kenneally will call another meeting of the executive committee to pick, not an individual leader to succeed Mr. Curry, but a steering committee of three, five or seven members. No agreement on the membership of this committee has been reached.

Session Strictly Executive.

Before the resolution was offered to withdraw from Mr. Curry the authority conferred upon him in 1929 to "perform the duties and to exercise the powers theretofore performed and exercised by the Hon. George W. Olvany, and to act as county leader . . . in and for the county of New York," several prominent Democrats, including former Mayor John P. O'Brien, tried to attend the meeting.

With varying degrees of grace, these leaders complied with the chairman's order to depart. Guards then prevented access to the third floor and kept doors and gates closed.

After the meeting, Mr. Curry maintained silence.

THE OAK PARK POLICE WILL DO WHAT THEY CAN

Oak Park police strive to please. Last night Mrs. Edward Geiss telephoned Desk Sergeant Edward Ritter from a point about 18 miles west of Oak Park. "I left my electric curling iron burning in my home at 531 South Cuyler avenue," she said. "Won't you send some policemen there to shut off the electricity? They can pull out a fuse in the basement." In a few moments Detectives Alex Inglis and Milton Larson were at the Geiss home. They did more than pull out a fuse. They climbed through a pantry window and turned off the switch to which the burning iron was connected.

Second Watchman Dies of Wounds in Feud Shooting

Philip Hume, 50 years old, 4635 Malden street, a private watchman, died yesterday in the Bridewell hospital of bullet wounds received on March 26 in a gun duel with Mathias Kofler, 51 years old, 3043 Eastwood avenue, also a private watchman. Kofler, who also was shot in the fight, died the next day. The fight was the outgrowth of a feud over watch service rivalry. The deaths of both men were officially recorded as "manslaughter" by a coroner's jury last evening.

UNCONSCIOUS 5 DAYS.

PARISIAN WEDS MISS SPRECKELS AFTER SEA DASH

Had to Rush Home for Birth Record.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Suddenly, the handsome young Frenchman, Jean Du Puy, sportsman and millionaire, knew he was in love.

She was Miss Dorothy Constance Spreckels, San Francisco sugar heiress. She was living at the Hotel Pierre with her mother, Mrs. Adolph B. Spreckels.

"Will you," he said, or in words to that effect, "be mine?"

Miss Spreckels must have said yes. Overjoyed young Du Puy rushed to the marriage license bureau in the Municipal building. His hopes were dashed. He had to have his birth certificate. Undaunted, he jumped aboard the liner Europa, sailed for Paris on April 8.

He was in Paris only twenty-four hours. Then, with all necessary documents, he hurried aboard the liner Bremen. He arrived yesterday, raced in a taxi to his fianceé.

Then They Were Married.

They were married this afternoon at the Hotel Pierre, the ceremony being performed by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's cathedral.

Mr. Du Puy obtained his precious marriage license this morning of City Clerk Cruise. He said he was 24, his bride, 21.

He is a son of the late Senator Paul Du Puy, Paris newspaper owner, and a member of the family owning the newspaper Le Petit Parisien and Excelsior, as well as a chain of French magazines.

Mr. Du Puy brought over the French motorboat team for the international races in Florida in February. He returned to New York, met Miss Spreckels and their sudden engagement resulted.

Daughter of Adolph Spreckels.

The bride is the daughter of the late Adolph B. Spreckels and granddaughter of Claus Spreckels, founder of the family fortune. At the marriage ceremony she was attended by her sister, Mrs. John Rosencrans.

The new Mrs. Du Puy is a graduate of Miss Burke's school of San Francisco and Miss Dow's school in Briarcliff, N. Y. She made her debut at a ball given by her mother in San Francisco three years ago.

Her brother, Adolph B. Spreckels, married Lois Clarke, daughter of Lewis Nathan Clarke, New York banker. Her sister, Mrs. John Newton Rosencrans, is a well known horsewoman.

On her mother's side the former Miss Spreckels is a great-great-granddaughter of the Marquis Louis Claude Oenormand Bretteville.

Mr. Du Puy's sister is the Princess Guy de Polignac and his brother is Jacques Du Puy.

The newlyweds will sail for a honeymoon in Europe tomorrow and will make their home in Paris.

DEMOCRATS PAT BACKS; G. O. P. MAPS REAL FIGHT

Campbell, Johnson Named State Chairmen.

University of Illinois the Democrats named Oscar E. Mayer Jr. and Mrs. Glenn E. Plum of Chicago and Harold Pogue of Decatur, Illini football star almost 20 years ago.

The platform adopted was a summation of Democratic national and state deeds since President Roosevelt and Gov. Horner were inaugurated. It praised Senators James Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich, Speaker Rainey of the house of representatives, Mayor Kelly, State's Attorney Courtney and the scores of Democrats elected since the depression and those nominated at last week's primaries.

Urges Cohesive Organization.

The primary candidates themselves were introduced by Gov. Horner—candidates for congressman at large, Martin A. Brennan of Bloomington and M. L. Igoe of Chicago; John Stelle of McLeansboro, candidate for state treasurer, and John A. Wieland, candidate for superintendent of public instruction.

Chairman Campbell promised an "active, courageous, and militant campaign" in the fall. He announced that the state committee would support all candidates and that it would have no use for "Democrats who criticize other Democrats."

Keynoter Brooks at the Republican convention was none the less firm in demanding a return of the Republicans to power.

"It is a question," Brooks said, "of whether one part of the nation shall secede as it did in the dark days of the civil war; it is a more serious question of whether the form of government under which we have advanced to the forefront of the nations will be able to withstand attacks being made upon it from within and without.

"Let's not let the Democrats tell us we're the minority party; in this primary we polled the highest number of votes a party out of power ever polled in this state." Similar views were expressed by Brooks' running mate, Milton E. Jones of Williamsville, and William J. Stratton of Ingleside, candidate for state treasurer.

Republicans Well Knit.

Chairman Johnson added the prediction that the Republican party "is more united and harmonious than at any time in many years."

"We will begin our state organization campaign at once," he said, "certain that the people of Illinois still believe in the firmly established principles of American government. They do not want to be regimented like the people of Europe under its dictators. Our people do not want a continuance of the present management of public offices. They are fed up with the tactics of the state administration, especially with regard to legislative affairs. We look forward confidently to a great Republican victory in Illinois in November. All recent political signs point that way."

U. S. JURY INDICTS SIX FOR AIDING FLIGHT OF JOHN DILLINGER

St. Paul, Minn., April 20.—(AP)—George F. Sullivan, United States district attorney here, announced today indictments will be sought before a federal grand jury here Thursday against six persons named in a complaint charging they harbored John Dillinger, fugitive outlaw.

Four of those named in the complaint are held and a fifth, Eugene Green, was fatally wounded when he was captured by federal agents here April 3.

The four held are Evelyn Frechetti, reputed "girl friend" of Dillinger; Mrs. Beth Green, widow of Eugene Green; Dr. Clayton E. May, Minneapolis physician alleged to have treated Dillinger for a bullet wound, and Mrs. Augusta Salt, Dr. May's nurse. Evelyn Frechetti is held in Chicago, while the other three are in custody here. Revocation of Dr. May's license is to be considered May 8.

The other person named in the complaint is John Hamilton, Dillinger lieutenant, who still is at large.

UNDERLINE BIBLE TO GET MISSIVES TO DILLINGERITES

Columbus, O., April 20.—[Special.]—Prison authorities have intercepted letters to Harry Pierpont, doomed ally of John Dillinger, in which were found marked scriptural passages in religious pamphlets. Warden Preston E. Thomas said tonight he believes Dillinger was trying to communciate with Pierpont and Charles Makley, who are to die for the murder of Sherif Jess Sarber of Lima, and with Russell Clark, who is serving a life term.

In the indicated quotations occurred such phrases as: "Have no fear"; "Believe also in me"; "And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself; that where I am there shall ye be also"; "And whither I go ye know and the way ye know."

Federal inspectors today were tracing letters, some from Chicago.

TRADE INCREASE IS URGED HERE BY SOVIET ENVOY

New Ambassador Pays First Visit to Chicago.

A friendly relationship between the United States and soviet Russia, strengthened by an economic intercourse in which hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of machinery and materials will be purchased in this country, was forecast in Chicago last night by Alexander Antonovich Troyanovsky, first soviet ambassador to America.

Ambassador Troyanovsky addressed more than 1,000 persons, including many leading Chicagoans, at a banquet in the main ballroom of the Palmer house. He came to Chicago, for the first time, as the guest of the American-Russian Institute for Cultural Relations.

Ukrainians Register Protest.

Only one untoward incident marked the soviet ambassador's visit. After he finished his speech several pamphlets were tossed from the balcony of the ballroom by members of the Patriotic American Ukrainian Citizens' committee protesting against the soviet treatment of Ukrainians. Incidentally a scheduled picketing of the Palmer house by girls in Ukrainian costume did not materialize.

The pamphlets carried a lengthy declaration which stated in part: "Today, while the communist soviet ambassador is being feasted in Chicago, his government is murdering and starving millions of Ukrainian peasants -- our relatives and friends in the Ukraine—because they are Christians who do not like to have their churches destroyed, their children brutalized in state institutions by atheist communists. They [soviets] boldly boast of it all in their papers. We protest the loaning of millions of American dollars to the soviet murderers."

Greeted at Rail Station.

Two or three hundred persons, mostly curious idlers, pushed at the gates of the Union station when the Pennsylvania train bearing the ambassador's party arrived, and as he passed through the station he was cheered.

Ambassador Troyanovsky, a smiling little man, simply but neatly attired in a blue suit and gray topcoat, with a gray felt hat, amiably posed with his wife, Nina, for as many photographs as the cameraman cared to take. The couple seemed a little bewildered by the prolonged bombardment, but uttered not a word of protest.

Madame, or Mrs. Troyanovsky, as she prefers to be called, is a middle aged, matronly woman, as pleasant of manner as her husband.

Makes Plea for Peace.

The soviet envoy took for his topic the triple theme of peace, trade possibilities, and the cultural development of his country. He called the resumption of normal relations between Russia and the United States—after fourteen years—an important step in the direction of peace, and said that neither country could afford to be satisfied with "a passive contemplation of the preparation--sometimes deliberate—for another world massacre."

"We must struggle for peace, without delay and without rest," he said.

But the ambassador said he did not wish to go too deeply into the relations between the two countries, because they had just been resumed, leaving a number of things to adjust. He turned his attention to economics,

See Trade Opportunities.

"There is no doubt," he said, "that the trade between the United States and the Soviet Union can reach a large scale. During our first five year plan we made noteworthy progress. But our needs are enormous. The standard of living of our population under the old régime was exceptionally low. To raise the standard of the 160,000,000 people of the Soviet Union to a level at all comparable to that of the United States takes much time and strenuous effort. The development of trade, especially with the United States, is wholly desirable.

"Our industrial progress of itself requires such an amount of equipment, of machinery, of raw materials, that our country cannot satisfy the demand by its own means. We want to buy in the United States products coming both from American industry and American agriculture. We have in view imports from the United States aggregating several hundred million dollars."

On Credit Obligations.

The ambassador said there was no need to worry about meeting the necessary credit obligations, because the planning system of the Soviets permitted the making of exact calculations of trade and the foreign currency balance over a period of years.

"In addition," he continued, "we had in 1933 a favorable foreign trade balance of 147,442,000 rubles, and there is every possibility that this favorable balance in foreign trade will continue during the next few years. We hope, also, that our trade with the United States will not be one sided. We hope to increase our exports to this country."

"I believe that we have now taken first place in Europe in amount of industrial production. We humbly leave the first place in the world to the United States. But I am afraid that this modesty will not last forever. In the course of a few more five year plans we shall attempt, in friendly rivalry, to challenge the United States for this proud position of first place in the world of industrial activity.

"For our mutual comfort I should say that this contest in the more or less distant future will not prevent the enlargement of our commerce."

Welcomes Envoy to Chicago.

Quin O'Brien, assistant corporation counsel, welcomed the ambassador to Chicago in behalf of Mayor Kelly, who sent a telegram from Springfield expressing his regret at his inability to attend the meeting. Other speakers were Dr. Charles S. Bacon, president of the American-Russian institute; James P. Goodrich, former governor of Indiana; Prof. Anton J. Carlson of the University of Chicago; Prof. E. A. Ross of the University of Wisconsin, and Frank D. Chase, president of the Western Society of Engineers. Victor J. Victoroff, Russian tenor, sang Russian songs.

Among those on the committee which sponsored the visit to Chicago were Ernest R. Graham, Carter H. Harrison, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Stock, Mr. and Mrs. William Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. McCulloch, Mrs. Mitchell Follansbee, S. T. Bledsoe, Prof. Charles E. Merriam, Thornton Wilder, Miss Narcissa Swift, Dr. Graham Taylor, Lorado Taft, Henry P. Chandler, Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, Robert P. Harshe and Prof. Samuel N. Harper.

The ambassador will be taken on a tour of the city this morning and at 11:30 there will be a reception for Chicago business men in the Palmer house.

Ambassador Troyanovsky will return to Washington tomorrow.

MRS. ANNA KMIEC.

A jury in the court of Judge Francis B. Allegretti yesterday returned a verdict finding Mrs. Anna Kmiec, 49 years old, 2648 North Western avenue, charged with the slaying of Stanley Paluszynski, 14 years old, guilty of manslaughter. The statutes fix the punishment for manslaughter at one to fourteen years in the state penitentiary.

Mrs. Kmiec is the owner of a candy store and lives in quarters at the rear. Stanley and several other boys, playing penny slot machines in the store, became noisy and were ordered out by the proprietor. When they refused to go she ran into a rear room, seized a pistol and fired as the boys ran away. Young Paluszynski was struck in the back and was killed instantly. The defendant claimed in court that she intended only to frighten the lads.

CHICAGO CHURCH LEADER OFFERS PEACE PROPOSAL

A proposal to promote peace by obtaining personal pledges not to cross boundaries of other nations to wage war will be discussed by Dr. Albert W. Palmer, Congregational church leader of Chicago, at the national council of the Congregational church at Oberlin, O., next June 21-27. The plan is outlined in an article in the Christian Century appearing today, according to Dr. Palmer.

He will present the proposal in a seminar on international relations at the council meeting, Dr. Palmer said, after which it might be taken up before the executive session of the council. Dr. Palmer is president of the Chicago Theological seminary. The pledge he suggests is:

"I will never cross the boundary of another nation to kill or destroy; nor will I support my government in doing so."

HEAD OF RUSSIA ORDERS WOMEN TRAINED FOR WAR

Peasants Will Be Taught Art of Defense.

MOSCOW, April 20.—(AP)—The "intensive militarization" of all rural Russia was demanded tonight by Michael Kalinin, president of soviet Russia, as an important part of country-wide preparations for defense against war.

MICHAEL KALININ.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

"It is not enough to form an invincible front by means of technical arms in the hands of our workers and peasants," he declared in an article published in the newspaper Pravda. "We also must have a strong rear line connected with the front by thousand of threads.

Demands Training of Women.

"The chief task is to train women and children and others not fit for military service to carry out the work of collective farm when all able bodied persons are mobilized, so that normal functions will not be interfered with.

"Those who remain on the collective farms must be prepared for everything.

"It is not sufficient that they know how to use gas masks. It won't be enough that they be able to manage a gun.

"They must have a good knowledge of the physical geography of their regions and be well versed in all forms of knowledge regarding the repelling of attacks on the civilian population.

Orders Air Raid Instructions.

"Particularly they must know how to resist raids from the air. The village soviets are responsible for this work.

"They must organize war sections throughout the countryside and watch over their work until victory is guaranteed."

President Kalinin has just completed a tour of rural Russia.

Asserting that while a great deal of writing and talking has been done about defense and that not much has really been accomplished in the rural areas, he continued:

"As soon as five collective farmers are trained to manage a gun, or several join the Society for Chemical Defense, the collective farm begins to boast that it has plenty of trained people.

"Some think that since war has not yet been proclaimed against the soviet union it will not be done at all, but those so thinking have lost their vigilance.

Publish May Day Slogans.

"Imperialists never will renounce war against the soviet union. That is why we must be ready to defend the country."

Further indicative of the intensive war psychology pervading the soviet union are slogans just published for use in May day celebrations here. They include:

"Imperialists are preparing new wars against the U. S. S. R."

"Proletarians of the world, away with war mongers!"

"Defend the soviet union—the land of all workers."

"Imperialists are sharing, oppressing, and looting China."

"Long live the soviets and the Red army of China!"

"Japanese imperialists are organizing anti-soviet provocations in the far east."

"Workers, peasants, Red soldiers, strengthen the defense of our country. Long live the far eastern Red army."

"We are for peace, but we do not fear war menaces and are ready to answer blow for blow to war incendiaries."

GOVERNOR HALTS USE OF FELONS AS PRISON MULES

Little Rock, Ark., April 20.—(AP)—Gov. J. M. Futrell today ordered the state penal board to stop the use of convicts in place of mules to pull cotton planters on the Tucker estate prison farm.

The governor issued this statement: "The pulling of a 100 pound cotton planter by six able bodied men is not harmful to them. The thought that it is the work of a mule suggests that the practice be stopped. I have requested the board to do so."

He acted after receiving a report from his private secretary, H. Grady McCall, and Chairman Walter Helms of the penal board. They witnessed a demonstration of the unique method adopted by Prison Superintendent A. G. Stedman to get the huge prison crop planted.

After watching the six-man teams pulling the planter, with another convict between the handles, Chairman Helms expressed the view the men were not being subjected to harsh treatment and ordered the practice continued.

Steadman put six of the convict drawn planters in the field during the past few days because of a shortage of mules.

TENNESSEE AND INDIANA TRUCK WAR HITS WIDOW

Jeffersonville, Ind., April 20.—[Special.]—The war which the states of Tennessee and Indiana are waging to force trucks to buy licenses made Mrs. Olga Bensyote, Tennessee widow, a victim today.

Her driver, Claude Wagner, was arrested by Indiana highway police. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Clarence E. Parsley, he was fined $11. This was paid by Mrs. Bensyote, who also purchased Indiana license plates in addition to those she took out in Tennessee. After that she had no more money. Despite this the police demanded that Mrs. Bensyote also be fined or imprisoned. The magistrate, however, allowed her to go free.

The truck war was started several months ago when Tennessee officials decreed that no trucks from other states would be permitted on Tennessee highways unless they purchased local licenses. Indiana in retaliation then refused to recognize Tennessee truck licenses and police in both states are arresting truckers.

CANNON DEFENDS PERSONAL USE OF CAMPAIGN FUNDS

'Checked It Out as I Saw Fit,' He Testifies.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—When a good Samaritan gives a preacher money for a political campaign, that money becomes the property of the preacher, for better or for worse.

At least that was the theme today of Bishop Cannon Jr., as he justified the personal use [but only very temporarily, he insisted] of some of the $65,300 which E. C. Jameson of New York gave him, back in the '28 campaign, for organizing the anti-Smith Democrats.

Secretary Also on Trial.

So when Assistant United States Attorney John C. Wilson, assisting in the prosecution of the bishop and his secretive secretary, Ada L. Burroughs, for alleged failure to make proper report of certain campaign expenditures, asked him if he had used some money "from the Jameson fund," he replied, reprovingly:

"I never called them 'Jameson funds.' They were funds I had received from Mr. Jameson. It was money in my possession. I checked it out as I saw fit and, of course, kept a Jameson memorandum."

Some of these checkouts, the government contends, went to balance up an account the bishop, as executor, owed the estate of a Mrs. Mary Moore. Some found their way into the account of the Newspaper Supply company, of which the bishop and his friend, the Rev. J. Sidney Peters [since dead], were bondholders.

Some, it was hinted, but never revealed even by name today, may have helped the bishop square up an account in the bucket shop transaction which involved him in a controversy with his church several years ago.

The bishop's funds, his own personal funds, and the contributions he received as leader of the anti-Smith Democrats, found themselves all mixed up in bank accounts in Richmond, in Crewe, in Washington, in a safety deposit vault, and in a now famous "little tin box" in a Washington apartment. A little confusing, maybe, but perfectly innocent, all these transactions, the bishop maintained.

"Just a Whim of Mine."

"Really, just a whim of mine," he explained.

These financial whims were so complicated that the government attorneys had a lot of trouble in following them through the wordy responses of the bishop.

Finally United States Attorney Leslie Garnett grew impatient; asked Justice Peyton Gordon to ask the bishop to be brief.

This amused the bishop. He smiled at the jury as he said:

"Well, I'm a Methodist minister and I'm used to saying things a lengthier way than most witnesses. I apologize."

But in just a few moments, in response to a query about certain expenditures of the Jameson funds, he went into an elaborate explanation of the $4,000 which he spent on publishing a pamphlet, which he wrote, entitled: "Is Southern Protestantism More Intolerant Than Romanism?"

Subpena for Ex-Senator.

This brought Garnett to his feet, shouting:

"For heavn's sake, can't we stop this witness from making political speeches?"

One political speech the witness made today, however, made the prosecution want to hear more. Bishop Cannon referred to a $10,000 campaign contribution which he says former Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen of New Jersey gave him in a check. The government insists the senator made two $10,000 contributions, one in cash, one by check. And tonight they issued a subpena for the former senator, requesting him to be present in court Monday for questioning.

MOTION TO CUT UNITED GAS RATE IS CONSIDERED

Harry R. Booth, assistant counsel of the Illinois commerce commission, recommended yesterday that the commission order the Western United Gas and Electric company to reduce its electricity rates pending an investigation. The motion was taken under advisement. The utility company serves a number of western suburbs. It recently was cited to show cause why its rates should not be reduced. At a previous hearing Attorney Booth charged that the company had been earning from 10 to 14 per cent on its investment, whereas it was asserted 6 per cent would be sufficient. Commissioner Charles E. Byrne conducted the hearing yesterday.

CHICAGO BUS LINE ADMITS CHARGE OF NRA BOARD

Failed to Keep Pledge to Rehire Strikers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—The Chicago Greyhound Bus lines admitted to the national labor board today that it had failed to live up to the agreement which it made to reëmploy 75 mechanics who struck last year.

Ivan Bowen, counsel for the company, offered to return to Chicago and to endeavor to work out a settlement between the company and the Chicago regional labor board which had originally ordered the reëmployment of the strikers. The national labor board took no action.

Kentucky Lines in Dispute.

Meanwhile, the Greyhound lines in Kentucky were involved in another dispute before the labor board concerning the unionization of some of its drivers by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. To iron out this difficulty without intervention by the labor board, the Southeastern Greyhound lines will hold a conference in Chicago on Wednesday, Guy A. Nugelet, vice president of the lines, announced today.

After the Chicago Greyhound company had admitted that it had not reëmployed all the strikers it had agreed to, Dr. L. J. Marshall, vice chairman of the labor board, reprimanded the company for placing special conditions upon some of the strikers who were reëmployed.

Presents Workers' Side.

David Kaplan of the American Federation of Labor, who presented the workers' side of the Chicago controversy, charged that seven of the strikers had not yet been returned to work. He charged also that the men put back on the pay roll after the strike had been discriminated against in the matter of layoffs and in being excluded from a 10 per cent pay increase granted other employés.

In addition, Bowen was unable to furnish data to the satisfaction of Dr. Marshall on the present employment status of certain of the workers who have been reëmployed. In adjourning the hearing today Dr. Marshall explained that it may be reconvened when the additional data are assembled.

4,000 County Employes Get Full January Pay

Salaries for the 4,000 county employés for the full month of January were paid yesterday from funds raised through the collection of penalties on delinquent tax payments, and from fees taken in by the various county offices. The total pay roll was about $900,000.

DAICHES' WIDOW SUES HIS FIRM FOR HALF ASSETS

Alleges Weitzman Broke 'Gentleman's Agreement'

Charging that Louis J. Weitzman had abrogated a "gentleman's agreement" with her slain husband, Eli Daiches, the widow, Mrs. Belle T. Daiches, filed suit in the Circuit court yesterday seeking one-half the assets of the Thomas M. Bowers Advertising agency, 304 S. Wabash.

Mrs. Daiches, whose husband was president of that company, demands an accounting of the funds, an injunction restraining the directors of the company from dissipating the assets, and a liquidation of the concern in the event the court recognizes her claims.

Names Wetzman and Three.

The bill is directed against Wetzman, who now holds the controling stock of the company, and three directors—S. A. Weitzman, E. E. Weitzman, and E. W. Williams.

The gentleman's agreement, according to Mrs. Daiches' bill, was that Daiches should turn over to Louis Weitzman all his stock in the company, which comprised a majority of the stock. In return, she said, Weitzman was to put $16,000 in as a loan to the company. Then, according to her claim, Daiches and Weitzman were to be equal partners.

Slain on Outer Drive.

Daiches was slain by a shotgun assassin while he sat in his car near 53d street and the outer drive March 3.

Following that, Mrs. Daiches said, Weitzman denied any such "gentleman's agreement" as she described had ever existed. He claimed sole control of the company, all of the $300,000 from the insurance on Daiches' life—the company being beneficiary—and, in addition put in a claim for $100,000, which, he charged, Daiches owed the company.

Seeks to Stop Payments.

Mrs. Daiches' bill asks that the $100,000 claim be annulled, and the company be restrained from paying out any part of the life insurance money to Weitzman.

She declared the insurance had been taken out by her husband with the idea of protecting his family through the company, since he expected Mrs Daiches to be given his half interest, according to the "gentleman's agreement" described.

She therefore claims $150,000 of the insurance money and half the net assets of the company, which the bill estimates at $25,000.

In the absence from the office of the advertising company of Louis Weitzman, Williams, who is Chicago manager, declined to make any comment on the filing of the suit. He declared he wanted to say something, but preferred to obtain authority first from other officials. He also added that the filing of the suit was no great surprise to him.

GERMAN TRAINS BEES TO CARRY WAR MESSAGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 20.—Armies of the future must have expert bee catchers attached to them to circumvent the wiles of the enemy, thanks to the enterprise of Bernhard Guehler, famous Berlin apiologist, who has succeeded in replacing homing pigeons by bees for the transmission of messages.

Ordinary working bees are found to be the best carriers. In the first tests they were simply colored red, yellow, or green, in accordance with a prearranged code. Later Guehler succeeded in attaching tiny fragments of paper with messages to their backs, keeping them quiet during the operation with a tasty meal of honey drops.

In the tests several bees were sent off with such messages attached. A very large percentage made straight and rapidly for their home hives. The drawback is that they will be suitable for messages only in the summertime.

BANDIT KILLED, ANOTHER SHOT, THIRD CAPTURED

Fight Running Battle; Boy Wounded.

Lincoln, Neb., April 20.—[Special.]—Police here today staged a spectacular 10 mile running gunfight with three armed gunmen and when the acrid smoke of battle had lifted the casualties were listed as follows:

One bandit was killed, a second was seriously wounded by police bullets, and the third was captured. A 14 year old schoolboy was injured in the cross fire.

The dead bandit was not immediately identified. The injured gunman said he was Walter Dean, 21 years old, of Oklahoma City, Okla., and the third member of the band gave his name as Sam Rivett of Galveston, Tex.

One Bandit in Hospital.

Police took Dean to a hospital, where it was said his injuries were not serious, and his companion was locked in jail. Luceen Marshall was the schoolboy wounded in the fray.

Hundreds of persons watched as the bandit car sped through Lincoln's main street, the police squad car in close pursuit. In the police car were Officers Frank Robbins and Volcott Condit, son of the police chief.

Pedestrians ducked for cover and scores of drivers pulled to the curb as the two cars raced through the streets, the bandit car headed for the city limits on O street. The chase ended at a grade crossing near Prairie Home, east of here, where the bandits' machine overturned. In an attempt to escape the unidentified gunman was shot and killed. Dean was wounded and both he and his companion arrested.

Shortly after their arrest police determined that Dean and Rivett recently were released from the Texas penitentiary at Huntsville, where Rivett had served 10 years on a murder conviction and Dean had served the same number of years for robbery. Rivett was granted a conditional pardon on March 22 and Dean was discharged 10 days ago.

The prisoners also are suspected as participants in a $1,000 robbery in Perry, Ia., last Wednesday. They had more than $600 with them when taken.

Bank President Slain.

Springfield, O., April 20.—[Special.]—The president of the South Viena Farmers Deposit bank, near here, paid with his life today when he dared to defy a lone bank robber. The victim was H. M. Saylor, 57 years old, who soon would have celebrated a quarter century as head of the institution. After killing Saylor the bandit fled without any loot.

Although Saylor did not live to tell the story of the attempted holdup police officers and residents of the village of 400 inhabitants pieced together information that led them to believe the banker died in a successful effort to save his depositors' money.

Sees Killer Escape.

The attempted holdup and murder was discovered a few seconds after being committed by Lewis Jones, bookkeeper, who was returning to the bank from lunch. He was entering a side door when he heard a shot. As he stepped inside he saw the killer flee through the front door to a waiting automobile headed in the direction of Springfield.

He found Saylor sprawled on the floor in a pool of blood behind the cages. In his right hand was clutched a revolver from which no shots had been fired.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

CRIME LAWYER IS SENT TO JAIL FOR 6 MONTHS

Attorney Reznik Also Gets Fine for Contempt.

CRIMINAL COURT.
Herbert McGurk, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Donald S. McKinlay.

Attorney Julius Reznik, characterized from the bench as a "lawyer criminal and a human vulture," was sentenced yesterday by Judge Michael Feinberg to six months in the county jail and fined $2,000 for direct contempt of court. Reznik was denied a stay of execution and was immediately taken to the county jail over the protests of his attorney.

The sentence is the first to be imposed since the criminal court judges began a campaign against lawyer-criminals and other undesirable practitioners. The sentence carries with it disbarment from practice in the criminal courts for two years. Judge Feinberg also directed Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan to bring permanent disbarment proceedings against Reznik before the Supreme court and to prefer criminal charges against him.

Ex-Convict Is Freed.

The sentencing was the result of disclosures in Judge Feinberg's court following the conviction of Philip Mansfield, an ex-convict, on a robbery charge. Sentenced in 1925 to 10 years to life, Mansfield was given a Christmas parole in 1933. However, before he could obtain his parole he had to have a sponsor, who would assure him employment. He communicated with Reznik and the latter obtained the services of Graham Cogan, whose real name is Graham Cohn, owner of a La Salle street stationery store, to sign the parole. For this service Reznik charged a $200 fee.

The ex-convict unable to pay the fee so Reznik introduced him to Edward Coyle, 32 years old, now a fugitive, and together they robbed John T. Allen, 1834 West 39th street, a tavern owner of $1,041. This was last Jan. 31. Out of this loot Reznik was paid his fee.

Mansfield was arrested and convicted of the crime. Cogan, who had sponsored Mansfield, was also seized, and confessed that he signed the parole papers at the behest of Reznik. He had also appeared at the trial as an alibi witness.

Reznik Is Captured.

Attorney Reznik fled when the investigation started, but was seized by the state's attorney's police yesterday and taken before Judge Feinberg. He refused to answer any questions put by the court.

"I don't think there is any sense in wasting any more time on this man," said Judge Feinberg. "Mr. State's Attorney prepare an order finding him guilty of direct contempt of court. As a further punishment I suspend him from practice in this court for two years.

"This respondent [Reznik] is a human vulture. I am satisfied from the testimony in this case that he is a man who inspires criminals to commit crime so they can pay him his fees. He is a disgrace to the legal profession.

Fail to Disbar Reznik.

"It is no wonder that the legal profession is subject to severe criticism when it has men among them like this. He should have been disbarred long ago. I do not know why the Chicago Bar association has remained silent so long. [The judge referred to the fact that several years ago Reznik was barred from criminal court practice for one year for sharp practices and no effort was made to disbar him.]

"This man is a lawyer criminal in every sense. He should be prosecuted for his criminality in this case. He suborned perjury and he is a co-conspirator with Mansfield. I never knew of any conduct so dastardly.

"If it were in my power to send him to the penitentiary in place of his client, Mansfield, I would do so," concluded the judge.

Contempt charges against Cogan will be disposed of next Friday, the judge announced. At the same time sentence will be imposed on Mansfield.

Prosecutor Coghlan said he would press subornation of perjury charges against Reznik immediately.

MRS. HALLY COLVIN.

LIMITS ALIMONY FOR MRS. COLVIN TO $150 A MONTH

Wife Held Partly to Blame in Spending.

Taking cognizance of the evidence that the extravagance of the Willard Otis Colvins both here and abroad had dissipated a goodly share of the Colvin fortune, Circuit Judge Joseph A. Burke ruled yesterday that Mrs. Hally McLeod Colvin could have only $150 a month temporary alimony.

Mrs. Colvin, whose bill for separate maintenance is pending, had originally asked $1,000 a month, stating that this was not exorbitant, since her husband had a $15,000 a year income from the estate of his father, the late Edwin M. Colvin, vice president of the W. F. Hall Printing company.

Willard Colvin, the husband, had testified, however, that gay parties in Spain, Paris, and along the Riviera had eaten up some $1,000,000 of his inheritance, and that he now has the comparatively small income of $400 a month. It was on this figure that Judge Burke based his decision.

Says Wife Joined Parties.

Attorney David K. Tone, representing Colvin, declared in his closing arguments that Mrs. Colvin had joined with her husband in the drinking parties described and was equally guilty with him for the wasting of his fortune.

"My client was only 17 years old when she married this defendant," retorted Attorney Samuel Rinella, representing Mrs. Colvin. "If she strayed off the straight and narrow path, it was due to him."

Judge Burke took note of this exchange of remarks when he made his decision, saying:

"From the evidence presented, it seems to the court that both parties to this suit did more drinking than they should have done."

Wants Trustee to Pay.

After the decision was given, Mr. Rinella asked that the trustee of the estate be directed to pay the alimony to Mrs. Colvin, to make sure that she would receive the money.

"Colvin admits he is a drunkard," Rinella said, "and that he is indebted, and that shows he is unable to take care of his money. I would rather have the order directed against the Northern Trust company, as trustee of the estate."

Judge Burke, however, refused to include this in his order, merely directing Colvin to pay his wife $150 a month pending disposition of her separate maintenance suit.

It is the second such suit brought by Mrs. Colvin. The first one was brought in 1928. The couple were reconciled after that.

Chicago Italians to Fete Consul Giuseppe Castruccio

Dr. Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general in Chicago, will be fêted at a dinner to be given 1,300 persons of Italian birth or descent and their friends in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman tomorrow night. Joseph Imburgio, president of the Italo American National union, will be chairman.

THEFT CAMPAIGN BRINGS 1ST CUT IN AUTO RATES

Courtney Urges Other Companies to Follow.

State's Attorney Courtney's campaign against the automobile theft racket bore new results in one quarter yesterday. He was notified by the officials of one automobile insurance company that as a result of his successful drive they were immediately slashing their insurance rates from 35 to 50 per cent below the present costs. At present insurance rates here are practically the highest in the country.

The coöperation of this one insurance company was welcomed by State's Attorney Courtney. He said he hoped that this would be the opening wedge in his fight to obtain more moderate rates for car owners. It should be, he said, a natural consequence of the drastic reduction in auto thefts already effected. There is no reason why other underwriters should not follow the example set by this one concern, he added.

Urges Companies to Act Now.

"Even though insurance rates are based on the number of thefts occurring in the previous year, there is no reason why the companies should not act now," Mr. Courtney said. "The auto thefts this year have been cut so sharply, the motoring public should be entitled to a share in the saving. They should not have to wait until next year.

"The insurance companies have taken the position of waiting to see if our drive against auto thieves is a flurry. It isn't. There will be no letdown. We are all working together, myself, the mayor and the police."

In support of his belief that all insurance companies should lower their rates without further delay, Mr. Courtney cited the figures of Thursday. A year ago Thursday there were 87 automobiles stolen and 10 cars stripped of accessories, and present insurance rates are based on expectations that thefts would keep up to that daily average. Instead, only 33 cars were stolen last Thursday and only 3 stripped, he said.

Admits Theft of 39 Autos.

In the Automobile court, established at Mr. Courtney's request, Robert Barton, 37 years old, calmly admitted to Judge Joseph A. Graber yesterday that he had stolen 39 automobiles, altered their motor numbers and sold them. He estimated that he had made $10,000 in the last year from his thefts.

Twenty-two persons who had purchased cars from him were arrested but Barton, who at times used the name of Wray, asked the court to be lenient with them. He said all his customers thought he was a used car dealer and he proudly said he had not violated the NRA code because he never sold a car below the red book rating.

Judge Graber ordered Barton held to the grand jury in $45,000 bonds and commended the policemen who had arrested him. They are Policemen Walter Gregory, William Horky, Cornelius Collins, and Edward Kennedy of the Racine avenue station. They were given until June 29 to investigate all persons who had purchased cars from Barton.

Auto Insurance Fraud Trial.

Another court case growing out of Mr. Courtney's crusade, which began with the uncovering of scores of faked claims against auto insurance companies, was the trial yesterday of Paul Kuhn, a tavern keeper, and Henry Gusenberg, whose brothers Peter and Frank were slain in the Valentine day massacre of 1929.

Harry Burns, an ex-convict, testified that Kuhn and Gusenberg hired him to steal Gusenberg's automobile, promising him $100 out of the $1,400 insurance which Gusenberg collected. Burns was arrested when the car was found in his possession. When Gusenberg appeared loath to prosecute him Mr. Courtney became suspicious. Under questioning Burns told of the plot and became a state's witness. The case is on trial before Judge Harry B. Miller.

'LOCK ME UP,' SAYS STRANGER, 'I'M AN AUTO THIEF, TOO'

Roy Starr, 29 years old, of Westmont, walked into the office of Capt. Joseph Goldberg at the Albany Park police station yesterday and asked:

"Have you got a fellow named Roy Collins of 1729 North Lincoln street locked up here?"

"Yes," said Capt. Goldberg. "He's wanted by the government in Dubuque. They say he's one of a gang which has been dealing in stolen cars, shipping them from here to Iowa."

"Well, lock me up, too," said the visitor. "I was in with Collins, and I can't let him take the rap alone."

Collins had been captured the day before, and, according to Capt. Goldberg, had confessed to the theft of 25 automobiles. Last week, the captain said, three other members of the same gang were sent to Iowa for federal prosecution.

75 U. S. Actors, Including 45 Girls, Deported by Japan

YOKOHAMA, Japan, April 20.—(AP)—An American show troupe whose chorus of 45 girls proved a sensation in Tokio was deported from Japan today. DICK TRACY—Tightening

COME IN, MILREY!
SPALDONI! DID YOU SEE THIS IN THE MORNING PAPER?
LISTEN: "COMPARISON OF THE HANDWRITING ON TWO NOTES AND A MONEY RECEIPT LEAD POLICE TO BELIEVE A CERTAIN UNDERWORLD LAWYER IS RESPONSIBLE FOR MURDER"
I KNOW ALL ABOUT IT. I MADE AN UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT TO GET THAT RECEIPT YESTERDAY.
I SHOULD HAVE FILLED THAT GUY TRACY AND HIS HALF-WITTED ASSISTANT FULL OF LEAD RIGHT THEN AND THERE WHILE I HAD THE CHANCE.
SAY, YOU GUYS!
THE COPS MUST HAVE US SPOTTED! AT LEAST JUST AS I CAME UP IN A CAB, A GUY STROLLED OUT OF THE ENTRANCE OF THIS BUILDING. I TOOK A GOOD LOOK AT 'IM AND IT WAS THIS PEANUT-NOSED PAT PATTON TRACY'S ASSISTANT.

DOCTOR ASSAILS MEDICAL PATENTS ON DISCOVERIES

Questions Influence of Profit Motives.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Physicians and other scientists who patent their discoveries and in some cases thereafter seek to restrict or control further research in that field of medicine to which their pioneer discovery is essential were criticized yesterday before the American College of Physicians. The college's annual convention at the Palmer house closed last evening.

The critical speaker was Dr. Virgil E. Simpson of Louisville. He is editor of the United States Pharmacopœia, the official medical handbook which defines and sets standards of purity and strength for drugs used in medical practice.

Discusses Patenting Practice.

The professional committees which compile the Pharmacopœia have to consider many drugs of recognized medical merit put out under trade names by drug supply houses. From the problem which this affords Dr. Simpson passed on to a discussion of the growing practice of patenting scientific discoveries in the name of a university or an allied not-for-profit foundation, which uses any commercial profits which may arise to finance further research.

"The whole question of patents and trade marks in medicine," said Dr. Simpson, "is becoming of increasing importance to the profession beyond the scope of pharmacopœial revision.

"One wonders if the members of the profession are actuated by impulses involving pecuniary profit directly or indirectly to a greater degree than obtained in the generation of physicians which this one succeeded. The magnanimity and fine scientific spirit which gave diphtheria antitoxin to the world contrasts strongly with the advent of insulin, ventriculin, viosterol, and scarletinal toxin."

Cites Some Examples.

Viosterol, a concentrate of vitamin D, the "sunshine" vitamin, was developed at the University of Wisconsin. Its use is one way of making the "sunshine milk" which Chicago dairy companies are soon to offer for sale. The patents on it are owned by the Wisconsin Foundation, organized to control those patents and to use commercial profits obtained thereby for further research.

Scarletinal toxin, used in the treatment of scarlet fever, was developed at the McCormick Institute of Infectious Diseases in Chicago by Drs. George and Gladys Dick. Its manufacture by medical supply houses and its use in further experimentation are governed by a medical committee.

The arguments used for the patenting of such products, Dr. Simpson pointed out, are that the action is designed primarily to protect the public, both against extortionate prices for the product itself, and against its use by quacks. However, Dr. Simpson read a letter sent by one such not for profit scientific organization to a reputable physician, member of the faculty of a class A medical school, who was using the product which the organization controled in further experimentation in a public hospital.

Warning of Action.

"The function of the committee," the letter stated, 'is to protect the public as far as possible against inadequate preparations. . . . Thus it falls within our duties to try out new preparations. . . . [and] if they are successful to approve them for distribution. . . . If they are unsuccessful, in our opinion, it is our duty to stop their distribution. . . . We regard the public welfare as of far greater importance than any personal relationships. . . . We shall not hesitate to institute whatever legal proceedings are indicated."

"One wonders," said Dr. Simpson, "if a patent issued on a given biological product enables the organization owning the product to censor and control all investigations of a transmissible disease problem; one wonders if a patent is intended to interfere with independent study and experiment; one wonders who protected the same public while experimental work was being done on the product for which a patent has been issued."

Urges Prescription Writing.

Dr. Simpson had other criticism to offer to his fellow physicians. They are neglecting the art of prescription writing, he told them, and are too prone, instead of having their own prescription compounded to order for their patents a patented or trade marked one put out by a drug supply house.

As a remedy for the conditions which he criticized, both as to the not for profit foundations and the patents held by commercial drug supply companies, Dr. Simpson suggested that the patent and trademark laws be amended to provide that patents or trademarks on any drug or biological product shall expire automatically when the product is approved for general use by the medical profession through listing in its official pharmacopoeia.

Victory for U. S. Fishermen.

In his paper he also told how American fishermen won a victory over foreign competitors in the matter of the pharmacopœia definition of cod liver oil, of which the United States uses 5,000,000 gallons a year.

The controversy before the advisory committee raged over the zoölogical classes of fish from which the oil might be taken, whether it should come alone from the genus Gadus, comprising the true cods, or from the wider family Gadidæ, which comprises, in addition to cod, the halibut, haddock, and other species. The livers of both groups contain vitamin A, the medical principle sought.

Ninety-four per cent of the United States' cod liver oil is imported mostly from Newfoundland and Norway. The fishermen of those countries catch cod, while into Gloucester and other American ports, fishermen bring thousands of tons of halibut and other relatives of the cod in the big family Gadidae.

Newfoundland and Norway restrict the source of oil to the cod alone, and commercial interests sought to obtain a restriction in the American pharmacopoeia. However, Dr. Simpson reported, the revision committee held that "the vitamin content and aesthetic qualities of the oil must be assured—the rest is Tweedledee or Tweedledum."

Sees Personality Neglected.

In another paper yesterday Dr. Edward Weiss of Philadelphia reported that recent surveys indicate that a large number of illnesses are of purely psychic origin. As a result of the emphasis in modern medicine on structural and chemical factors in disease, the medical profession is liable, Dr. Weiss held, to neglect the study of personality and consequently is unable to deal adequately with this class of patients.

An advancement in medical technic developed in Chicago was reported by Drs. Willard O. Thompson, S. G. Taylor III. and Karl A. Meyer of the county hospital. By careful attention to pre-operative treatment of patients who have their thyroid glands removed as a cure for goiter, the hospital staf has reduced mortalities in that operation from 13 per cent to 4 per cent.

BYRD PARTY BEGINS MONTHS OF LIFE IN THE ANTARCTIC NIGHT

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica [Via Mackay Radio].—April 20.—(AP)—Winter night set in today.

The sun set officially by the astronomer's calculation this morning. It will not appear above the horizon again until spring—which will be fall in the United States.

Had it not been for the astronomical calculation, the men of Admiral Richard E. Byrd's antarctic expedition would have thought the winter night had started yesterday, for yesterday was so gloomy because of low clouds that the sun was not visible even then.

BYRD TO ADDRESS OPENING DAY FAIR CROWDS BY RADIO

Antarctic Message to Start Fireworks.

From a lonely shack buried in the frozen darkness of the four month long antarctic night on the Ross ice barrier 15,000 miles south of Chicago in Little America, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd will take part in the official opening of the 1934 World's Fair in Chicago on the evening of May 26, it was announced yesterday by Fair authorities.

Speaking by short wave radio from the hut where he is spending the subpolar winter alone to record meteorological phenomena, Admiral Byrd will address the thousands gathered on the World's Fair grounds and other millions of listeners around the world. If weather conditions allow such communication, Mayor Kelly will hold a radiophone conversation with Admiral Byrd as part of the ceremony.

Signal for Fireworks.

At the close of Admiral Byrd's speech radio engineers have arranged to utilize the radio impulse which will carry Admiral Byrd's voice to close an electric switch and set off an enormous fireworks piece in the north lagoon. The piece will spell in letters of fire: "Welcome to the 1934 World's Fair."

The broadcast to the Fair grounds by Admiral Byrd will be the contribution of the radio industry to the opening program, in which President Roosevelt also will take part from Washington by pressing the switch which will light the Fair grounds for the first time this year.

The broadcast is being arranged through an international network of stations which will pick up the admiral's short wave signals, transform them and rebroadcast them.

Part of the receiving equipment here will be placed on the vessel City of New York, one of the Fair exhibits and the ship which carried the first Byrd expedition to Little America. The ship will lie in the north lagoon, near the floating theater, from which the remainder of the program will be conducted. Some of the men who will be aboard the ship were comrades of Admiral Byrd on the first expedition, and they are to converse by radiophone with their former commander.

In Solitary Winter Quarters.

At present Admiral Byrd already is in his winter quarters 130 miles south of the main base of the expedition to Little America. He was left there on April 1 by his mates after erecting the cabin in which he must live. It is 13 feet long, 9 feet wide and 7 feet high, and heated by a single kerosene stove.

Fitted with two radio sets and generously equipped with food and meteorological instruments, the shack is to be the admiral's home for eight months. The continual darkness set in on April 19 and will continue until Aug. 21, and during this period the admiral is completely cut off from the rest of the world save by radio. It is the world's southernmost weather bureau.

SEES CHEMISTRY AS SAVIOR FOR MENTAL HEALTH

Des Moines, Ia., April 20.—[Special.]—Chemistry may hold the secret of both mental and physical health, Dr. Julius Stieglitz, eminent organic chemist and research worker of the University of Chicago, told the Iowa Academy of Science tonight at Drake university.

He reported laboratory tests showing an important influence of vitamin B on mental well being, and the possibility that chemists will be able to make the vitamin widely available.

He suggested that a connection between theelin, feminine glandular secretion, and cancer may be proved, and that chemistry may be able to segregate the harm factor.

Dr. Stieglitz told of mentally backward children, who, when fed with foods containing large quantities of vitamin B, quickly developed normal mental activity.

The same test on stupid persons produced promising results, he said, adding that the discovery is not yet beyond the stage of experimental use.

ILL. TELEPHONE RESTORES WAGE INCREASE PLAN

About one million dollars will be added to the year's pay rolls of the Illinois Bell Telephone company as a result of the reinstatement, effective on May 1, of the system of progressive pay increases abolished three years ago, it was announced yesterday. About 14,000 employés are affected. Department heads will not benefit by the order.

Other large telephone companies intend to resume their plan of progressive pay increases, it is reported. The employés of the New York Bell Telephone company will receive about $2,500,000 more in pay a year when the order goes into effect.

ARMOUR INSTITUTE ORGAN WINS SECOND IN YALE CUP CONTEST

New Haven, Conn., April 20.—[Special.]—The Armour Engineer, published by the Armour Institute of Technology in Chicago, was awarded second place in the competition for the Yale cup, which is awarded annually by the Yale Scientific Magazine for the outstanding undergraduate publication in the scientific field, it was announced tonight.

First place went to the Tech Engineering News of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, while honorable mention was given to the Coöperative Engineer of the University of Cincinnati.

The aim of the contest is to bring college scientific publications into more intimate contact and at the same time to better their workmanship by placing them on a competitive basis.

JUDGE ORDERS INVENTOR WOLF BACK TO ASYLUM

Fred W. Wolf, Chicago inventor, lost another fight for his freedom yesterday when Judge Max F. Allaben in the Du Page Circuit court ordered him recommitted to the Elgin state hospital for the insane.

He was first committed in July of 1933, then released after a brief confinement. According to Wolf's charges his wife connived to have him recommitted in December.

He began habeas corpus proceedings before Judge Frank W. Shepherd in Geneva, who ruled that he was still insane, and again Wolf was sent to Elgin.

Yesterday's ruling was the result of still another petition for a habeas corpus writ, filed on April 5. After hearing the medical testimony Judge Allaben decided that Wolf needed further treatment at the hospital.

FRANCE ARRESTS GERMAN WOMAN AS A NAZI SPY

Seized After Theft of Plans for Sub.

PARIS, April 20.—(AP)—Robert Gordon Switz, young American accused of participating in activities of an international spy syndicate, added to his earlier disclosures of the ring today while police added a new captive to the mounting number of suspects.

Mme. Tjadina Ulfert Oterentorp, 45 year old native of Germany, was arrested and charged with inciting others to spy. This was the first arrest under a new law passed in January as a result of an intense spy scare.

Woman Denies Accusation.

She denied the accusation vehemently. Police indicated that she apparently had no connection with Switz and his wife, the former Marjorie Tilley of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Switz have been in custody since late in December. At first they maintained they were innocent, but subsequently authorities said they "told all they knew of the alleged spy gang, which officials have said dealt in American, British, and French secrets for the benefit of Russia and Germany.

Switz today told how members of the group photographed secret military and naval documents from official files before returning them.

Submarine Plans Stolen.

Mme. Oterentorp was arrested in connection with the pilfering of plans for France's latest submarine model. She was accused of obtaining the plans through several engineers whose friendship she cultivated after meeting them in cafés.

Police said she was about to leave Paris for Toulon, site of a naval base, when she was taken into custody. A search of her apartment, they said, revealed documents concerning new fortifications on the German frontier and models of new French army planes.

Rumania Puts 13 on Trial for Plotting to Kill King

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 20.—(AP)—Col. Victor Prekup of the Rumanian general staf declared today during his trial on charges of plotting to kill highly placed Rumanians that he had once threatened to "get" Mme. Magda Lupescu, friend of King Carol. He explained that once when he had been refused an audience with the monarch he had vowed to "get her," meaning Mme. Lupescu, but that he had been quoted as saying he wanted to "get him" meaning Carol.

On trial with the colonel are seven other army officers and five civilians accused of a bombing conspiracy against the lives of the king, Crown Prince Michael, and other leaders.

Special guards were stationed about the courthouse to prevent violence from the populace—which had been demonstrated twice earlier today against the defendants—as the first day's court session adjourned at 11 p. m. The hostile attitude contrasted sharply with the favorable sentiment manifested during the recent trial of Iron Guard members accused of slaying the late Premier Ion G. Duca.

All the defendants are Transylvanians. Former Premier Maniu arrived from Transylvania this evening and will testify tomorrow.

Col. Prekup played a dramatic part in the return of King Carol from exile in 1930. Six years ago in the same courtroom he voted for the acquittal of men charged with plotting to bring Carol back from Paris.

Col. Prekup denied vigorously that he and the other defendants planned to assassinate the king but asserted their idea was to strengthen Carol's position by "cleaning up the political situation."

The charges are based on police accusations that the alleged plotters planned to bomb the Domniska Balazcha cathedral at an Orthodox midnight Easter service and slay members of the royalty, cabinet members, and Mme. Lupescu.

SAPIRO TAKES STAND AS RACKET TRIAL NEARS END

Attorney Is Last Witness for Defense.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Attorney Aaron Sapiro, nationally known trade association organizer, and perhaps the last defense witness in the long racket conspiracy trial before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan in the Criminal court, took the witness stand in his own behalf shortly after 5 o'clock last evening.

Defense attorneys indicated that Attorney Sapiro's testimony would close the testimony in the case, the longest on record in the Criminal court. The trial, which started on Jan. 4, has among its 18 defendants, Ald. Oscar Nelson, Dr. Benjamin Squires, University of Chicago economist, and well known attorneys, labor officials, business men, and hoodlums.

Following the closing of the defense testimony the prosecution will introduce its rebuttal testimony, which is not expected to take long. However, final arguments in the case probably will take nearly a week. The case is expected to wind up about the end of next week.

Gives History of Life.

Attorney Sapiro, who had only time to give the history of his life before court adjourned last evening, will resume the witness stand this morning and tell of his activities with Chicago trade associations which resulted in his being named in the present indictment. He was attorney for the Chicago Laundrymen's association when he was indicted.

Sapiro said he had just reached the age of 50. He was born in San Francisco, and educated in the University of Cincinnati and the University of California. He told of his work throughout the country in forming farmer coöperative associations both in this country and Canada. He is the author of many state and federal laws on this subject.

The attorney, who once sued Henry Ford on a charge of slandering American Jewry, said he started his labor and trade association work in San Francisco, where he was attorney for several California state commissions. At this point court adjourned for the day.

Provokes Mirth in Court.

Mischa Gerschmann, 2540 Hazel avenue, owner of a hand laundry and an official in the Cook County Hand Laundry association, gave the jurors and others engaged in the trial their first day of enjoyment since the court hearing began on Jan. 4. He testified as a defense witness and occupied the witness chair throughout most of the day.

Gerschmann, a small man who spoke in a quaint manner, had the jurors laughing most of the day with his explanations of the difficulties in the hand laundry trade. Even Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan, who is presiding over the trial, kept his handkerchief to his face to hide his mirth.

"Victims of Racketeers."

The witness charged that the defendants connected with the hand laundry industry were victims of racketeering instead of being racketeers. He said the association was formed to stop racketeering, and that Marshall Rose, the field secretary and one of the defendants in the trial, was the "champion opposer" of the racketeers.

Rose, according to Sam Davis, a state witness, had said that blood would flow in the streets of Chicago if the hand laundry men did not join the association. Gerschmann was asked if Rose had made such a statement. For a few moments the witness appeared puzzled. Then he answered:

"O, no. Rose was a fine fellow. He wouldn't say that."

Q.—Did you say at the same meeting to Davis that the thing to do was to break the legs and heads of the hand laundry men to get them in the association? A.—I don't talk to that man. How could I say such a thing?

Q.—Is Rose working for your association now? A.—Now, how could he do that when he is busy here [in court] every day?

"Brain Trust" of Laundries.

Gerschmann caused a laugh when he said the "brain trust" originated, not in Washington, but in the hand laundry business in 1930, when the steam laundries raised the price to the hand laundries.

"We called in the brain trust to decide what to do," he said in reply to a question.

"What is the brain trust? I thought that was down in Washington," asked Defense Attorney Benedict J. Short.

"Sure, we had a brain trust, the 25 men with the best brains in the industry," replied Gerschmann, as everybody laughed.

Gerschmann said that the hand laundries were not in competition with the steam laundries, as charged by the state, because the hand laundries only did "bachelor bundles" and not family washings. He said he saw nothing unusual in the fact that George Knott, vice president of the Laundry Wagon Drivers' union, was given a fund by the steam laundries to organize the hand laundry men in an association.

Children Reported Missing Found Asleep in a Hallway

Virginia Stanton, 11 years old, 3324 North Clark street; Dorothy Boeckelman, 11 years old, 3259 Seminary avenue, and Dorothy's brother, Walter, 9 years old, who had been reported missing by their parents Thursday night, were found sleeping yesterday morning in the hallway of an apartment building at 2741 Nordica avenue. They said that they had broken some windows in a house near their homes and had feared punishment. They sought shelter in the hallway, they said, because Mrs. Irene Fox, a friend of Virginia's mother, lives there.

MAYOR NAMES FIVE TO SPEED PWA LOAN FOR CALUMET WATERWAY

A committee of five representatives of city, county, state, and sanitary district governments was named yesterday by Mayor Kelly to work out a solution to difficulties standing in the way of receiving an appropriation of $2,800,000 alloted by the public works administration for preliminary development of the Calumet waterways.

Asked to serve are Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman of the city council harbors, wharves, and bridges committee; Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt, Robert L. Kingery, director of the state department of public works; Thomas J. Bowler, president of the sanitary district, and Emmett Whealan, president of the county board.

Secretary of Interior Ickes recently outlined to Mayor Kelly conditions which must be met before the money is forthcoming. These include placing all bridges in working order, acquisition of necessary land, and a guarantee of industrial development of Lake Calumet. The situation is complicated by scarcity of money, the fact that most of the bridges are owned by railroads, and the division of jurisdiction among various local governments.

FIRST SULPHUR CARGO ARRIVES OVER WATERWAY

Comes from New Orleans on Largest Barge.

The largest river barge in the world arrived in Chicago yesterday with the first load of sulphur to be brought from New Orleans over the lakes to the gulf waterway. The shipment, 1,700 tons of sulphur, was hailed as an indication that business men are learning the usefulness of the waterway which was opened last June.

"We see growing appreciation of the advantages of shipping over this all-water route," said H. E. Ruddiman, assistant general trafic manager of the Inland Waterways corporation, operators of the barge. "Business is good and we expect it to be better both in and out of Chicago this year."

Barge 300 Feet Long.

The sulphur was on a 300 foot barge, the No. 521, which has a capacity of 3,000 tons. It was docked at the North Pier terminal, near the mouth of the Chicago river, by Capt. R. V. Warner of the tow boat William T. Warner, which plies between Chicago and Ottawa, Ill., twice each week.

"There were three other barges in the tow, carrying about 500 tons of general merchandise, but they just about equaled the 521 in length," said Capt. Warner. "My boat picked them up from the tow boat Sawyer at Ottawa. It took about 30 hours for the trip, 85 miles by water. We had one delay, at Joliet, where they are building the Ruby street bridge. There we had to split up. This won't be necessary when the bridge is completed."

The navigation season north of St. Louis was opened March 22 by the federal barge lines, owners of the 521, after being closed since Dec. 4. The entire voyage from New Orleans to Chicago takes between 10 and 12 days.

All Water Route Cheaper.

Five solicitors are employed by the corporation to sell the service to shippers in the Chicago area. The concern shipping the sulphur, whose name is not revealed because of regulations of the interstate commerce commission, discovered that it was cheaper to use the all water route than to transfer a load from boats to trains at St. Louis to be sent on to Chicago.

There is a possibility that the barge line may get some coal business this year, Mr. Ruddiman said. Freight carried to Chicago by the boats at present includes sugar, coffee, rice, cocoa beans, peanuts, printers' ink, canned goods, and beer, and steel and grain from Chicago.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Wednesday's TRIBUNE erroneously stated that Dr. G. N. Green, 108 North State street, had signed a certificate giving heart disease as the cause of the death of Franklin H. Wolever, an engineer employed by the Curtiss Candy company. The death certificate was signed by Dr. A. P. M. Sandahl, 1005 Belmont avenue, the family physician.

Previous accounts of the investigation into Mr. Wolever's death, which a coroner's jury said was due to injuries sustained in an accident, had made it clear that Dr. Green did not sign the death certificate. Dr. Green was called to the Curtiss company's plant after the accident, but as the man was dead he took no action, and if any error was commited in making out the death certificate it came after Dr. Green's departure.

TRIBUNE FLEET BEGINS ANNUAL RACE TO CHICAGO

Seek Honor of Delivering First Paper Cargo.

BY HARRY A. LAIRD.

[Traffic Manager, Chicago Tribune.]

THE TRIBUNE'S annual boat race is on. Following the usual practice, the entire fleet of THE TRIBUNE'S subsidiary paper mill, the Ontario Paper company, Ltd., was loaded with newsprint at Thorold, Ont., on the Welland canal during the months of March and April. Ice conditions have been closely watched and now the vessels are en route. At the opening of navigation in 1933, this fleet made the first spring passage of the Straits of Mackinac and may again have the honor of opening interlake navigation to Chicago in 1934.

The fleet consists of the special newsprint carriers, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE with 3,200 tons and the New York News with 2,400 tons as well as the pulpwood carriers, Shelter Bay and Thorold, each with 1,400 tons of newsprint. The boats will pass down the Welland canal this morning scarcely 100 yards apart.

Lake Erie Clear of Ice.

Lake Erie has been practically clear of ice for a week or more, at least west of Dunkirk. Vessels are operating on schedule between the Lake Erie ports of Cleveland, Toledo, and Detroit. The Detroit and St. Clair rivers as well as Lake St. Clair, between Lakes Erie and Huron, are also clear of ice. The west half of Lake Huron offers a wide safe passage, but the Straits of Mackinac connecting Lake Huron with Lake Michigan are carrying an ice barrier from shore to shore. Within the last week, however, warm weather has honeycombed the ice, and a government ice breaker has been in service between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace.

The operating department of the Ontario Paper company, Ltd., is hoping that a strong wind or rain will clear the straits before the arrival of the vessels in northern waters three days hence. If not, they will proceed through the ice as they did in 1933.

Winners in '32 and '33.

The Thorold and Shelter Bay have won alternate races in 1932 and 1933 over the Tribune, handicapped with its heavier load, but this year a new contender, the New York News, is likely to give them an argument. All three captains, Brown, McIntyre, and Heffernan, are confident that they will capture the honor of delivering the first 1934 cargo at Chicago.

...NEW REFINING PROCESS PACKS SUPER SHELL WITH 6900 MORE FIRING CHARGES TO THE GALLON. MOTORISTS ARE GETTING FASTER PICK-UP, MORE POWER AND MILEAGE

YOU MOTORISTS told us you wanted a gasoline with more power and mileage. And now Shell gives it to you in improved new Super Shell, the first "super-charged" gasoline, refined by a new chemical process which packs up to 6900 extra firing charges in every gallon.

Everyone knows that it's firing charges in the engine cylinders that make the wheels go round. So, when a gasoline has as many as 6900 extra firing charges per gallon, you get quicker pick-up, more power—more mileage!

Motorists in hilly parts of the country say they particularly notice Super Shell's pick-up and power on steep, tough grades. Other motorists claim they get as much as one, two, and three miles extra per gallon with Super Shell.

Get improved Super Shell into that car of yours today! This super-charged gasoline still sells at the same price as regular gasoline.

The most modern racing cars and airplanes are equipped with mechanical super-chargers that force gasoline under pressure into the cylinders to get more firing charges per gallon. Now, Super Shell itself is super-charged with up to 6900 extra firing charges per gallon.

HITLER DRAFTS YOUTH TO TRAIN FOR NEW ARMY

All Males of 20 Sent to Military Camps.

among the most martial elements in the ranks of storm troopers, have not been disbanded as Hitler promised. They still exist and their organization has improved. They work together with the secret police. In Berlin their headquarters are in the Kolumbia haus.

Residents of Berlin shudder when asked if they ever had anything to do with the "field police," one of the branches of the auxiliary police. They consider the "field police" ruthless.

Besides hardening the German youth with military training, this picking of army reserves has another advantage. It reduces unemployment.

Roehm Issues Orders.

Capt. Ernst Roehm, Hitler's chief of staf, investigation revealed, had ordered that by April 4 storm troopers and schutzstaffelmen should have picked their best members, organized them in military formation and prepared to be incorporated in the army.

They were ordered quartered in barracks or other buildings in garrison towns near the barracks of the regiments they are to join. The army is opposed to incorporating storm troopers. To date Capt. Roehm has been unable to force the army to abandon its objections.

How Germany is systematically preparing for a large military force also has been indicated by the increase in her military budget.

German industry has been preparing for the new army. Feverish efforts are being made to improve home production of gas, benzine, and oil. Experiments with crude oil and steam engine motors for aviation purposes are being conducted. The nation is working overtime boring for oil. The government advanced $20,000,000 to oil prospectors in Hanover, Thuringia, Baden, allowing them to use the cheap labor of compulsory labor service men.

Another subsidy of $18,000,000 was granted the German dye trust to develop its production of artificial gas and benzine.

Then there is the Krupp works. It, too, is working overtime. The production of the steel mills is 44 per cent higher than a year ago. There seems to be only one industry—military armament.

Labor is no longer free to negotiate for better pay. In plants "of vital necessity to the state" workers are practically drafted. In the Krupp works, 14,000 more employés are at work than a year ago. Yet the total pay roll has dropped.

In the Siemens works, where airplane motors are turned out, 12,000 new workers have been enrolled. There, too, the annual wage bill decreased, showing that military or other pressure is forcing the working man to accept lower wages.

Buys More Raw Materials.

Germany's imports also showed vast purchases of raw materials needed for war purposes. Imports of iron ore and copper increased 100 per cent in 1933. The import of cellulose increased 330 per cent. It can be used to manufacture high explosives.

Meanwhile Germany is getting her new air fleet ready. Minister of Air Hermann Wilhelm Goering, who also is premier of Prussia, has said Germany must have at least 2,800 airplanes for "defensive purposes." The entire nation is being organized by the "Luftschutz," or "protection against air raids."

Every residence in Berlin has an "anti-air raid chief," and one woman in charge of the "air protection hospital." Nurses, former Red Cross nurses, and wives of doctors, have been ordered to train women in buildings in which they live, for service in case of air raids—a training which will be useful for Red Cross purposes in time of war.

Residents Wear Uniforms.

Every German must belong to the "Luftschutz" and pay monthly dues of at least 20 cents. All male members of the "Luftschutz" are allowed to wear a uniform. It brings those into military formation who have managed to escape regimentation in storm troops, veterans' associations and the labor front.

It is safe to say that at the present Germany has 610,000 well trained men, with another 800,000 half trained. Then, too, it is possible to draft manpower at a moment's notice from government controled organizations.

The following are conservative figures of the reich's manpower:

Reichswehr and navy, officially	115,000
Steel Helmet, trained veterans	170,000
Police	185,000
Auxiliary police [pick of the storm troops]	90,000
Customs guards, river guards, etc.	50,000
Total	610,000

To this total might be added the storm troopers, though they are only "half finished" soldiers, and members of the labor camps. Capt. Roehm recently declared he had 790,000 storm troopers, 90,000 of whom are working for the secret police, as auxiliary police.

The half trained men from labor camps and similar organizations increase this force to 800,000 men.

Fifty Injured in Red Demonstration.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 20—For a couple of hours this afternoon Paris relived the feverish days of February, but without the bloodshed, as communist and Socialist forces besieged the Hotel de Ville—the city hall.

The Reds had asked permission to stage a demonstration in the great place in front of the city hall in protest against the government's deflation program, and particularly against the pay cuts imposed on municipal and government employes.

The demonstration was forbidden by the authorities and every street leading to the Hotel de Ville was barred by lines of police, backed up by gardes mobiles with steel helmets and rifles.

Fifty Slightly Injured.

Against these barriers the crowd struggled in vain and, cut into little groups by the tortuous medieval streets of this ancient quarter of Paris, was unable to mass anywhere in dangerous numbers.

The demonstration, which communist and Socialist leaders had hoped would be an impressive dress rehearsal for the so-called revolutionary general strike ordered May 1, was thus a complete fiasco.

Although no real battles occurred, nearly 1,000 arrests were made and about 50 demonstrators and a handful of police were slightly injured. The cops mauled the Reds with their fists or scattered them with well directed kicks, but seldom brought their clubs into play. The rioters offered little resistance.

One of the rioters turned out to be Jean Painleve, well known specialist on scientific movies and a son of the late premier.

Troops Ready for Action.

The most impressive thing about the riot was the setting. Thousands of police and helmeted foot guards were thrown about the quarter, while cavalry was held in readiness in nearby barracks—the greatest police mobilization Paris has seen since the February riots. The rifles of the guards were also unexpected and were a grim reminder of those dramatic days.

Today's affair was a triumph for the new prefect of police, Langeron, who maneuvered his forces with consummate skill. The relative good humor and absence of brutality on the part of the police showed that the famous organization, which went to pieces under faulty leadership in the February riots, had now recovered its morale.

In view of the poor showing of the Reds and the efficiency of the police in this afternoon's riots, it is now considered that the danger of civil war or revolution is rapidly diminishing, although France is not entirely out of the woods yet.

On Way to Capital

Lieutenant Commander Knefler McGinnis who led the squadron of six navy flying boats from San Francisco to Honolulu last January to set a world's distance record for mass nonstop flight, arrived in Chicago yesterday from the west coast. He is on his way to Washington to report for duty in the aeronautic branch of the navy department. He is accompanied by Mrs. McGinnis.

Commander McGinnis stopped in Chicago to visit the home of his sister, Mrs. W. D. A. Peaslee, 550 Surf street. He will remain here until next Thursday. A group of Chicago friends will give a luncheon in his honor at the Tavern club today

The squadron of Consolidated twin motored, flying boats, took off from San Francisco Jan. 11, and arrived in Honolulu the following noon, flying 2,081 nautical miles or 2,396 statute miles. It was the second record breaking hop which the squadron had made within five months, the first, also under command of Lieutenant Commander McGinnis, being 2,020 miles nonstop from Norfolk, Va., to Colo Colo, Panama.

"GHOST" WALKS; AUGURS DEATH OF A HOHENZOLLERN

BERLIN, April 20.—That historic figure, "the white lady," with floating veil and jingling keys, has been seen walking outside the former imperial palace in Berlin, according to rumors recorded in the weekly publication The Kleine Journal.

Legend asserts that appearance of the white lady presages the death of a member of the Hohenzollern family. She has been seen on various occasions since the year 1628, the one best confirmed being in 1840 at the time of the death of Frederick William III.

She is alleged to be the ghost of the widow of an elector of Brandenburg who died without receiving absolution and who prayed that she might be permitted to warn her descendants of their approaching end.

SPAIN OPENS JAIL DOORS TO 9,000 FOES OF REPUBLIC

Socialist Chieftain Calls for a Revolution.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, April 20. — Francisco Largo Caballero, powerful socialist leader of Spain, declared tonight that his followers must seize power by revolution. Speaking at a moment when Catholics were preparing for a great demonstration Sunday and monarchists were preparing to welcome their amnestied friends out of prison, Caballero called for a united proletarian front and the formation of a socialist militia to fight fascism.

He indicated that the socialists must abandon parliament. They need not revolt at once, he said, and will not be provoked into rebellion, but will rise up when they feel the moment has come.

"In the future it is not a question of a republican revolution, but of our own," he said.

9,000 Granted Amnesty.

Former King Alfonso was the only Spanish monarchist remaining an outlaw of the Spanish republic tonight. All others—"criminals of the dictatorship," convicted friends of the king, and rebels of Aug. 10—were granted amnesty by an uproarious session of the cortes [parliament] that witnessed fist fights and once saw pistols drawn.

The gates of Spanish prisons are open at once to about 9,000 rebel conspirators of the right, those convicted for sedition and those jailed for libel against parliament and the president.

With them go free several hundred anarchists, but a joker in the amnesty law keeps thousands more of the latter in prison. No one jailed for rebellion with firearms after last Dec. 3, will be freed. The anarchist uprising came a week later.

Six Shot in Riot.

While the cortes was witnessing its most violent session in years, police were battling a mob a few blocks away before the building where the Catholic Youth organization was opening its long heralded congress. Mobs led by extremists tried to storm the building and in the gun battle that ensued two policemen and six participants were wounded.

Rioting took place in four other sections of Madrid at almost the same hour. Police declare they uncovered a communist plot to seize the Catholic headquarters and assassinate Gil Robles, young Catholic leader.

All roads leading to Madrid were heavily patroled tonight and more precautions will be taken tomorrow.

Riot in Cortes.

In the last moment of the amnesty debate, as socialist orator, Indalecio Prieto, former minister of finance, delivered a scathing attack on Premier Alejandro Lerroux. Disorderly scenes followed. Monarchists, who had long been awaiting this day, clashed with the Socialists amid screaming insults and flying fists.

Somebody threw a water tumbler—Prieto says he did it himself when the Fascist, José Albinana, called him something in colloquial Spanish. More tumblers sailed through the air and silver trays followed. Two deputies were hurt. The 200 pound Prieto later laid hands on Albinana and sent him sprawling beneath the speaker's rostrum with a well placed left.

When the uproar subsided, the entire left stalked out in a body and a vote was taken on the amnesty bill. The enemies of the republic were freed by a vote of 269 to 1.

Nazis Plan Death Penalty for Communist Agitators

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 20.—Chancellor Hitler's government is preparing new and more draconic anti-communist legislation, it was learned today. The government is even debating the advisability of introducing the death sentence for distribution of communist leaflets and literature. It was pointed out the Red literature continues to make its appearance at universities and Storm Troop centers, "showing that communist agitators still are at work."

DE VALERA WINS NEW TILT IN FIGHT TO DROP SENATE

Irish Dail Backs Bill on Second Reading.

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 20. — The second stage of President Eamon de Valera's bill to abolish the Irish Free State senate passed the dail eireann today by a vote of 70 to 51.

Debate lasted three days. The opposition strongly objected to the bill, which is designed to remove the last check upon the government party in parliament. There is an anti-government majority in the senate.

The debate did not concentrate on the merits and demerits of a two house legislative system, although De Valera claimed that great American statesmen like Benjamin Franklin and John Adams favored a single house. The proposal to abolish the senate was not brought up because the senate as such was considered unnecessary, but because that body recently blocked several of De Valera's favorite measures.

Cosgrave Attacks Bill.

One of these was a bill to suppress Gen. Owen O'Duffy's Blue Shirt organization. The government charged that the Blue Shirts were a menace to the state and that immediate suppression was necessary. The bill was blocked two weeks ago.

Former President William T. Cosgrave today attacked the proposal to abolish the senate. He charged that without the senate the government in office could conscript wealth and money from the banks, while the independence of judges would be destroyed because they could be removed by a resolution of the only existing house.

"Actually, the government would be a dictatorship," he cried.

Patrick McGilligan, prominent member of the opposition to De Valera, also criticized the bill. He cited the case of Gen. O'Duffy, who was removed as head of the police by an order of the cabinet. McGilligan said it was admitted that no charge was made against O'Duffy. He charged the latter had been removed "merely because it was desirable there should be a change." He argued that judges would be treated similarly and that no lawyer of standing would take a judicial appointment on such terms.

What De Valera Plans.

De Valera indicated he is willing to replace the senate with a committee which shall examine and report on bills, but absolutely bereft of power. He also said he hoped to remove the name of the king altogether from legislative formalities. This, the president envisaged, would bring about a reunion with northern Ireland.

Further steps in the bill's passage will be taken in the dail within two weeks. It then must go to the senate where it most likely will be blocked. Many government supporters in the senate are not in favor of the measure which would deprive them of their salaries of $1,500 a year.

At the present time the senate may block a bill for 18 months, but at the end of the year a measure comes into force allowing it to delay bill for only three months. Thus the dail could abolish the other chamber by March, 1935.

Members of the senate are elected by the dail and the senate. The normal term is nine years, with one-third of the membership retiring every three years.

HITLER APPOINTS AID AS CHIEF OF SECRET POLICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 20.—Control of all secret police of Germany was placed today in the hands of Heinrich Himmler, one of Chancellor Hitler's oldest collaborators and national chief of the Hitler Guards. Himmler retains control of the Hitler Guards. Consequently he possesses immense powers throughout the reich.

The ministerial councilor, Dr. Rudolph Deils, whom some circles had considered too mild, was removed from the post of inspector of the Prussian GSP [secret police] and was replaced by Himmler. Dr. Diels is a close friend of Premier Hermann Wilhelm Goering of Prussia and was consoled with the appointment as governor of Cologne.

Gen. Goering, originator and supreme head of the secret police, inducted Himmler into his new office in Berlin headquarters of the GSP. Goering said the secret police had quickly developed into a strong defense force feared by all enemies of the state. "When the history of the first year of the Nazi revolution is written, they [the GSP] will occupy a well earned place," he added.

JAP ULTIMATUM SEEN NEW PERIL TO TIES WITH U. S.

Recent Good Will Notes Feared Endangered.

TOKIO, April 20.—(AP)—Japan's admonition to other countries that meddling in China will be stopped by force if need be aroused fears in high circles tonight that it might check efforts to improve relations between the United States and Japan.

Foreign diplomats, astounded by Tokio's "audacity" in issuing last Tuesday's manifesto, and highly placed Japanese admitted that attempts to reach a preliminary American-Japanese naval accord were definitly set back and that the good will expressed on March 21 in notes between Secretary of State Hull and Foreign Minister Hirota may come to naught.

Tokio Press Backs Policy.

One newspaper, the Kokumin, urged a rapprochement between the two nations on the grounds that "if America is on our side we need not fear any combination of other powers." Other papers, however, approved the document, and printed Chinese dispatches purporting to show that the powers are seizing outlying parts of China.

Diplomats appeared dazed by what they called a "white-hands-off-China" policy. They concurred almost unanimously in believing the document to be more startling than any declaration of foreign policy since the 21 Japanese demands to China in 1915 and that Tokio's interpretation and application of the manifesto will determine its effect on world peace.

Well informed persons, in this connection, did not believe Japan will attempt to expel American aviators now in China teaching Chinese flyers and selling airplanes.

Britain Awaits Action by U. S.

LONDON, April 20.—(AP)—Great Britain's policy in the far east, as a result of Japan's new claims to responsibility for keeping peace, will be marked by extreme caution.

The United States must take the initiative, it was said, if it should desire to propose a united front of western powers against the Japanese move so long as the British government does not recognize specific evidence that British interests in China are actually threatened.

Foreign office attachés revealed that no instructions or messages had been sent the British ambassador in Washington as a result of Tokio's declaration, called a "white hands off China" policy and an "Asiatic Monroe doctrine."

Foresee Difficulty for Japs.

In high circles the belief was held that the United States, Great Britain, and soviet Russia are likely to be affected in the greatest degree if Japan carries out the new program, based on the premise that "the time has passed when other powers or the league of nations can prosecute their policies for the exploitation of China."

It was strongly indicated, however, that London feels it unnecessary to make a countermove because Japan would find it extremely difficult to enforce any ban on foreign aid to China such as, in the case of the United States, airplanes and cotton and wheat loans. China's far flung frontiers, it was pointed out, will make any attempts at blockades by Japan impractical.

The impression was given that the British government feels it has worries enough in European nationalistic rivalries without going out of the way to curb Japan. This, some London leaders hint, is principally the United States' worry.

Japs Plan Protest to League.

GENEVA, April 20.—(AP)—Japan was understood today to be preparing to repeat its warning to the league of nations that the league's technical assistance to China may become political and hence harmful.

The occasion for the warning, as explained by responsible Japanese, is twofold:

1. Dr. Ludwig Rajchman, the league's envoy to China, who is returning to Geneva bearing a plan for Chinese assistance which, to Japan's mind, may be inimical to China's best interests; and

2. Japan desires to explain the Japanese doctrine concerning the peaceful development of the far east.

Relations Are Strained.

Regarding the first point, league circles said that the relations between Dr. Rajchman and Japan were not of the best. The Japanese feel that they are left out in the cold on the league project for the reconstruction of China and that they should be consulted. As Japan has resigned from the league and does not sit in the council, it is not represented.

A league council committee on Chinese assistance, which includes the United States, will meet in May to consider Dr. Rajchman's plan.

The Japanese likewise are preparing to tell the league that they are trying to negotiate a de facto recognition of their self-created state, Manchukuo, by northern China.

France Fears for Open Door.

PARIS, April 20.—(AP)—France fears that Japan's "oriental Monroe doctrine" will mean an end to the open door in China.

Authoritative sources disclosed that the foreign office has been in touch with Washington and London trying to find out whether Japan is really serious or just bluffing in an attempt to bring recognition to the Japanese protected empire of Manchukuo.

The French have "no desire to bind themselves with Japan," these circles said.

Film Writer's Wife Says He Spends All on Riotous Life

Los Angeles, Cal., April 20.—(AP)—James Kevin McGuinness, motion picture scenario writer, earns $1,000 a week and "has persisted in spending the whole thereof in the purchase of intoxicating liquors, in gambling and riotous living," his wife, Elizabeth Quinn McGuinness, charged today in a suit for separate maintenance. The couple married in New York Sept. 20, 1929, and separated last Oct. 16, she asserted. She asks $2,155 a month alimony, $15,000 attorney fees, and $2,500 court costs.

BRITAIN TO YIELD IN ARMS ROW TO SAVE PROSPERITY

Prepares to Heed the French Demand.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 20.—"Great Britain must now make up its mind to make some positive contribution to disarmament."

This remark by a British diplomat today sealed the change of front which Britain is preparing to make on the French demand for security in exchange either for general disarmament or German rearmament.

Just how far Britain will go and to what extent it will commit itself to help France in case of an unprovoked attack by Germany will be the subject of anxious consideration by British statesmen between now and the meeting of the general disarmament commission at Geneva a month from now.

Arms Race Looms.

It is not likely that any policy will be developed before the meeting of the bureau [steering committee] on April 30. Even if it was, the bureau would not be the place to disclose it, that organization's only function being to decide whether to call the general commission or not.

Britain, having failed in its efforts to secure an agreement between France and Germany by direct negotiation and restoration of confidence, now is forced to submit to the French demand for guarantees in Europe or fall into a armaments race which would be ruinous to every one and sure to destroy its own newly found prosperity.

It is against all the instincts of the British people to enter into a formal defensive alliance. But in this case public opinion is being prepared to accept the view that prosperity is worth some sacrifice and by giving a pledge that it may never be called upon to fulfill, Britain may assure world peace for another generation.

Predict Dramatic Showdown.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

GENEVA, April 20.—League of nations' circles today forcast a dramatic showdown on disarmament on May 23.

That is the date when representatives of the nations in the world disarmament conference are scheduled to return to Geneva in full session to attempt to catch and pull together the flying strings of the many sided problem of arms control.

There are even unconfirmed rumors that France may insist upon an investigation of German armament before consenting to negotiate any sort of a disarmament treaty.

But the differences of France, Germany and Great Britain form but one section of the problem as a whole.

Linked with Jap Statement.

Today a tendency was seen in Geneva to link what one official called the "disturbed" disarmament situation with developments in the far east growing out of the newly stated Japanese policy that western powers must keep hands off China.

Some progress was seen by well informed sources here in the British "white paper" revelation at London Thursday that Germany had expressed a willingness to postpone reduction of armaments by other powers for five years.

This stand, taken in a previously unrevealed note to Great Britain, it was stated here, may reduce the apprehensions of France regarding Germany's arms—apprehensions which led her to state flatly that there could be no further hope of bilateral agreements with the reich operating under a budget granting increases for military purposes.

DEERFIELD POOR MASTER AGAIN DEFIES CITIZENS

After eleven months the troubles of William J. Obee, supervisor, treasurer, and poormaster of Deerfield township, are continuing. Last May some 2,000 citizens of Highland Park and Highwood, included in Deerfield township, assembled in town meeting and demanded his resignation because of dissatisfaction with the manner in which he had been administering town relief. Obee refused to resign.

Last night the annual town meeting was held again and the 1,000 citizens assembled voted a levy of $60,000 for 1935-'36, a year ahead. This done, they turned to Obee and last year's difficulties.

One of the problems dating back to last year was a bill for $1,600 owed by the township to a private auditing firm for scanning Obee's relief records. Obee, it developed, had, as treasurer, refused to pay the audit bill. Attorney Maurice Berkson, one of the 1,000 present, shouted that Obee ought to pay it or resign. Many in the crowd took up the cry. Obee retorted he would not resign. He added that the charity records were in fine shape. Then he explained his refusal to pay the audit bill. If he did so, he said, he or his bondsman might be held liable. He agreed to pay the town debt if his liability were guaranteed.

INSULL RECEIVES AN UNSCHEDULED THRILL AT SEA

ABOARD S. S. EXILONA, en route to Casa Blanca, Morocco, April 20.—An unscheduled thrill brought Samuel Insull and other passengers on this ship to the rails today to watch the maneuvers of two submarines over which hovered a hug seaplane, apparently a bomber.

The submarines, which appeared to be French, submerged and rose again and at dusk reappeared with lights on their conning towers on the other side of the Exilona. Capt. Wenzel Habel hoisted a flag in salute, which evidently was not seen by the submarines. They did not reply.

Among the entertainments aboard the Exilona, the chief is reading, Insull has unpacked a vast stock of books placed in his luggage by Mrs. Insull before he fled Greece. Capt. Habel also has shown a few old prints and engravings, of which he is a collector. They include a Thames river scene by Whistler of 1859 and two rare mezzotints by Edward Dayes, a famous 18th century English engraver.

TWO HOTELS ROBBED.

The Cass hotel, 640 North Wabash avenue, and the Lincoln Park hotel, 1706 North La Salle street, were robbed of $54 and $14, respectively, by a bandit early yesterday.

MARTIN INSULL GRANTED THIRD DELAY IN TRIAL

Martin J. Insull, one time president of the billion dollar Middle West Utilities company, brother of the more publicized Samuel Insull Sr., gained his third continuance yesterday on charges of larceny and embezzlement totaling $364,720.

The continuance was obtained before Judge James F. Fardy of the Criminal court when Martin Insull's lawyer, John E. Northup, said he had planned to have former Chief Justice John Prystalski testify as to the manner in which the February, 1933, grand jury was drawn. Northup is seeking to quash the indictment on the ground that the grand jury which returned it was illegally drawn.

Judge Prystalski was busy hearing a case yesterday, but a transcript of the proceedings is being prepared and the state is expected to stipulate as to its authenticity. The case will come up again on May 2.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm By Bob Becker

Farm Feels Touch of Spring

April 20, 1934.

THE farm has felt the touch of spring this week in many ways unknown or unseen to the city dweller. While the seeding has been going on the fields and the sun was pouring its heat into the woods, pastures, and meadows, the warm "chinook" winds which prevailed early in the week breathed new life and color into everything. Walking across the fields to check on how many ducks were on the pond and how green the new grass was showing in the woods, I couldn't help but think how many uncounted pleasures there are in farm life when it is time to turn the soil and plant seeds, plan the garden and watch the countryside take on new life under a spring sun.

◆

In the poultry yard all the Barred Rock chicks which started life under a brooder now are having a great time in the orchard. Heretofore they have been confined in their own chicken house. Out in the fields and woods spring is waving her banners everywhere . . . a garter snake still wearing its winter "coat," basking in the sun and so sluggish that it didn't want to move. . . . Lilac trees getting green with their new, partially unfolded leaves. . . . Young willows simply radiant in a vivid, light green, a color unmatched by any tree or shrub to be seen in fields or woods . . . a ruby crowned kinglet flashing his brilliant bit of color at us when surprised in a budding hawthorn tree . . . mallards rising from the pond with much quacking and complaining . . . the shrill, joyous chorus of the frogs in the marsh . . . meadowlarks sailing over a green meadow while a hawk soars above on lazy wings . . . violets trying to push their new spring growth against the dead leaves which carpet the floor of the oak woods . . . the ewes and their lambs enjoying the brightest, greenest field on the farm—the rolling acreage that is covered with winter rye . . . Nanette and her only kid sunning themselves on the south side of their little home. Everywhere on the farm you find evidences of how spring has infused new life into the countryside.

Right in the middle of spring and all the hustle on the farm walked the sheep shearer yesterday. There was a job for him and his sharp blades because Rawlings had 15 ewes scheduled to lose their heavy wool. The shearer didn't take long to separate these ewes from their winter overcoats. The price of wool today is just about twice as high as it was a year ago. Now Rawlings is going to fatten these ewes for the market.

There will be no more lambs born on the farm this spring. The big brown tent which was set up for the benefit of the ewes and their babies can now be taken down. Right now there are 56 pairs of twin lambs and 91 single lambs recorded on the books in addition to the 147 mother ewes. All of these have been out in the fields the last two days finding their own food, so no hay has been fed them in the feeding racks.

And the danger of its protection by unfaithful officials and of the impairment of the fundamental security of life and property by criminal alliances and official neglect emphasize the primary need of a vigilant and courageous press, especially in great cities. The fact that the liberty of the press may be abused by miscreant purveyors of scandal does not make any the less necessary the immunity of the press from previous restraint in dealing with official misconduct."

GOV. HORNER AND THE ILLINOIS NRA.

The Illinois NRA bill appears in the legislature with the backing of Gov. Horner. It is a development which many of his friends will regret and they will be obliged to support the legislators who are resisting this attempt to Johnsonize Illinois industry with the approval and consent of the state.

In no direction does the federal government show any signs of relaxing its administration of American private activities. It gathers them within its control and even if all the governmental philosophy is not openly as portentous as that of Prof. Tugwell in the agricultural department all the acts proceed as if flowing from his study. Permanence and not emergency is the foundation of the new government structure now rising.

Gov. Horner, even as a Democrat, was counted on for certain prudent reservations, especially when the professors and not the party speaks. The Democratic party has yet to indorse the measures and policies of the administration in Washington. It probably will be forced to do so and accept battle, but the planned society is all a post-election revelation, no item of which has been given electoral consent. Therefore Gov. Horner is not required or privileged to plead party regularity as a reason for forcing Fascism upon his own state.

The insistence of the national administration that the states adopt the NRA codes and incorporate them within their own law may come from the belief that the legal position of the national codes as affecting purely intrastate business is shaky and needs bolstering. Therein lies the greater reason for maintaining within the state such constitutional rights as still exist. States which surrender will lose completely. States which resist will have a remnant of liberty, at least subject to final court decisions.

Many states caving in to the prohibition hysteria immediately regretted it and lamented their inexplicable rashness. There is more hysteria than reason in the United States now and prudence will be its own reward later. Illinois does not need an NRA law. It needs to avoid one.

It is to be noted with regret that Gov. Horner is showing as little regard for American principles in Illinois as Gov. Lehman reveals in New York.

TAKING UP THE FLAG.

It is good news that the organization known as the Crusaders is to be revived and its energies turned to the defense of constitutional Americanism. The service of this organization in the campaign to rid the nation of the prohibition blight was conspicuously able and its extension to the general field of constitutional defense is logical and promising. The need for such organized effort at this time is urgent. The influences for the subversion of American institutions are organized and powerful. Conditions, although they do not justify subversion, at least to loyal Americanism, nevertheless strengthen these influences, which must be efficiently fought and defeated if we are not to lose most of the things which Americans cherish. The Crusaders propose to take up the fight and we hope their members will increase. Other citizen organizations should enter the field, coöperating to create effective resistance to the influences at work undermining the free society founded on our constitution to replace it with a socialist or communist state.

PAROLE OF CRIMINALS.

Judge Feinberg's rebuke of parole officials for neglect of duty in a case before him will have the approval of a public which is increasingly impatient with the administration of the parole system. The number of serious crimes committed by parolees has become a scandal which the community will not much longer tolerate. The principles on which parole is founded offer less and less consolation for the weaknesses revealed in administration. Either we must have more efficient surveillance of parolees or the system will have to be given up. It is becoming a serious menace to public safety.

This prospect should be more frankly faced by humanitarian supporters of the system, who are largely responsible for its abuse. They would be better friends of parole if they directed their influence toward making it more efficient for the protection of the public and their influence would be more deserving of respect if they showed more concern over the fate of victims of paroled criminals and less false sentiment for offenders.

But whatever the viewpoint, actual conditions call for drastic correction by competent men who will put the emphasis of reform where it belongs, on the restraint of violence and public protection. The factor of salvage needs reconsideration in the light of experience. There has been too much gambling with theories of reconstruction at the expense of innocent victims, and while any desirable system of penal control must regard this phase of policy, experiment should be brought within limits of public safety. Surveillance is inadequate in quantity and quality. Parole is granted too often upon incompetent judgment and in too many instances in circumstances strongly suggesting corrupt influence. The whole situation needs overhauling.

CHAMBERLAIN'S MONEY IN THE POCKET.

Mr. Neville Chamberlain's budget report as chancellor of the exchequer is full of quiet but transparent satisfaction. He is able to reduce some taxes, to increase the dole, and to show a surplus of $159,000,000. The budget is referred to as the prosperity budget. Granting that the achievement is all Mr. Chamberlain modestly says it is, it is to be noted that it has been accomplished with fewer extraordinary and revolutionary practices than have been adopted in any other country, with the possible exception of France. Certainly there has been no such brain trusting and society planning as has been attempted in the United States.

It is true Americans are forced to look to the England of Lloyd George and Ramsay MacDonald for the germs of many of the ideas which perplex them here. Lloyd George peered over the shoulders of the German State Socialists and picked up a lesson here and there which we find now on the American blackboard in a staggering array of figures. Lloyd George sent a second Mayflower to American shores with a great many seeds in it, and Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's Labor government replenished the supply. The British stopped cultivating some of the Lloyd George-Ramsay MacDonald gardens, but the Americans have every acre full of the weeds.

Another thought will occur and it will have to do with the surplus. Mr. Chamberlain informed the house of commons that no provision had been made for a real payment on the debt to the United States. There were many cheers at that statement. When virtual repudiation began, the excuse was bankruptcy. In this case the debtor is pulling himself out of his debt at home and his creditor is going into debt deeper. The debtor cannot assert that he is powerless. He says he has money in his pocket. The case therefore changes, and although repudiation here and abroad, in domestic obligations and international obligations, has become the common thing, it has not yet become the moral thing. It has not yet proved that in human affairs requiring sanctity of obligation disregard of obligation can be made a permanent and honorable rule.

Promises which take money from one man's pocket and put it in another have been disavowed. Governments as well as individuals have sought to deprive the person from whom they took money of his due return, but there is a conservative thought of old-fashioned morality that men cannot deal with each other upon such terms. Neither men nor nations can do it and it is an evil omen for the future that the most powerful governments in the world are setting the example of dishonor and repudiation.

AT THE END OF THE AIRPLANE INQUIRY.

The indignation of legislators is usually and mainly histrionic, and to this variety the public may safely assign the heat shown by Democratic senators at the suggestion from Republican sources that the senate committee on banking and currency had stopped the inquiry into short selling of aviation stocks to avoid discovering that friends of the administration had profited by inside information.

At any rate, the suggestion is at least as reasonable and more plausible than the charges on which the postmaster general based his notorious order, charges he has not yet substantiated or showed any will to substantiate except by vague generalities and unsupported accusation. The ethics of that proceeding are as malodorous as ever and justify acute suspicion of the motives and morals of the whole transaction.

Editorial of the Day

[Detroit News.]

The widely known British military expert, Liddell Hart of the London Daily Telegraph, differs from other qualified prophets in believing that the next war, if and when it comes, would be a tame affair compared to the last one.

"Most likely air forces will strike in the first hour of the war, before mobilization has begun," he says. "The intricate mobilization machinery of the modern horde army is the easiest thing in the world to throw out of gear. The centralization of water, light, heat and power supplies makes dislocation easier and paralysis more certain."

General stafs still think in terms of mass movements and believe the larger their armies the more powerful they will be. The fallacy in this, he contends, was exposed by the mechanical progress which made a machine gunner the superior of 100 or even 1,000 men advancing on him with rifle and bayonet. Artillery, he holds, is on the wane, for it has become no more than an inefficient and uneconomic machine gun destroyer. Assuming that two armies finally arrive on the field, the capacity of gas to render them helpless will have so increased that it is doubtful whether, in another war, they will ever come to the point of sighting one another.

The coming war, until now, has been pictured as one in which armies will be exterminated in an hour, and as being otherwise too dreadful to think about. Liddell Hart thinks it will be a futile, inconclusive and relatively innocuous affair. In either case it would seem hardly worth while to let the coming war occur.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

I THINK the New Deal lacks originality. Everybody knows, and I didn't hear this at a small dinner party at Washington, either, that the Soviet emblem is a sickle and hammer with a star above. On the new three cent postage stamp, the one that represents four people marching and which is captioned "In a Common Determination," one of the marchers carries a scythe and another a hammer, and in the corner are rays such as are supposed to come from a star. Now if they summon me to Washington to explain why I think a scythe and hammer with star rays above the emblem bears a striking resemblance to the Soviet sickle and hammer with the star above, and that consequently I don't think the New Dealers are very original, I'll just stand pat and insist that I think the Reds ought to sue the New Dealers for infringement of copyright. That ought to make 'em keep me down there three or four days more for further questioning, and it's grand to be in Washington for three or four days right now with all the Japanese cherry trees doing their stuff all over the place.

DESERTED GARDEN.

A deserted garden lay asleep;
The winter hemisphere
Seemed perennial as the leap
Of a wounded deer;

But the garden, dreaming
Of solstices of sun,
Did not know behind the silence
Was a hidden one.

The carrot swords with broken handles
Daggered through the earth
And the twisted parsnip handles
Gave the wind a mirth;

Turnips tipped with lavender
Were small eternities;
They knew the use of provender
The actualities.

Squatty beets like purple jewels
Uncut, in the rough,
Had no code of morals, rules,
Amethyst enough.

Never conscious of the winter—
The petunia-ed fall—
The deserted garden slept unknowing
Of theatrical.

DROPSY.

In dropsy there is an undue amount of water in the tissues. In addition, we may speak of a condition as being dropsical when there is an accumulation of fluid in the body cavities, all or several, because this condition may go hand in hand with fluid in the tissues and be a result of the same cause.

This accumulation of fluid is an effect, and when it is present effort should be made to look beyond it to the cause. The significance of the symptom depends largely on what has caused it, and treatment that is not directed at the cause is not liable to be of lasting benefit.

The two most important causes are organic heart disease with a weak heart muscle and disease of the kidney, one of the varieties which, taken collectively, are called Bright's disease. Among the less important causes are cirrhosis of the liver, severe anemia, varicose veins in the legs, obstructions to blood or lymph vessels in the pelvis and thigh regions, and local acidosis.

There are three kinds of Bright's disease in which there may be dropsy. The first is the acute disease which follows such acute causes as sore throat and scarlet fever. The dropsy in this kind of Bright's disease is apt to be suspected because of puffiness around the eyes. It may spread to the entire body, including the legs, but there is not likely to be any great waterlogging of the legs that is so suggestive of heart disease when there are no varicose veins in the legs.

A dropsy that seems to start as a puffiness of the eyes should always suggest an examination of the urine. It may be caused by trichinosis or by a local acidosis [the cause of swollen eyes in the morning after deep sleep], but the kidneys are under suspicion whenever swelling appears to start in the face.

There are those who say if people with scarlet fever or sore throat will eat nothing except fruits, and will take enough soda to keep the urine alkaline, acute nephritis will not follow the main disorder.

A second form of nephritis with dropsy or edema is that which goes by the name nephrosis. It is characterized by much puffiness of the face, general edema, and albuminuria. This kind of kidney trouble is halfway between acute and chronic Bright's. The Bright's that comes on so frequently during pregnancy is apt to be of this kind.

The typical chronic Bright's does not cause dropsy until it has lasted a long time and it may never cause it. When it does, the heart, as well as the kidneys, is apt to be involved and the dropsy is caused by the kidney and heart troubles in combination. If there is dropsy it is liable to be especially in evidence in the legs and, if so, the heart disorder is probably the larger part of the cause.

It is held that acidosis is one factor in dropsy, whatever the main cause may be. Swelling of the ankles in summer, not due to other causes, is charged to local acidosis.

Whenever there is dropsy from any cause the physician is apt to try by diet and medicines to keep up the alkali reserve. A tendency to break down as the end approaches in chronic Bright's may be indicated by development of dropsy. However, it is more apt to take the form of restlessness leading to coma and convulsions. This physicians try to ward off by giving alkalis.

DIZZY SPELLS.

R. A. M. writes: For the last few years I have been taking a medicine for dizzy spells, which were supposed to be caused from nervousness. It helped some but not completely. With the repeal of prohibition I started drinking and it seemed to help, as at different times I have felt a spell coming on, and I would drink one or two beers or highballs, and the feeling would pass away. Do you think drinking had anything to do with controling these spells?

REPLY.

Much depends on the nature of the dizzy spells and their cause. If fear is the principal cause, getting drunk on Dutch courage may help by making you indifferent to what happens. If you are wise you will have a physician find why you have dizzy spells. Maybe you are more scared than hurt. People have been known to throw a fit to have an excuse for a few snorts.

CALLUS.

S. T. B. writes: I am nearly 60 and have never been conscious of foot troubles or corns until now. This winter I had a painful callus on my foot, just under the big toe joint. What is the cause and the remedy?

REPLY.

You can get relief by keeping the callus pared or by removing it periodically with corn medicines and paring in combination. You should get much relief from keeping the area covered with moleskin adhesive. To prevent callus from returning rubbing and friction must be avoided. Wearing broad toed shoes will prevent pressure in many cases. Of all methods of prevention none compares with wearing broad, easy shoes.

TRAINING IS NEEDED.

Miss F. R. writes: For the last few years I have been troubled with a peculiar sensation whenever I see some one in agony, or when some one tells me the details of an operation, or if I cut or bruise myself. I seem to get weak and can't stand on my feet. Everything goes black and I have to close my eyes, sweat comes out all over my body, my stomach turns, and I feel nauseated. I believe it is a fainting spell. Can you please tell me what causes it and what the cure is?

REPLY.

The trouble is with your emotional control. Such experiences give you a mental shock which in turn causes your blood pressure to drop to near the "faint" level. Training is the only remedy.

UNPAID DEBT.

Chicago, April 14. — [Legal Friend of the People.]—1. In the latter part of 1927 my father died owing a drug store bill for medicine, etc., [2] leaving no estate. This druggist now threatens to collect via an attorney by getting in touch with the firm I work for. 3. I was not of age at the time of my father's death. 4. Was I as a minor responsible? 5. What recourse have I to this man's threat of collection and communicating with my employers? 6. Is my mother still responsible if I do not have enough money to give her to pay this bill? P. L. A.

1. In general, children are not liable for their parents' debts.

2. If the debtor left an estate, the creditor would be entitled to collect from the estate, but on the facts that you state we see no basis for collection.

3. Even if you had promised to pay the debt while you were a minor, the fact of minority would be a defense.

4. No.

5. Notify him that you will hold him liable for any damages that he inflicts upon you.

6. It seems probable that she is liable under the family expense statute.

DIVISION OF ESTATE.

Niles, Mich., April 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A widow died leaving a house and a block of stock to be divided equally between three children. 1. One child, A, has a loan at a bank with the mother's name and his own name as security. A second child, B, also has a loan at the same bank, with the mother's name, his own name, and the block of stock as security. The will has been probated recently in Illinois where the property is located. 2. If B pays up his loan could the bank keep the stock until A's loan was paid up, having the regular confessed judgment demand note? 3. Would they have to turn it over to the estate? 4. Could they sell it to pay A's loan? 5. Could A sell his one-third of the stock to a second party at the present time to pay off his note? 6. If B's note is paid up and all outstanding debts against the estate are paid? 7. Could he, a year after the will is probated? 8. Does the house belong to the heirs or the estate? 9. Could a mortgage be placed on the house at the present time? N. E.

1. We assume that you mean that in each case the mother was the borrower and that the child signed as security.

2. It seems probable that the understanding at the time of the original transaction was that all of the security would apply on the total debt.

3. See 2.

4. In general, a bank can sell collateral if the debt is not paid.

2. He could sell subject to the bank's interest.

6. It is not clear what question you intend to ask.

7. Same.

8. The will could be so worded as to pass the title to the executor or pass it directly to the heirs.

9. In order to handle the transaction on an ordinary basis, you would have to wait until the passage of the period for creditors allowed to file their claims.

Friend of the Insured

The Tribune herewith presents the fourth of a series of articles on insurance. All phases of insurance will be discussed. Subsequently questions from readers of the column will be answered. Address inquiries to the Friend of the Insured.

Commodities of all kinds are bought at different prices for different qualities, and each of these different qualities may be worth the price charged.

This, however, is not the case with insurance, a fact which is often overlooked. There seems to be a general tendency to measure an insurance policy and to accept responsibility of the companies behind it by standards much lower than experience proves necessary.

This tendency to "take a chance" with policies in companies of doubtful character is proved by some companies which find no difficulty in selling their policies, despite the fact that, measured by sound insurance standards, they are unworthy of the confidence of the policyholder. Up to a certain point the price of insurance is similar to the price of other necessities in that the cost of the raw materials and the cost of producing and selling them are the factors to be considered. At that point the similarity disappears, because while the cost of raw materials in all other necessities is known in advance the cost of the raw material of insurance [claims] is unknown at the time of the sale, and is only known when the period of protection has expired.

The cost of insurance protection is not under the control of the seller as are other commodities, subject to overproduction and competitive bidding; it is an unknown future at the time of the sale. A good price may be paid for a hat of excellent quality, and a lesser price for one of "pretty good" quality, but there is no such thing as "pretty good" insurance; in the final analysis it is good or it is bad.

We urge all stockmen to join us in protesting the levying of a processing tax on cattle, because we feel it causes confusion and dissatisfaction in the industry.

We are an economic factor that has a right to be heard before the economic bar of justice.

We are beef and hog producers and feeders who feel that our rights should not be taken from us without our consent. The processing tax is socialistic in its application. It is also seriously lacking in uniformity of practical application, which should not be approved as a measure of public policy.

It also destroys initiative and impairs the free play of economic forces within the industry.

It is a tax upon efficiency and we maintain that feed costs are the limiting factor in production control.

It is taxation without adequate representation, which is thoroughly un-American in principle.

Returning money to our people is a thinly veiled gift detrimental to our character.

We feel that our people, though hard pressed, are still steadfastly of the opinion that our system of law and protection under the constitution must be preserved at all cost, and we respectfully request that all public spirited citizens work for the repeal of all autocratic legislation, to the end that our institutions may be preserved for our continued benefit and that we may hand them unimpaired to our posterity. Stockmen.

LET FREEDOM RING.

Chicago, April 16.—I believe it is an old Chinese proverb which states, "A picture is equal to ten thousand words," or something to that effect. The cartoons in regard to the present administration in Washington, which appear almost daily in The Tribune, speak volumes and "hit the bullseye" every shot. The one in Sunday's issue [April 15], depicting the hope of the poor boy under the old system and the lack thereof under the New Dealers, was exceptionally forcible. Please keep up the good work; let freedom ring. Erwin Baumruck.

IN SHORT PANTS.

Chicago, April 18.—In Voice of the People April 17, Mr. Edward G. Bern wants to know where the brain trusters were in 1918. [illegible] somewhere between the kindergarten and the grammar school. A. F. Meserve.

SOMETHING HID BEHIND THE RANGES.

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 8. – Japan fights for the right to place her surplus population into ancient Manchuria; Russia sends hers into coldest Siberia; France, Italy, push their expensive emigration drives into the Sahara; Jews butt their heads futilely against the double wall of arid, occupied Palestine; Britain vainly seeks relief for her surplus, while our own trek back to the farm, which cannot now sustain them. Crude mass movements everywhere! Meanwhile—

There is a tract of unoccupied, fertile, well watered land, well fitted by nature to support millions of white people, with a climate similar to and as healthy as our southern states; a land empty now save for only 20,000 whites and a native density of ten per square mile (about twice the Negro density of Indiana-Illinois); one mass of land stretching 1,500 miles north and south, 400 to 800 miles east and west, not counting a 50-100 mile strip of low, hot lands along the sea. In all, half as large as continental United States; a land primarily British, where one great obstacle now is its very fertility and emptiness; a land whose products parallel those of the United States, from cocoanuts, cotton, and rice, to wheat, peas, and barley; a self-contained land, well supplied with minerals, coal, and iron; rich in timber and water power; almost an island within a continent, with 1,000 miles of sea coast on the east and even longer frontiers toward the west about great fresh water lakes, one larger than Lake Michigan, one longer than any other fresh water lake.

A million families from each of our great white nations, 30,000,000 souls, might, with a truly planned economy, at once begin to occupy this empty, virgin land, developing their own "ism" and emerge a new, productive, progressive social group, "and live happy ever after."

Such is the practical, actual vista offered by the great, warm-temperate (not tropical) rift country of eastern Africa, half a mile to a mile and a half above sea level, in Uganda, Kenya, Tanganyika, Nyasaland, etc.; in short, centering in British East Africa.

Starvation assails the men made social world, but not the world that "in the beginning God created."

Frederick Hoffman, B. S.

ARE WE SUPPOSED TO TREMBLE!

Chicago, April 10.—I wish to make an emphatic protest against your editorial of April 9 entitled "Out of Harm's Way" which, while ridiculing "The New Dealers," also accuses every ex-service man, who did not see action in the line, of neglect of duty.

In view of the fact that you are fully aware of how little control the average enlisted man or officer had over his placement during the world war, I am [illegible] your deliberate calumny [illegible] the American Legion for such action as they may see fit to take. K. Llewellyn.

BAN ON SCHOOLS NOT EFFECTIVE FOR ONE YEAR

Remedies Are Under Way—Bogan Explains.

The students of ten Chicago high schools which were barred from the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools yesterday will not be affected by the ruling for one year and the entire ban may never go into effect, A. W. Clevenger, head of the association's reviewing committee which recommended the action, said yesterday.

The barring of the schools, which was the chief business before the convention of the association at the Stevens hotel, was simply automatic procedure, Mr. Clevenger explained. The Chicago board of education has already started to rectify conditions in the schools and should meet requirements by next year, he said.

Criticize 29 Other Schools.

The association yesterday also criticized 29 other schools of the Chicago system, attacked the three head control of the department of education, dropped seven college members of its organization, and admitted or reinstated 48 other schools. The convention will close today.

The action against the ten Chicago high schools was taken following an extended survey under direction of Mr. Clevenger, representing the University of Illinois and the state department of education.

Since the schools were not accredited by these agencies, the barring by North Central was automatic, he explained. A special ruling has been invoked so graduates of the schools will not be required to take special college examinations this year and the superintendent of schools will have opportunity to revise the system during the year of probation.

Changes Already Under Way.

"We found evidences that such changes are already under way and that they were being pushed rapidly," Mr. Clevenger said. "However, since the schools were reorganized in the fall, there has not been time to meet the requirements. Our standards were not met, so we had to recommend as we did. We hope to see conditions met next year, and in that case the ban would not go into effect."

Supt. William J. Bogan issued the following statement on the association's action:

"The criticism regarding three independent heads to the school system—namely: the superintendent of schools, the business manager, and the legal adviser, is a criticism of the law, not of the administration of the system. The heavy teaching load is due to the poverty of the board of education. No teachers have been added to the system in two years. The housing situation will be improved as rapidly as possible.

Emergency Conditions Blamed.

"In normal times every teacher employed in the Chicago high schools is qualified to teach the subjects assigned, but under the stress of the great emergency of the last year it was not possible to fit each one to that part of the program in which he could give his best service. The condition is gradually being remedied. When the schools open in September practically all requirements will be met.

"There is little prospect of reducing the heavy teaching load before next February unless the board of education secures funds from the state or national government."

The following ten high schools, created last fall, were barred from the North Central: Amundsen, Farragut, Foreman, Harper, Hirsch, Kelly, Kelvyn Park, Manley, Sullivan, and Von Steuben. The action was based on seven points of criticism: Impaired instruction efficiency, lack of textbooks, inadequate library facilities, excessive teacher load, pupil level in classes too widespread, high school and elementary divisions in same building not coöperating, and insufficient attention to branch schools.

Eleven Schools Warned.

Eleven schools were warned by the association they are not meeting requirements. They are Englewood, Lake View, Lindblom, Tilden and McKinley high schools, with inadequate library facilities, and Englewood evening school, Fenger and Flower Technical High schools, Lake View evening school, McKinley and Park High schools, with insufficiently trained teachers. Eighteen other schools were "advised" to correct their standards.

The 19 page report commended Chicago teachers, principals and superintendents for doing admirable work during the 1933-'34 school year.

Seven colleges dropped from the North Central accredited lists are the University of Detroit, Xavier university, Cincinnati; Rochester [Minn.] Junior college; McKendree college, Lebanon, Ill.; Ashland college, Ashland, O.; Regis college, Denver, Colo., and the College of the Ozarks, Clarksville, Ark. Three other schools, Butler university, Indianapolis; Colorado collefe, and the University of Denver, are allowed to remain technically on the accredited list while a reinspection of them is being made.

In response to a request from Supt. Bogan the commission on higher education of the association voted to name a committee to aid the Chicago board of education in the establishment of three junior colleges in the city. The action of the commission must go before the general executive committee for final approval before it is effective.

U. S. DIRIGIBLE MACON OFF FOR CARIBBEAN TO MEET WARSHIPS

Sunnyvale, Cal., April 20.—(AP)—The navy dirigible Macon started across the continent today to keep a rendezvous Thursday with the United States fleet in the Caribbean sea and was reported this afternoon near Monterey.

At Miami, Fla., she is to be serviced before taking part in fleet activities.

Nineteen officers and 80 men made up her crew. Commander A. H. Dresel said the Macon had behaved satisfactorily in tests during her various short cruises over California and along the coast in recent months.

113 BATTLESHIPS ATTACK PANAMA DEFENSES TODAY

10,000 Men Ready to Resist Invasion.

BY GERALD MARTIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUARRY HEIGHTS, Panama, C. Z., April 20.—Representing the fleet of a world power which has destroyed or eluded the United States' Pacific naval forces, the United States' naval might, consisting of 113 line ships and 300 airplanes, will make a determined effort early tomorrow morning to wrest control of the Panama canal from the 10,000 defenders of this vital American artery. The defenses consist of coast artillery, submarines and airplanes.

This evening searchlights were sweeping the skies in an unending procession, lighting the heavens with an eerie, man made glow, while listening posts scattered along the Isthmian coast waited tensely for the betraying hum of hostile aircraft.

Ambush Awaits Enemy.

Sixteen inch guns, hidden among the scattered ilands protecting Balboa harbor, are ready as restive crews stand by, waiting none too patiently for the churning screws of the "enemy" fleet to announce its closeness to the delicate listening apparatus.

Army and navy aircraft are ambushed along the coast in temporary landing places, ready to pounce upon the enemy at a moment's notice and rain theoretical bombs upon its aircraft carriers.

Along the canal, from the Pacific to the Atlantic, anti-aircraft guns and machine guns at strategic points are prepared to hurl imaginary shells skywards upon the enemy planes' approach.

Safety of Canal at Stake.

The defenders realize that upon them depends the canal's safety, for there is no fleet to defend them. Dug in from the Costa Rican to the Colombian borders, the infantry, artillery and engineers are ready to repel attempts by landing parties to outflank the canal's fixed fortifications.

Despite their paucity in numbers, the Panama canal department's troops are versatile and highly trained to "double in brass" and the infantry is prepared to handle the antiaircraft guns, while the artillery knows how to act as infantry if the need arises and understands the antiaircraft technique as well as the infantry tactics.

GREATER BURDEN PREDICTED FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Public school systems of the United States already facing financial troubles of almost insurmountable magnitude must take on a new load, Dr. George F. Zook, United States commissioner of education, told the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at its annual banquet in the Stevens hotel last night. Child labor laws, NRA codes, and the economic depression have created an army of school age youngsters who either cannot or don't want to go to school, but who must be educated, he said.

"As I see it, schools can give but one answer to this problem," Dr. Zook said. "The secondary school period must be extended two years and high school courses should extend to six years and should coöperate with industrial leaders to train workers for specific jobs."

B. L. Stradley, university examiner at Ohio State university, was nominated for president of the association at the afternoon session. He will succeed H. M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, Appleton, Wis., after the formal election today.

FARM WILLED TO ILLINOIS BY MOLINE DOCTOR

Rock Island, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—In a will discovered after administration of the estate had been started by the widow, Dr. Robert C. J. Meyer of Moline, Ill., who died on March 4, left his 80 acre farm at Hillsdale, Ill., to the state of Illinois for experimental purposes with a stipulation that no criminal shall ever be employed on the property.

The recently discovered will was introduced in Rock Island county Probate court today by the widow. Dr. Meyer was recognized by the state and national departments of agriculture for his experimental work in fruits and nuts, studying especially the introduction into the United States of fruits and nuts from foreign lands.

KAISER'S VIEWS, SUPPRESSED IN 1908, ARE BARED

Interview with American Is Revealed.

Boston, Mass., April 20.—(AP)—What the kaiser said to William Bayard Hale, journalist, that night back in 1908—an international mystery for a quarter of a century—was revealed today.

The famous "lost interview," which caused so many headaches and so much speculation, is presented in the May issue of the Atlantic Monthly magazine by William Harlan Hale, son of the man to whom Emperor William II. of Germany spoke so freely, and, as his country thought, so indiscreetly.

This is the gist of the views expressed by the kaiser:

The inevitable world crisis was a clash between Japan and occidental nations: east and west must meet, and the west must conquer.

Great Britain was guilty of a sort of political miscegenation in allying herself with Japan.

War Held Necessary.

War was necessary. War was Christian. The Bible was full of fighting. The greatest soldiers were Christians.

Theodore Roosevelt, then President of the United States, was his hero—the dominating, militaristic leader he hoped he himself was.

The course of history was largely determined, not by the clashing of social forces and economic trends, but by the deeds of great men and personalities.

Thus the kaiser spoke. It was one evening in July, 1908, that he consented to the interview by Hale, close friend of Theodore Roosevelt. The meeting was on the imperial yacht, Hohenzollern, at anchor in the fjord of Bergen.

In the Atlantic monthly, Hale writes that the emperor voiced "the most amazingly indiscreet statements ever uttered by the head of a great nation."

Situation Precarious.

The world situation was precarious at that time. The first rate powers were in a fine state of balance—like a mixture of chemicals, ready to explode with the addition of some catalytic substance—a rash speech for example.

The Russo-Japanese war was three years past. Germany had come to a crossroads and was a little off the path. She was carrying on a naval race with Great Britain, a military race with France.

The Algeciras conference, at which England, Russia, and Italy had opposed the fatherland in agreeing to recognize the priority of French interests in Morocco, had left her somewhat of an Ishmael among nations.

So, the German foreign office evidently believed that the kaiser had spoken too freely.

The Hale interview was to appear in the Century Magazine, December, 1908. The German foreign office gave it a thorough editorial scouring, removing the dynamite.

Decide on Suppression.

Then it was decided that the interview should be suppressed. It was, just before publication. The pages were yanked out, crated, and stored in a warehouse. The German cruiser Bremen came to New York, loaded the crates aboard and in mid-Atlantic tossed them overboard.

The crates declined to sink and the Bremen lowered boats and took them aboard again. Eight imperial German officers, according to the story, stripped and went down into the engine room, from which enlisted men temporarily were barred, and fed the printed pages to the fire boxes.

Theodore Roosevelt was supposed to have had a copy of the interview, but it has not been located. During the world war Hale was urged to use the article as anti-German propaganda, but declined.

In the Atlantic Monthly article, the original interview, before expurgation, is used. W. H. Hale found it after his father's death in 1924.

Praises Theodore Roosevelt.

The kaiser's first remarks concerned Theodore Roosevelt.

"What a man he is!" the emperor told Hale. "Mr. Roosevelt is an inspiring example of the force of personality."

William II. then developed a thesis. "It isn't genius the world needs, nor brilliancy, nor profound learning half so much as personality. The big things in the world are always done by just a man—one man—one strong personality."

Hunt Racketeers Asking Funds for 'Church Dance'

Police yesterday were searching for racketeers who are using the name of St. Mary's church, 9th street and Wabash avenue, on tickets for a dance, which investigation showed has no connection with the church. The Rev. James Morris told police the church is not sponsoring the affair.

'Doctor Martino' Faulkner's Best in Short Story

New Volume Contains 14 Narratives.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

The publication last Monday of "Doctor Martino," by William Faulkner [Smith-Haas], sent me on the trail of other short stories which have been published recently, and I found myself with eleven volumes, all of which have importance in one sense or another in our contemporary literary history, whether for their aggrandizement of their authors, their inherent delights, or their caustic declaration of their authors' lack of supremacy in the field of the short story.

The stories in "Doctor Martino" are no special news to the admirers of William Faulkner. They are fourteen of the twenty-five which he has written since the publication of that startling volume, "These Thirteen," in 1931, and all except two have appeared in magazines and anthologies of the modern short story and have been preserved in the memories of heir readers. One of the new ones, which appears here for the first time, is "Black Music," a story about a derelict in Rinson who once was a draftsman in an architect's office and was suddenly inhabited by the soul of a faun and thus escaped life . . . a story neither characteristically Faulkner nor so very good. The other new one, "Leg," is like the author's usual grim, brutal, slightly mystic tales . . . the story of a soldier who lost his leg in battle and his sense of its possessing him in some subtle, tormenting power because he never felt sure that it was really dead. Readers who have in the past omitted William Faulkner from their lists will find in "Doctor Martino" either the new American literary gospel according to St. William or final justification of their attitude. For there is nothing indeterminate about this collection. It is the author's best work in the short story.

"Kaleidoscope," by Stefan Zweig [Viking], whose "Marie Antoinette" is still on many best seller lists, is a volume which proves that its author, whatever his faults and however great his virtues in the field of biography, is a supreme story teller, and one of the great artists of that difficult and specialized narration, the long short story or the novelette. There are thirteen stories here, nine of which have never before been translated into English, although they cover a period of twenty years in the literary life of the author.

◆

Louis Bromfield's four short novels which are grouped under the title "Here Today and Gone Tomorrow" [Harpers] seem to me to be the product of his morganatic marriage to the movies . . . one of them, "55," has already been made into one. Their characters are ideas, not people, and although some of them are extremely engaging ideas, they haven't much vitality. The idea of the old woman listening on balconies, behind potted ferns and in hallways in the most expensive continental hotels for the sheer joy of gossiping with herself about people is a swell idea, but when it is blown up into the balloon of some one who inadvertently brings to the only justice he can know the richest financier in the world, the first prick of the reader's critical eye makes it go plop. "Miss Mehaffy" is nearly a gorgeous character . . . and her story is more alive than any of the others, but even she pops rather than breathes. The four stories are an amusing evening's entertainment, but Mr. Bromfield in an unimportant [for him] phase.

◆

There is nothing unimportant, either to the author or to literature in general, about "Seven Gothic Tales," by Isak Dinesen. They are, I believe, the first thing that the author has published, and if he never wrote another line he will not be forgotten, for "Seven Gothic Tales" is something strange, essentially itself and different from anything else we know in today's fiction . . . a distinction as rare as a camellia growing wild in Grant park would be. The author is a Dane who writes with that peculiarly rich and lovely English that is occasionally achieved by a foreigner who deserts his native tongue for our highly cosmopolitan language. Words have new facets as he uses them . . . they are almost held like jewels in his hands to be admired. The tales themselves are all of the past, all highly ornate, most of them fantastic. There will be those, I suppose, who dislike them for the very qualities which make them a delight to the rest of us. Anyway, you'll soon know whether you like them or not, for the first one in the book is a perfect test. It is as fine, as delicate, as strange, as richly medieval in atmosphere and as modern in the precision of character penetration and interpretation as any of the countless plots and subplots which weave their gossamer but tensely-taut tendrils into the cables of the seven tales.

◆

Strange in another sense are the stories in "Among the Lost People," by Conrad Aiken [Scribner's], for they all have to do with people who are either on the borderline between sanity and insanity, or who have so little reality within themselves as to be actually lost in the great world. They are important, it seems to me, not for what they say so much as for the skilled poet's surety of their prose.

◆

Mary Austin's "One Smoke Stories" [Houghton-Mifflin] give delight for both subtlety of manner and matter. They are told as the American Indians tell their tales . . . briefly, succinctly while one of the ceremonial pipes burns. They deal mostly with traditional Indians. Pithy maxims point their morals or merely adorn them.

◆

For background only, I should say, are the stories in "Mojave" [Liveright important. Edwin Corle in this his first published volume, offers us tales of the great Mojave desert and thus opens up to American readers a new pleasure park of literature.

◆

Walter D. Edmonds has never, so far as I know, written fiction about any other scene than the Erie canal, and the background of the twenty-four stories which are included in the volume "Mostly Canalers" [Little-Brown] is that romantic, hard won stretch of water in New York state. The book, like William Faulkner's, is made up mostly of stories which have already appeared in magazines . . . only four have never before been published.

◆

Her admirers will not welcome Radclyffe Hall's "Miss Ogilvy Finds Herself" [Harcourt-Brace], I am afraid, because the stories in it have the faults and not the virtues of "The Well of Loneliness" . . . they sentimentalize their subject. The title story is, according to the author's footnote, "the nucleus of those sections of my novel ["The Well of Loneliness"] which deal with Stephen Gordon's childhood and girlhood.

Guy Gilpatric's "Brownstone Front" [Dodd-Mead] is a collection of amusing, sly, smart, and sophisticated records of the '90s, when one was handsome in a hansom.

Offering the reader amusement rather than mere flights into the empyrean of the short story art is an anthology edited by Thomas H. Uszell, "Short Story Hits: 1933" [Harcourt-Brace], and then, when the reader has finished the stories, he finds that if he wants he may go, with the editor's help, through a stiff course of sprouts studying their technique "and etc.," as Ring Lardner used to say.

Shane Leslie to Lecture at Notre Dame Tuesday

The distinguished English poet, novelist, biographer and historian, Shane Leslie, who is a popular visitor in Chicago, will lecture on Tuesday evening at Notre Dame university on the Oxford movement about which he wrote the novel "The Anglo-Catholic," which he says is "pure autobiography and illustrating the workings of the Oxford and modernist movements on a young idealist." On Wednesday afternoon at 2 p. m. he will lecture at Mundelein college and Thursday at 10:30 a. m. at Rosary college, River Forest, on Mrs. Fitzherbert, who romantically married George IV. of England when he was prince of Wales.

British Radical Returns, Writes Soviet Attack

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—A curious and interesting book has just been published in London under the title of "Winter in Moscow." This book [Eyre & Spottiswoode] is the work of a young Oxford man, Malcolm Muggeridge, who went straight from the university to the Manchester Guardian. He was of the extreme left in politics, and at last, tiring of what he considered the hopeless conservatism of his own country, he decided to go and live in Russia.

But Russia, he found, was no more congenial to him than England, and this book, "Winter in Russia," is an expression of his disgust with what he found under soviet government. It is the work of a clever intolerant man, ready to criticize destructively all he encounters, but it is first-hand, and is extremely entertaining.

The author is now once again in England, having been employed in the International Labor bureau in Geneva; and it is probable that he will stay here, either making the best of a bad world or trying to improve it by new methods of his own. Meanwhile, his book is well worth reading.

A first novel which is going to have a considerable success has just been "chosen" by the Evening Standard book critic as his "Book of the Month." This is Miss Loveday Prior's "A Law Unto Themselves." Miss Prior is a young school teacher with an Oxford degree who spent some months at a German university and was much delighted with the many reminders of medieval times which she found in Germany.

Anybody who has traveled up the Rhine, either by water or along the fine roads beside the river, will understand what an appeal the ruins, with their old flags and gray stones, have for the eye; and Miss Prior had the knowledge to read history into them. Her imagination fired, she wrote this long and vigorous romance.

The book was published here by Peter Davies, the godson of Sir James Barrie, and was promptly bought by Little, Brown & Co., whose vice president, Herbert F. Jenkins, was in London at the critical moment. Miss Prior is a complete "discovery" whose work will be widely read and enjoyed, as well as much admired. She was born in India, is young and charming, and has great talent.

Another young woman in the news here is Miss Elizabeth Drew, who has written a play about the home life of Thomas and Jane Welsh Carlyle. Miss Drew has had a varied career. At one time she was a lecturer in English at Girton, she has been a skirt-hand at Paquin's in Paris, has run a dress shop in Cambridge, has toured the United States, lecturing.

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

"You have," said the judge, "been found guilty of a crime so black and hideous that I believe that in all the records of crime it would be hard to find its parallel." And that is what Elizabeth Jenkins makes you feel in "Harriet" [Doubleday-Doran], a story so movingly told, so deftly characterized that reality makes significant and dreadful each incident and detail.

This is a true story of a not quite idiotic girl done to death for her little bit of money whose possession had made her feel grand and important, but which brought her to a most pathetic end.

It is not a mystery, because from the very beginning a sense of doom darkens the book and poor Harriet's fate is sadly imminent. But it is a murder so subtly planned that really it is not planned at all, though four people work together to Harriet's undoing by slow and savage degrees, not because any of them hate Harriet but because they love some one else with such intensity that any means justify the end.

Miss Jenkins' skill makes four ordinary people seem quite naturally extraordinary in their fierce desire to clear their paths to happiness. Only Patrick gains nothing from Harriet's death, and yet he comes nearest of all to actual murder. He and his miserable brother, Lewis, are bound by strange and engrossing ties, and Lewis loves Alice, who cares for no one else. Calm Elizabeth adores her husband, Patrick, and among them poor Harriet, who has been beguiled into marrying Lewis, is neglected, starved, tortured until she dies. Her feeble mind flickers out long before and she can do nothing but submit. Her little, long, wizened baby is not the least pathetic object in the book.

It would not be easy to believe so harrowing a tale if it were not so convincingly told. Much of it is charming and all of it is absorbing. Every one in it is real from the little servant who is full of curiosity and would like to be kind to the judge who goes all out for a verdict of guilty and in a ten hour speech convinces a doubtful jury. It is easier, I think, to create such three dimensional people out of whole cloth than to enter into actual characters, yet each lives.

The book is not cheerful reading, but its sensationalism is so quiet, its horror so subdued that it takes on an epic quality and a horrid beauty.

Doctor Pens Thriller of His Adventures as Medical Explorer

Dr. Arthur Torrance, Scotch-American author of "Tracking Down the Enemies of Man," has written another, intriguing volume of tropical medical peregrinations—"Junglemania" [Macaulay]—in Africa and Borneo. The author early in his book pays his respects to the recent flock of writers who insist that the jungle's as safe as a Crown Point jail.

"In spite of the teasing and comedy of the fifteen million pseudo-explorers and literary jungle debunkers who are talking a lot of rot and silly piffle they know little about, the jungle is real: and these 'Billy-boys,' if they went to Africa or New Guinea or the Orinoco, and really tried to get into jungle land, would find it a darn sight harder than pub-crawling through the doors of the 'whispering hopes' we find in the East Fifties," says the doctor.

Dr. Torrance had a smashing lot of adventures in his medical explorations both in Africa and Borneo. But on the latter iland he had more thrills than usually come the way of the average explorer. His battle with headhunters is just almost too good to be true—one is almost tempted to believe the adventure loving doc dressed the episode up a bit. But it's worth it. The book is crammed with information, human interest and adventure, written with enthusiasm and humor, and is well illustrated.

PLANS READY FOR CONSECRATION OF REV. W. D. O'BRIEN

Noted Churchmen Will Attend Service.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Elaborate plans for the consecration of the Most Rev. William D. O'Brien as titular bishop of Calinda and auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of Chicago next Wednesday morning have been virtually completed. The impressive service at which Cardinal Mundelein will preside as consecrator will take place at Holy Name cathedral in the presence of noted churchmen.

In addition to Cardinal Mundelein, other high dignitaries who will officiate directly in the service are the two co-consecrators, Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, senior auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese, and Bishop B. J. Lynch, bishop of Dallas. Three consecrators are necessary under Catholic canons in the elevation of a new member of the episcopal office.

The preacher will be the Most Rev. John J. Mitty, coajutor archbishop of San Francisco. The ceremony will be attended by the Most Rev. Amleto Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States.

13 Archbishops to Attend.

Thirteen archbishops of the Catholic church in the new world will be present. These include the titular archbishop of Preslavo, and the archbishops of San Francisco, Guadalajara, Mexico; New Orleans, Winnipeg, Can.; Cincinnati, San Antonio, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Dubuque, Panama, Santa Fe, and Regina, Can. In addition to archbishops, about 70 bishops, principally from central and western sees, and 15 mitred abbots, have accepted invitations to attend the ancient rites.

Inquiry as to the meaning of Bishop O'Brien's elevation to the titular see of Calinda as well as auxiliary bishop of Chicago has been answered by the necessity of a diocese for each bishop. Where a prelate is made assistant to a bishop or archbishop of a diocese, such as Chicago, he is also given title to some diocese which in ancient times was in communion with Rome, but which, through lapse or invasion, has ceased having a resident bishop.

Calinda, the see to which Bishop O'Brien will become titular, is believed to have been situated on the river Indos at the boundary of Lycia and Caria in Asia minor. The town is mentioned in the writings of early Christians and in ancient records of Greece and Rome.

Trace History of Calinda.

Calinda is named among the cities that struck coins in the Roman period. It was a town ecclesiastically connected with the see of Myra. The bishop of early Calinda was the suffragan bishop of Myra. The earliest known bishop of Calinda was Leontius in the 5th century who was mentioned in correspondence between Lycian bishops and Emperor Leo. Bishop O'Brien's immediate predecessor as titular of Calinda was the late Bishop Francis de Pietro.

Events surrounding the consecration of Bishop O'Brien will be a luncheon and reception, following the service, at the Drake hotel and a banquet that night given by Bishop O'Brien's friends at the same hotel. Next Saturday night officials and alumni of De Paul university, from which Bishop O'Brien was graduated in the university's first class, will tender the new prelate a banquet at the Palmer house.

On Sunday, April 29, Bishop O'Brien will celebrate his first pontificial mass at old St. John's church, 18th and Clark streets, where he will continue as pastor. Bishop O'Brien will also continue as president of the Catholic Extension society.

CUBA CONDEMNS MACHADO'S AID TO FIRING SQUAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, April 20.—The court of sanctions tonight sentenced to death Octavio Zubizarreta, who was secretary of interior under Gerardo Machado, the fugitive ex-president. President Carlos Mendieta is to set the day of Zubizarreta's execution.

Zubizarreta was convicted on charges of conspiring to assassinate oppositionists during Machado's régime which ended last Aug. 12. The death sentence was signed by the 13 judges and specifies Zubizarreta must face a firing squad, although President Mendieta has the power to commute the sentence to life imprisonment.

The Zubizarreta case was echoed in a bombing today which wrecked the home of Dr. Heliodoro Gil, prominent lawyer. The bombers crawled through a window and left the bomb in the parlor. Dr. Gil has been connected with the defense of several former high executives in Machado's government, including Zubizarreta.

Accused of being too lenient in handling recent bombings and other acts of terrorism, Chief of Police Col. Enrique Pedro resigned tonight. He was replaced by Col. José Pedriza, an army officer. Pedriza is Havana's tenth chief of police in eight months.

PIONEER FLORIST OF SOUTH SIDE DIES SUDDENLY

Christen Clemensen, a south side florist for 40 years, died suddenly yesterday. He was 63 years old. Born in Denmark, Mr. Clemensen came to Chicago in 1892 and was a horticulturist at the World's Fair of 1893. He had been in business continually for 25 years at 7801 Exchange avenue, living in the same building. He retired from active work in the shop five years ago.

Mr. Clemensen married in 1895 and is survived by his widow and five children. These are Mrs. Herbert Trowe, Mrs. Lawrence Wiborg, Miss Margaret Clemensen, Richard Clemensen, and Arthur C. Clemensen, who now conducts the business established by his father. Mr. Clemensen was widely known in southeastern Chicago and was one of the first presidents of the business men's group which later became the South Side Chamber of Commerce.

The body will lie in the funeral chapel at 7350 Cottage Grove avenue until the funeral Monday from Bethel Methodist Episcopal church, 72d street and Ingleside avenue. Burial will be at Oakwoods cemetery.

Deputy Coroner Dumovic's Father Is Dead at 80

Martin Dumovic, 80 years old, a pioneer resident of the southwest side and one of the original members of the Chicago chapter of the National Slovak society, died yesterday at his home, 5211 South Lincoln street, after a short illness. Mr. Dumovic is survived by his widow, one son, Deputy Coroner John Dumovic, and two daughters. Funeral services will be held Tuesday from St. Michael's church.

John A. Bellati, 58 Years Jacksonville Lawyer, Dies

Jacksonville, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—John A. Bellatti, for 58 years a practicing attorney of the Morgan county bar, died suddenly while sitting in his library reading. He avoided political preferment, but gained some notoriety in 1921 by offering himself as a candidate and serving as city attorney of Jacksonville for "a dollar a year." He was senior member of the legal firm of Bellatti, Samuel & Moriarty.

Disputed Leader of Russian Orthodox Church Is Dead

New York, April 20.—(AP)—Archbishop Platon Rojdeftvensky, whose leadership in the Russian Orthodox church in America has been in dispute, died today at his home of heart disease. He had been ill since Tuesday.

KILLED WHEN HIS AUTO CRASHES THROUGH FENCE

Theodore Peterson, 30 years old, 4444 Blaine place, an automobile salesman, was fatally injured early today when his automobile, in which he was riding alone, crashed into a fence in Lincoln avenue at Jarvis avenue, Niles Center. He died later in St. Francis hospital, Evanston. Lincoln avenue, a wide road, narrows as it approaches Jarvis avenue, and Peterson, police said, evidently failed to notice this.

John Gill, 28 years old, 4229 Princeton avenue, driver of an automobile in which three men were killed early yesterday when it collided with a truck at 31st street and Wentworth avenue, was charged with manslaughter by Cottage Grove avenue police yesterday and released in bonds of $2,500. The inquest was continued until May 3 because witnesses were not available.

Those killed were Mathew Grogan, 33 years old, 4153 Drexel boulevard, an engineer for the sanitary district; Anthony Gaughan, 30 years old, 4340 South Wells street, owner of a tavern at 4136 Wentworth avenue, and Edward Penders, 60 years old, who was employed in Gaughan's tavern.

The four men in the car were on their way to a hotel with Penders, who was ill, when their car collided with a truck driven by Berle Blanchard, 403 North Durdick street, Kalamazoo, Mich. The latter was slightly injured and was taken into custody.

The death of Peterson increased the motor toll for Cook county since Jan. 1 to 363.

U. S. ENVOY DODD TELLS LINCOLN'S PART IN HISTORY

William E. Dodd, American ambassador to Germany, who is home in Chicago for a brief visit, spoke last night before the Friends of the Library of the University of Chicago on the occasion of the library's acquisition of a new collection of Lincolniana. The collection, consisting of thousands of items, will be on public display in Wieboldt hall for eight days beginning Monday.

Ambassador Dodd, a university professor and Lincoln scholar, startled some of his audience when he answered his own question: "Would Lincoln have continued on successfully if he had not been murdered?" His answer was: "I think perhaps not." He said that Lincoln revived the ideals of 1776, and gave the democratic philosophy a longer lease on life. Lincoln, he said, was one of the world's greatest pacifists.

Other speakers were Carl Sandburg, poet; Lloyd Lewis, author, and M. L. Rainey, university librarian. About 400 persons, among them President Robert M. Hutchins, attended the gathering, which was preceded by a dinner at the Quadrangle club.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—Maj. Gen. William Campbell Langfitt, retired, who was chief engineer of the A. E. F. in France, died at Walter Reed hospital today at the age of 73.

Upon his return to the United States after the war he served as division engineer of the army in charge of the New York and Porto Rico districts. After his retirement he was general manager, secretary and treasurer of David Belais, Inc., New York, and later consulting engineer for the Coolidge dam in Arizona.

F. J. Irving, for 27 Years Loop Policeman, Is Dead

Policeman Francis J. Irving of the Central station, who worked on duty in the loop for nearly 27 years, died yesterday in his home at 6821 Calumet avenue after a lengthy illness. He was 56 years old. Irving joined the force in 1906 and spent practically all of his time on duty in the loop. Surviving him are his widow, two daughters and a son. Services will be held at 9 a. m. Monday in St. Columbanus church. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Baseball Injury Believed Cause of Boy's Death

James Russo, 13 years old, 906 South Irving avenue, died in the Lutheran Deaconess hospital yesterday supposedly as the result of injuries suffered when he was struck in the back by a baseball thrown by a playmate during a game March 1. Dr. Harry Noskin, 1618 West Chicago avenue, said the boy died of an infection in the spine which developed several days after the injury.

Mrs. F. W. Alwart, Wife of Coal Merchant, Dies

Mrs. Mary Alwart, 52 years old, wife of Fred W. Alwart, one of the owners of the Alwart Brothers Coal company, died yesterday in her home at 609 Stratford place. Mrs. Alwart was injured March 18 when she fell while getting out of an automobile in front of the Midwest Athletic club, 6 North Hamlin avenue.

Sheridan's Messenger on Famous Ride Dies

Freeport, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—Tobias Haugh, 88, who as a dispatch bearer was with Gen. Phil Sheridan on his famous ride from Winchester to Cedar Creek in the civil war, is dead at Milledgeville. He served in the Seventh Pennsylvania cavalry. He had lived in Carroll county since 1867.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL, 19, PICKED TO REPRESENT ST. JOSEPH AT FETE

St. Joseph, Mich., April 20.—[Special.]—Marjorie Elizabeth Sleeper, 19 years old, was tonight selected "Miss St. Joseph" and will represent the city in the contest for queen of the Blossom Festival at Benton Harbor. The festival will be held May 6 to 13 and the choice of the queen will be made May 2.

Miss Sleeper will be queen of the St. Joseph centennial exposition July 29 to Aug. 4, which will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the incorporation of the city. She is the daughter of Lewis K. Sleeper, a grocer, and is a senior in the local high school.

There were fifteen girls in tonight's contest. The runner up was Arlene Mitchell, 19 years old, daughter of Hudson Mitchell, chief of the St. Joseph fire department.

BODY OF SLAYER DALE UNCLAIMED; KIN GET 2 OTHERS

The body of George Dale, one of three murderers who died in the electric chair at the Cook county jail yesterday at dawn, was still unclaimed at the county morgue last night.

The bodies of the other men who paid with their lives for their crimes were taken in charge by relatives. These men were John Scheck, 21 year old robber who killed Policeman Sevick, and Joseph Francis, Negro, who was convicted of the murder of a milk wagon driver, Joseph Hartel, in a holdup.

Scheck's relatives live in Chicago. Those of Francis, who live in New Orleans, have announced they will bury him. If no claim is put in for the body of Dale it will be buried at public expense. Dale killed Gustav Hoeh, 81 years old, a storekeeper, in a holdup.

C. H. ALLEN DIES; ONCE ASSISTANT NAVY SECRETARY

Lowell, Mass., April 20.—(AP)—Charles H. Allen, 86, who succeeded Theodore Roosevelt as assistant secretary of the navy and later served as the first civil governor of Porto Rico, died today after a long illness. He was a native of Lowell.

Mr. Allen had been widely known in the banking business, having formerly been vice president of the Guaranty Trust company of New York. He was also a former president of the American Sugar Refinery company.

From 1885 to 1889 he served in congress as representative from the Sixth Massachusetts district, and was prison commissioner in 1897 and 1898.

$150,000 IS LEFT CHARITY IN WILL OF REBECCA HART

Total Estate Estimated at $700,000.

The will of Mrs. Rebecca Hart disposing of an estate estimated at $700,000 was filed for probate yesterday before George B. Weiss, assistant to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. Mrs. Hart, widow of Max Hart, one of the founders of the Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothing company, died Dec. 29, 1933, in her home at 1725 East 53d street. She was 70 years old.

Under the terms of the will bequests of $50,000 each are left to Northwestern university to be used in connection with medical work there, the Jewish Charities of Chicago, and the Michael Reese hospital.

Gift Honors Husband.

The gift to the university is given in memory of Mrs. Hart's husband and the will suggests the funds be used for the construction or maintenance of a children's hospital in honor of Dr. Isaac A. Abt, a nephew of Mr. Hart.

The bulk of the estate beside annuities left to relatives and friends is left in trust to Abraham S. Hart, Highland Park, a son; Mrs. Maxine Hart Spitz, Glencoe, a daughter, and two grandchildren, James M. Hart and Richard F. Hart. The will was filed by the law firm of Rosenthal, Hamill and Wormser.

Six Other Wills Filed.

Six other wills were filed with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. The wills are those of:

M'Crea Pities Some Horses; Makes Profit

Riding Stable Mounts Put Him in Business.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 20.—[Special.]—Since getting into the movies' big salary list, getting married, and indulging a feeling for ruralism by purchasing his big ranch near Chastworth, which is a little distance on the other side of the Hollywood mountains, Joel McCrea has found to his surprise that he is running a horse farm.

He didn't intend the place as a stock farm at all, but Joel, who comes from an outdoor section of southern California, started buying horses so that he and his wife, Frances Dee, could have suitable mounts. Then he noticed a horse here and there at one or other of the riding stables which he thought had not been treated just right, so he bought them.

The first thing he knew McCrea owned nine horses, and the feed bills were mounting. So he inquired around for prospective purchasers of his horses. The mounts which had had the worst of it at the riding stables grew robust and sleek under Joel's kind hearted treatment and after selling one horse to Richard Dix he sold four more to Radio-R. K. O. studios. The five sales netted him $50 more than the money he put out for the nine horses, together with their feed, and now he is four horses and $50 to the good. He's putting fields into clover and alfalfa, and thinks he'll be a stockman on the side.

The court which yesterday started Roscoe Ates out on a career of $250 monthly alimony, was doing the stuttering comedian a favor. At one time during his separation from Mrs. Clara Ates, Roscoe was paying her $1,561 a month alimony.

Recent Hays office activity cut an entire sequence from "Tarzan and His Mate." The sequence had shown Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan swimming under water. Too much nudity, a jury of producers headed by B. B. Kahane, Radio; Winfield Sheehan, Fox, and Carl Laemmle Jr., Universal, decided.

The Hays offices are keeping a watchful eye on Warner's "Dubarry" and Mae West's "It Ain't No Sin." A representative of the interests which might inspire censoring is, as a matter of fact, one of the few allowed to get onto Miss West's set at Paramount studio. That's because its cheaper to stop something that is going to be stopped, before the money is spent committing it to celluloid.

Mae West sings some of her lyrics in two versions, one version including lines and rhymes that may get by in most states, the alternative version including milder lines for Pennsylvania and similar areas.

Raquel Torres and her fiancé, Stephen Ames, get married aboard a Pacific liner at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening, and the ship will immediately pull out with the newlyweds for Honolulu.

Steffi Duna, Francis Lederer's girl friend, and Julie Hayden, who played with Lederer during his coast stage run of "Autumn Crocus," have both been eliminated from Radio-RKO's "Sour Grapes," in which first the Hungarian girl, and then the Oak Park girl, were to have a lead with Clive Brook and Diana Wynward. Helen Vinson gets the part.

Wallace Beery has been flying to and from Catalina Island daily while he's on location with the "Treasure Island" cast at the Isthmus there, and his wife, Mrs. Rita Beery, is ill of heart disease in a Hollywood hospital.

Paramount has renewed Evelyn Venable's contract. Her studio didn't like Miss Venable's budding romance with Hal Mohr, Fox cameraman, and the fondness seems to have chilled.

THE most surprising experience of the week was going into the neighborhood movie at Dearborn and Division streets, once too cozy and horrible for words, with its floor lamps and fringe and gaudy carpets, and finding it turned into a chaste example of modern décor. When a movie theater abandons the rococo style of furnishing considered necessary these last ten years, it is practically news. The foyer of the little neighborhood cinema has walls of a pale, flat, lavender inset with parallel bands of chromium, plain carpets darker in tone, indirect lighting, and lamps the last word in neo-classicism.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt received 2,500 of the 3,000 delegates to the congress of the D. A. R. this afternoon at the White House.

Mrs. Louis M. Howe and her son, Hartley, who have been guests at the White House for some days visiting Mr. Howe, left today to return to their home in Fall River, Mass.

Mrs. Garner, wife of the Vice President, entertained today at luncheon in the sun room on the roof of the Washington hotel, where they make their home. Among her guests were Mrs. Roper, wife of the secretary of commerce; Mrs. Keyes, wife of the senator from New Hampshire, and Mrs. Thad Brown.

The British ambassador and Lady Lindsay entertained at dinner tonight.

The secretary of state and Mrs. Hull went to Atlantic City today to spend the week-end. They will go from there to New York for a short stay.

The Irish minister and Mrs. MacWhite have gone to Memphis, Tenn., to attend the funeral services for the late W. W. McDowell, who died in Ireland, where he was stationed as American minister.

Field Museum Shows 'Family Tree' of Man and Other Animals

An exhibition tracing the "family tree" of man and other animals belonging to the same order, the Primates, has just been placed in the Field Museum of Natural History at the entrance to the Hall of the Stone Age of the Old World, it was announced yesterday by Stephen C. Simms, director.

A branching tree occupies the rear of the exhibition case and attached to the branches are reconstructions of the skulls of primitive monkeys and apes, of types of prehistoric men, and finally the skulls of modern men of various races, and modern apes.

Choir Festival to Tell Story of Church Music

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Every age makes its contribution to religious music. Some music of a given period is lost, but much carries on to be enriched by later additions to form what religious education leaders now believe is the strongest single force in religious development.

To illustrate the lasting power of religious music of earlier periods, 20 Episcopal choirs, numbering more than 600 men's and boys' voices, will combine for a music festival tomorrow afternoon at Orchestra hall. The concert has been designed to show peaks of religious music of the last 600 years. With the exception of one number, the festival will offer compositions of Nordic origin. That number, "The Cherubic Hymn," is by the contemporary Russian composer, Gretchaninoff.

The concert will open with the hymn of the 16th century reformers, Luther's "Ein Feste Burg," with other music of that period immediately following. Roger Tuttle, president of the Chicago Choir Masters' association, director of the concert, announced preparations for covering all types of choir work as compositions of Arcadelt, Bach, Mendelssohn, Handel, and Weber are offered.

Choirs from suburban churches participating in the festival include those from Highland Park, Glencoe, La Grange, Park Ridge, Evanston, and Oak Park. Among Chicago represented are those from the Swedish church of St. Ansgarius, the Church of the Redeemer, Holy Nativity, St. Mark's, St. Paul's-by-the-Lake, St. Peter's, and St. Bartholomew's. Organ accompaniments will be played by Mason Slade of All Saints church, Chicago.

Tomorrow's festival will be the second in a series to be presented annually. Mr. Tuttle stated in his announcement that male choirs are gaining in favor and that a revival of interest in the value of music by greater composers is acting to replace some of the cheaper church music written during the last few years.

Father Jansen Will Be Made Monsignor at Gary Tomorrow

When Father Thomas Francis Jansen becomes the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Jansen at the silver jubilee celebration of the founding of Holy Angels church in Gary tomorrow there will be one man present who feels he is well able to extol the priest's Christian qualities.

The honor that will go to Father Jansen when Bishop John F. Noll of Fort Wayne will say the pontifical high mass is primarily ascribed to his founding the Holy Angels church. But the man at whose home in Chicago Father Jansen has visited could also give reasons for the honor.

This man is Sergt. Henry Jansen of the east side police. He will want to tell how, although of Irish parents, he acquired his name. If permitted he could recall how he was taken into the priest's home, an orphan 8 years old, how he was lovingly raised until manhood, when he came to Chicago as Henry Jansen. The orphan became a policeman, married, and later was promoted to a sergeantcy. These memories, covering 30 years' time, will be fresh in his mind as he witnesses the ceremony.

Hilda McLaughlin Becomes Bride in Eastern Ceremony

Short Hills, N. J., April 20.—[Special.]—The marriage of Miss Hilda Louise McLaughlin, daughter of Hugh Raymond McLaughlin of Chicago and the late Mrs. McLaughlin, to Milford Dinwiddie Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Newton Walker of Short Hills, was celebrated here tonight at Christ Episcopal church. The Rev. C. Malcolm Douglas, rector, officiated. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Ira Clay Jones of Summit, N. J., with whom she lived. Mr. McLaughlin gave his daughter in marriage. Ushers included James R. McLaughlin of Chicago, brother of the bride.

Only Relatives Entertain for Miss Borland

Fiance Will Arrive Here Next Wednesday.

BY JUDITH CASS.

BARTON F. PLIMPTON of Boston and his sister, Mrs. Ernest V. Nichols of Garden City, L. I., are arriving in Chicago next Wednesday and from then until Mr. Plimpton and his bride, Beatrice Borland, leave next Saturday evening for New York, they will be busy meeting Miss Borland's many relatives and close friends.

None but family parties is being planned for Miss Borland, for Mr. Plimpton will be here such a short time that naturally all her relatives want a chance to get acquainted with the gentleman who is taking the adventurous "Bee" away from Chicago.

Miss Borland is hoping that Mr. Plimpton's brother, Russell, who is to be the best man, will arrive in time for the pre-nuptial festivities, too, but his work as the director of the Minneapolis Art museum may not permit him to reach here until the day of the ceremony.

Wednesday night Mrs. Chauncey Keep will entertain at dinner at her residence, 1200 Lake Shore drive, for her young cousin, and the next night Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams of 1500 Lake Shore drive are giving a dinner party. They also are cousins and their son, Cyrus III., is to be one of the two ushers at the wedding which is to take place at 4 o'clock next Saturday afternoon in the chapel of St. Chrysostom's church. John Borland, another cousin, is to be the other usher. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Borland, will give a luncheon at their residence, 1425 Astor street, Friday, and that evening Miss Carolyn Erminger will give a cocktail party at her residence, 199 Lake Shore drive. Miss Erminger is to be a bride herself two days after Miss Borland becomes one, for the Erminger-De Laittre wedding is set for Monday afternoon, April 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland will give the bridal dinner for their daughter Friday night at the Casino Only the relatives and close family friends will hear the Rev. Dudley Stark read the marriage service, but more friends have been invited to the reception that will follow at the Borland residence, 2450 Lake View avenue.

Miss Borland's only attendant is to be her older sister, Harriet. The youngest of the three Borland daughters, Martha, is not coming from school in Paris for the wedding, but she will see her sister and new brother-in-law shortly, for they are sailing on May 2 to spend the summer in Paris. They have taken an apartment there until September.

Two of 3 Brides Will Leave City.

Two of today's three brides are leaving Chicago "for good" when they bid their friends good-by at their wedding receptions and start off on their wedding trips.

Miss Grace Dewes, who will become the bride of George Stickly Oram at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the home of her mother, Mrs. Edwin P. Dewes on Lincoln Park West, will live in Morristown, N. J.

Miss Priscilla Carver, daughter of the Robert K. Carvers, who will become the bride of Henry Edmondson Payne at 8 o'clock this evening in Trinity church in Highland Park, will make her future home in Charleston, West Virginia.

Miss Jane Black, the third bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Black, who is being married at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in St. Mark's church in Evanston to Gerald Van Doren, son of Mrs. Ray N. Van Doren, will be at home probably in Evanston after a wedding trip.

Only relatives and close friends have been invited to witness the ceremony and stay for the reception at the Dewes-Oram wedding. The Rev. John Timothy Stone will officiate. Mr. Oram is the son of Mrs. King S. Oram of Rockaway, N. J.

The Rev. Christoph Kellar will officiate at the Carver-Payne nuptials, and a reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents in Highland Park. The Rev. Robert Holmes, assisted by the Rev. Harold Bowen, will perform the ceremony in St. Mark's church this afternoon and a wedding reception for Mr. and Mrs. Van Doren will follow at the home of the bride's parents on Asbury avenue.

Polo Tourney Opens Tonight.

Parking space for 3,000 automobiles will be available this evening in the neighborhood of the 124th Field Artillery armory in Washington Park,

Hat and Gloves Can Match the Handbag Now

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The smartest get-togethers are the new spring hat, glove, and handbag combines. Made of matching material, each piece is a distinct part of the costume and can be used separately with other ensembles.

The one illustrated is a stunning affair in black and white. The black gloves have flared cuffs of the black and woven novelty fabric, the skilfully molded crown of the hat boasts the same weave, and the long, slim, very flat handbag is also made of the black and white woven fabric.

The best buys of the week are:

Scarfs from wide striped squares with fringed edges that look like peasant linen to the perky bow effects in taffeta. Bags can be found to match.

Moire silk long gloves for evening wear in some lovely pastel tints that are as new as tomorrow. They are perfect contrasts for the new spring dance dresses because of their spring-like colors. The yellow numbers are especially effective with pale green organdies and the blush pink gloves are just what you want for pale blue frocks as a good contrast.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Despite the appearance of oily polish removers to ease the brittle nail condition, which seems to be much more prevalent than spring fever (and that's going some), we hear complaints everywhere. We made it our business not long ago to interview some of the manicures around town about it, and there's no doubt but that brittle nails are becoming an almost universal ailment. Either that or we're having an epidemic of some sort, which may be traced to deficient winter diets or the use of one kind of a polish remover substitute some women have taken to, for economy's definitly unsweet sake.

Once before, rather casually, we mentioned a cream for this condition, but today we're going to go more searchingly into its merits. For one thing, we chose recently a really aged person with brittle and broken nails that are airily passed up by the doctors as "just a sign of age," and pressed a jar of our pet cream upon her. In two weeks of faithful use, massaging the heavy pink cream in every night and during the day when she had an idle moment, there was a tremendous improvement. We will admit that she used it more liberally than the instructions with each small jar requested her to do, but it was a truly troublesome case, in which we felt that slightly extravagant use was more than justified. It was amazingly effective in healing her split and broken nails.

Then we experimented on some women we know, confirmed liquid polish fans, who used removers of the acid type. Some can take this and some most certainly can't. When they got in the habit of using our pet nail cream every day, just before they washed their hands during the day and before they tumbled into bed at night, they found, as we had predicted, that the brittle condition practicaly disappeared, that the cuticle was consistently in good condition, and that the cream that escaped beyond the nail edges as they applied it oiled up the skin and was an indirect, if not a direct, aid in preventing hangnails.

We urge you to own a jar—and to use it.

Good Morning!

Well, well! At last we have a comedy with music that doesn't employ the back-stage-revue-in-the-making plot! Things are looking up.

You've heard of "The Admirable Crichton"—Barrie wrote of him—the butler who, on a desert isle where he and those he served were cast, proved himself superior in every way to his companions of higher station?

"We're Not Dressing" borrows an idea or two from Sir James Barrie's book. It sings of a sailor who is also a masterful and resourceful man. A sailor who is an architect in disguise. A sailor with a voice that completely subjugates the heart of the gorgeous Miss Doris Worthington, who owns the yacht on which the story's characters are cruising when the picture opens. The lady has a pet bear, Droopy—and Droopy also loves to hear Stephen sing. Trouble is, the only song she cares for is "Goodnight, Lovely Little Lady." Other songs reduce her to the most incomprehensible wrath.

The determination of Doris' bibulous uncle to take the wheel during a storm lands the boat on a reef. And so, in due course of time, all hands find themselves on the aforementioned iland, populated only by George Burns and Gracie Allen. Mr. Burns is a naturalist and Miss Allen is his helpful wife. Just how helpful, you can imagine, if familiar with Miss Allen's brand of numbskull foolery. These two radio comics are great assets to the piece.

I could tell you a lot about what happens, but instead will just say that a lot DOES happen, and assure you that you'll find "We're Not Dressing" light, pleasing, actionful, romantic. Dialog is fair and laughs come easily.

Miss Lombard is attractive. Mr. Crosby provides further proof that he can act as well as croon. "May I?", "Once in a Blue Moon," and "Love Thy Neighbor" are songs that seemed to please the audience.

You will undoubtedly think you recognize the Mdvani boys in a pair of lacklustre princes who dance attendance on the heroine.

As I see it, "We're Not Dressing" has the makin's of popular entertainment.

See you tomorrow!

SYNOPSIS.

Dorinda Quarles is found stabbed to death after a dinner party in her Paris apartment. Unscrupulous, Dorinda had served a drug to her fourteen guests which was provided by one of them, Bannister Mowbray. Helen Roderick, who was a friend of Dorinda's mother, Lady Agatha, discovers the crime early next morning, and all the guests, except Dinah Blake, a young American artist, lying about in deep sleep. Tommy Rostetter, a journalist, was Dinah's dinner partner. Dinah's engagement to Christopher Loughton, in the American embassy, was, according to gossip, broken on account of Dorinda. Dinah returns two days later, her memory a blank, to the apartment she shares with her cousin Hallie Pemberton. She had been sleeping in the studio of absent friends. Tommy persuades her to pretend an engagement to him to prevent a jealousy motive. Dorinda's stepfather, Basil Jethro, celebrated Oxford scholar, was her guardian and trustee. The two were on unfriendly terms. Dorinda had told Dinah that she suspected Jethro of giving her mother an overdose of a drug. Tommy engages a room at the hotel where Jethro had stopped the night of the murder. He suspects Jethro and searches for proof. Bannister Mowbray's lifeless body is found floating in the Seine. The verdict is suicide. His roommate, Ronald Cleeves, tries to die by gas, but is rescued. Neither had anything to gain by Dorinda's death. Tommy confides to Loughton his suspicion of Jethro. Loughton volunteers to go to London to look up Lady Agatha's will.

INSTALMENT XXXVI.

MOTIVE AND OPPORTUNITY.

Tommy stared, visibly delighted. "Great stuff! Put it there." They shook hands on the deal. "But, Loughton," the speaker's face clouded, "will your chief give you leave to go to London?"

"Leave be damned. If it's denied me I'll chuck my appointment."

"By Jove," Tommy exclaimed, clapping his guest on the shoulder. "Why didn't I let you in on this sooner? First find out the precise terms of the will—who benefits, under what conditions. Next, clear up the matter of trusteeship. Third, investigate Jethro's private finances. Try to get a line on the man's mode of life. Pry into the flat in Bedford Square, talk to the servants or the caretaker—and when you've got all you can from the London end, press on to Oxford. Oxford——"

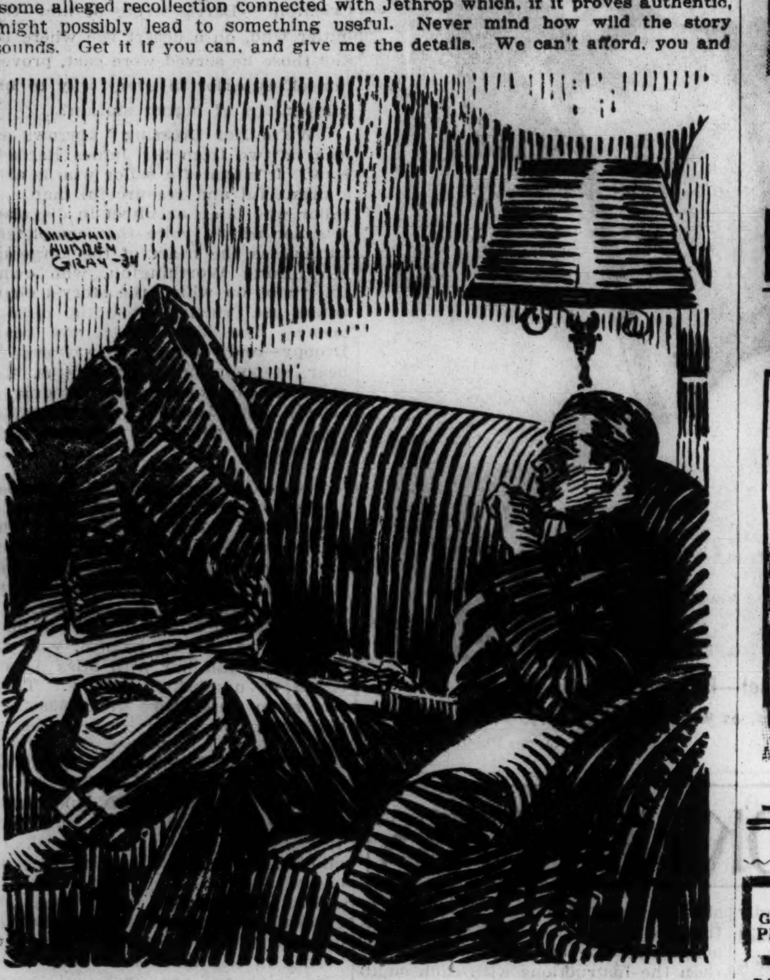
Tommy rubbed his nose, and his manner subtly altered.

"I'll dash off a line to a make-weight nephew of mine at Magdalen," he went on musingly. "I'll tell him to pilot you round and assist in any dirty work which may crop up. He'll esteem it a privilege," opined the uncle. "You understand you may have to bluff, lie, even burgle. Any objection?"

"None—though I can't flatter myself I've your aptitude for that sort of thing."

Tommy let the dubious compliment pass.

"Another thing," he continued thoughtfully. "While you're in Oxford I want you to get hold of a slimy little blighter who blew in with my nephew a few nights ago. Name of Pillion, or Hellion, or—well, it doesn't matter, the lad will put you on to him. Point is, he's supposed to be sitting tight over some alleged recollection connected with Jethrop which, if it proves authentic, might possibly lead to something useful. Never mind how wild the story sounds. Get it if you can, and give me the details. We can't afford, you and I, to scorn anything, however remote or unpromising, which may shed light on the hidden places. When can you start?"



Now how could a man walk by in full view and yet be believed to lie in his bed two floors above? The only answer Tommy could think of was that he adopted some plausible disguise.

"By early morning plane. That will mean I ought to be back here Tuesday afternoon."

"Good work! Now, get this straight. Your job's Motive. Mine's Opportunity. One's no good without the other, so while you're snooping about across the channel I mean to fasten on like a leech to the Stanislas hotel and not leave it till I've sucked it dry. Though I've drawn blanks so far, I'm going to begin all over again this very evening and see what comes of it."

When the two had separated Tommy gazed fixedly at the leather chair where his visitor had sat. What wanton tricks life played! Here, thought he, was a decent chap, furthermore Dinah's choice, and all because of a single misstep, or rather the bad luck of being found out, he was chucked overboard, denied all hope of reinstatement. Nor was it the least good trying to patch matters up between them. The girl's heart had simply closed up, like a sensitive plant roughly handled. It would take a long time to reopen, and when it did it would be for some other man, not Christopher.

Tommy saw in his mind's eye a small, proud head with satin smooth red hair molded round it, two clear eyes like aquamarines, a peach blossom cheek his fingers itched to caress. Little, lovely, in distress.

Although there seemed not the slightest reason why he should be followed, Tommy had the unaccountable feeling that some one was dogging his footsteps all the way to the Rue Berger. When he reached the hotel lobby the manager was talking over the telephone, and Tommy went through into the lounge. He ordered a book, and after a disinterested glance at two black bearded commercial travelers who were volubly debating the subject of war reparations, settled himself to grapple with his own problem.

He must delve once more into the question of how Basil Jethro could have effected an exit from these premises at a stated time.

Tommy had been obliged to accept the main door, leading to the Rue Berger, as the one which must have been used, the trouble being that he was likewise obliged to see the difficulty, nay, the impossibility, of Jethro's crossing the small lobby without the manager's noticing him. Most positively had the man declared his constant presence at the desk all Friday evening up till 1 o'clock.

Logic asserted one or two alternative conclusions: Either Jethro did not go out, or else he accomplished the puzzling fact of doing so unobserved. At first inspection the latter seemed an absurdity. But stop! Had not the philosopher achieved this exact thing on two admitted occasions?

No doubt about it, he had—once at his entrance Friday evening before dinner, and again next morning when he quitted the hotel. The first occasion was natural enough, but the second was less understandable, for then the manager, morbidly interested in his bereaved guest, had been watching for him. Now how could a man walk by in full view and yet be believed to lie in his bed two floors above? The only answer Tommy could think of was that he adopted some plausible disguise.

Why, obviously—it was the answer! How on earth had he overlooked it? Merely because he had paid insufficient attention to what had been told him. Now, however, he saw a possible means of accounting for Jethro's unnoticed presence in the lobby on the admitted as well as the theoretic occasions.

But whom could Jethro have pretended to be? In a small place like this any stranger would be instantly remarked, if not challenged, therefore the entity chosen must be provided with a good excuse for passing in and out, and, since he must spend the night in the hotel, he could not be any one supposed to sleep outside. Yet it was fatuous to think of imitating one of the hotel attendants, or for that matter ony one of previously familiar appearance. The person therefore must be [1] staying in the hotel, [2] created on purpose to meet the emergency; in short, an imaginary guest.

A guest, yes—but that was not enough. It must be a guest who arrived on Friday and left early Saturday evening, incidentally—and this was the crux—sallying forth during the evening for an interval long enough to get to the Ile St. Louis and back. If by a lucky chance such a man could be found a man of the philosopher's height and build——

At this point in the argument one of the commercial travelers dropped his cigar, and in search for it thrust his legs out in front of him. Mechanically Tommy's eyes gravitated towards the pair of badly cut, typically French boots protruding in his direction.

Boots. Like a blow in the face the memory struck him. What about those black, clumsy, brand new boots in the passage outside the closed door of No. 17, boots which, when he tapped the second time on No. 18, had been taken inside?

Holy Moses, he'd got it! He sprang up and made swift strides towards the lobby.

Child's Finicky Eating Habits Can Be Cured

Reading References on Treatment Available.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"We have," writes a mother, "a little 2 year old girl. I have so much trouble getting her to eat. Do other mothers have the same trouble?"

The answer is: They do.

And as I read this letter I suddenly realized something odd that I had never noticed in my correspondence before. More girl babies and little girls seem to act up at mealtimes than do boy babies and little boys.

Anyhow—mealtime blues prevail in many households. Said an older woman the other day, "You never used to hear of children refusing to eat. They ate what was set before them and that was all there was to it. It's all pampering and poppycock."

Well, that may be so. I don't know, in terms of statistics. But I do know that among our relatives and friends and family I used to hear the younger children's eating discussed. "She'd live on bananas and bread and molasses if I'd let her," is one thing I remember. And "He must have the soup plate with the turtle trademark or he won't eat," was another. Perhaps the less determined or less worrisome mothers just let their children eat what they would until they were old enough to know better—or perhaps they were served things more to their taste but not so good for them, like meats and sweets.

A number of articles have appeared in this column on cultivating good eating habits, but many mothers forget them or don't pay much attention at the time because right then things are going swimmingly for them—or because their baby is still at the nursing age. For these mothers we are going to run a series of articles containing the newest but most sane and successful ways of cultivating good mealtime habits in children. This series will begin in a short time. In the meantime we can supply you with excellent reading references on the subject.

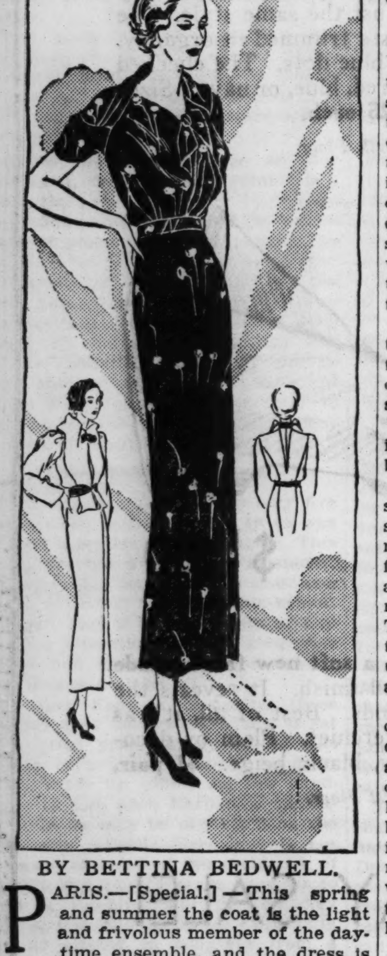
Coat Frivolous Member of the DaytimeEnsemble



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—This spring and summer the coat is the light and frivolous member of the daytime ensemble, and the dress is dark and true to practicality. Schiaparelli, who began this kind of ensemble fashion, did so for the good reason that the summer dress is worn by itself after the coat has been laid aside for the season. She makes printed frocks, like the one illustrated, which have dark backgrounds on which bright poppies and other field flowers grow. This dress is black with blue, yellow, and red flower patterns, and it has a simple skirt and the new softened bodice that blouses a bit. The short sleeves begin from a dropped shoulder seam and the scarf that ties at the neck begins in these armhole seams.

The light coat that goes with this frock is made of Tokay wine yellow wool and it has a wide collar and flattened panels that end in loops below the leather belt at the waistline. A leather bow serves to fasten it at the neckline. The sleeves are plaited into the armholes and are quite wide and loose.

Youngsters', Oldsters' Dessert

Fragrant coffee gingerbread, fresh from the oven, served with tart baked apples and cold sweet milk, is a satisfying dessert for both youngsters and oldsters.

COFFEE GINGERBREAD.

- ⅓ cup melted butter
- 1-3 cup coffee infusion
- 1 cup molasses
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 2 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 2 teaspoons ginger
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon salt

Mix together the moist ingredients and add to the sifted flour, baking powder, and seasoning. Beat two minutes, turn into a greased pan, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about thirty minutes.

Cooks' Queries Disclose Some Helpful Facts

"Festive Menus," a booklet containing 8 unusual but inexpensive company menus, with recipes for preparing them, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 2 cents. By mail, 3 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

"Will you please advise how much of anything a heaping teaspoon equals?"

So comes the first query for the kitchen clinic today, arriving from V. S. of Chicago. And our advice is that as a rule a really heaped-up teaspoon equals just two level teaspoons, thinking, of course, in terms of an accurate measuring spoon. However, that statement has an IF and a BUT in it, for, as you can see, flour or corn starch, which piles easily, can carry even more than that extra teaspoon mounted up on it, while sugar, which slides and slithers, may sometimes give you even less than two teaspoons for a heaping one.

Next on the docket comes a question mark from Mrs. L. H. O.: "Our family keeps saying that they like a certain bread we buy because 'it is sweeter' than the loaves I make. Would it be safe to increase the sugar in my bread slightly, and what would be the effect besides on the taste?"

And here's the answer: Yes, it's safe and often a good plan to add a small amount of extra sugar to your recipe. I can't tell you how much, for it is determined by the recipe you already have. A little gradual experimenting, however, will be the thing. The effect of this slight increase seems to be to give a slightly larger volume, a rather sweet tasting crum, and a really delightfully brown crust.

So next comes a contribution to the cause instead of a query. Do you recall the checkerboard cake we talked about some weeks ago and the picture of it one morning? We thought we had pretty well covered the subject, but we might have known! So here is Mrs. B. E. B. with another way of making a checkerboard cake. Ours was done all in one baking. This has two. Take your choice and let me know how you come out.

CHECKERBOARD CAKE.

(Another Method.)

Bake a dark chocolate cake in an oblong pan. When baked and cold cut it into squares. Have ready a white cake batter. Select a deeper oblong pan and arrange in it cubes of dark cake alternately like a checkerboard, with their corners just touching. Pour in carefully the white batter to fill up the spaces. Arrange the remainder of the dark cake over the white cake batter. Now fill in the remaining spaces with the rest of the white mixture. Bake in a moderate oven for the usual length of time.

Mrs. B. adds that the dark cake is in nowise hurt by the second baking and that the edges are clearly defined.

Youth Analyzes Qualities That Make Popularity

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Unpopularity! What worse curse could the wrath of the gods conceive? Life holds no greater terror for the young than the prospect of such existence. And, if our mail can be taken as a criterion, it's a pretty widespread terror.

And so we learned from the lips of youth itself, about those qualities which constitute insurance against loneliness.

Naturalness was an almost unanimous

Being gentlemen and ladies was mentioned, as was intelligence and general conversational powers, but beauty suffered a blow. It didn't get a vote!

Curiously enough, practically all the men interviewed felt that sportswomen had the edge on their sideline-sitting sisters. They liked girls who swim and play tennis, active young maids who could trip around a golf course without developing arch trouble or suffering sunstroke.

Anyway, we couldn't find a thing in the answers that couldn't be cultivated by any young man or woman.

Bishop Waldorf Says 13,000 Joined Church in Pre-Easter Drive

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Methodist Episcopal area of Chicago yesterday reported that nearly 13,000 persons joined churches of his area during the period of special evangelistic emphasis prior to Easter. In the three districts included in Chicago nearly 4,000 new members were received, according to Bishop Waldorf's announcement.

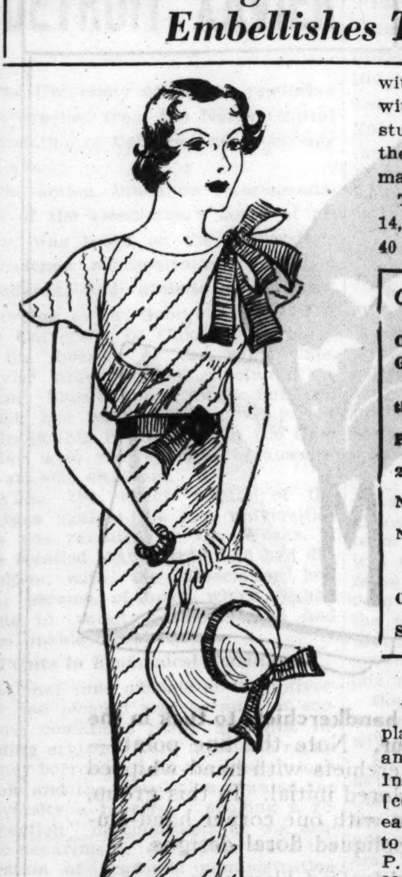
Blonde Chosen Blossom Queen at Grand Rapids

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 20.—Marian Louise Gommersen, 18 years old, blonde, will represent Grand Rapids in the 1934 blossom festival. She was chosen last night from twenty-five contestants at Grand Rapids.

Harmonizing Trimming of Ribbon Embellishes This Simple Frock



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Here is a charming little dress that won't take long to make. There are two parts to the bodice, and raglan sleeves, and the skirt has two parts and is joined to the bodice under the removable belt. You couldn't imagine anything much easier, could you?

A red and gray printed silk crêpe, with bengaline ribbon that tones in with the red stripe, would make a stunning dress. Then there are all the lovely washable materials that will make up well.

The pattern, No. 2708, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

where the national indoor polo championships are to open at 8:30.

Never before has there been more interest in a "horsey" event here. All of the boxes that border the armory ring are taken and all except a very few of the seats. Many of the easterns who helped to make the east-west championships last summer at Onwentsia a brilliant event have come on to remain through the series which will reach its climax in the final games and a polo ball next Saturday night. The ball, just announced yesterday, will be held in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman.

The "horse" set in Winnetka will be turning out this afternoon for the first meet this season of the Longmeadow hounds. The meet is scheduled for 3 o'clock and will be repeated each Saturday afternoon, weather permitting. There will also be a hunt at 6:40 every Wednesday morning, Clark J. Lawrence, master of the hounds, announced yesterday.

Luncheon Follows Arts Club Lecture.

All who heard Paul Rosenfeld talk so interestingly on "The New American Composers" at the Arts club yesterday morning did not stay at the club for luncheon, for many of the women rushed from the lecture to the luncheon the Drama league was giving at the College inn for Dennis King, the popular dramatic star.

The dozens of women who went to the luncheon the Drama league was giving for Denis King seemed to enjoy seeing and hearing that young Englishman who, when he was here seven years ago, revived the term "matinée idol." Mrs. Clarence Hough, just recently reëlected president of the league, introduced him and the other members of the cast of "Richard of Bordeaux" who were at the speakers' table.

Miss Cornelia Lunt to Pour at Art Tea.

That charming nonogenarian, Miss Cornelia Lunt, is paying a very great compliment to a young artist friend of hers, Marochka Anisfeld, by coming in from her home in Evanston next Tuesday afternoon to pour at the tea that will open an exhibition of Miss Anisfeld's work at the Breckenridge galleries on North Michigan avenue.

Mrs. Wallace F. Kirk is entertaining the members of the women's board of the Passavant Memorial hospital at luncheon next Wednesday for Mrs. James Murray Washburn, for many years a member of the board. Dr. and Mrs. Washburn are leaving late next week for Lake Lure, N. C., where they will live the year around from now on.

Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter arrived at home yesterday from what they term a glorious three months in Algiers. They came directly to Chicago from New York, where they landed Thursday.

Otis L. Hubbards Parents of Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis L. Hubbard of Lake Forest are being congratulated upon the birth of a daughter last Tuesday at the Presbyterian hospital. Little Miss Hubbard, whose name has not been chosen yet, has an older brother, Otis Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Burrows have gone to California for a little springtime vacation. While there they will undoubtedly see Mr. Burrows' mother and sister, Mrs. William F. Burrows and Miss Louisa Burrows, who have been spending the winter there. Mrs. Burrows and Miss Burrows are expected at home in a week or two.

Mrs. Moisant Griffiths and her daughter, Miss Gloria Griffiths, have just completed plans—although indefinite ones—for their next trip abroad. They are sailing on the Bremen on May 10 and will stay first in France and then, providing conditions are favorable, they will tour Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Both Miss Griffiths and her mother hope to see the Passion Play in Oberammergau, too.

James W. Reicherts Parents of Son.

From Cleveland comes word of a tiny son in the household of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Reichert. He has been named Forest Pratt Reichert after his mother, who was the former Barbara Louise Pratt of Evanston. The Reichert home is in Cleveland Heights.

Mrs. Charles B. Shaffer and her daughter, Miss Barbara Shaffer, are at home after several months in Florida. They returned by way of their Kentucky estate, Coldstream farms, where their son, Dale, joined them for his vacation from the Lake Forest academy.

Mrs. Franklin M. Miller is in Washington to attend the national convention of the League of American Pen Women which opens today. Mrs. Miller is national vice chairman of poetry and several of her lyrics, set to music by Frances Copthorne of Winnetka, will be sung by Marie Sidenius Zendt at one of the concerts during the convention.

"A gala day

is the invitation the junior board of the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women and Children has sent out to a large number of women to raise funds for the home. Mrs. Wellington Leavitt is opening her home at 4840 Greenwood avenue for the affair.

Miss Nettie Baumann and Miss Harriet F. Stuart will have two of the largest luncheon parties May day noon at the Drake hotel preceding the card party the Lake Shore League of Women Voters is to have in the Lord Nelson room.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, and has won twenty national championships since 1924.

WHEN DO SLAM PROSPECTS LOOM UP IN RESPONDING TO AN OPENING BID OF TWO NO TRUMPS.

Since even a minimum response by the partner of the opening bidder will result in a game contract, any response which not a minimum [three no trumps or three in a suit] is a slam invitation. If the responder's contribution is solely made up of primary tricks without distributional attractiveness, so that he can only raise in no trumps, it is safest for him to assume at this stage that the opener's hand is of the short-suited type and that there will be no long suit to lead out for squeezing purposes.

Therefore do not make the slam-try response of four no trumps unless you have two clear primary tricks in your hand, such as an ace and king-queen. If the opener's hand is short-suited, he must now make the decision whether to pass or bid six no trumps, as he cannot expect you to bid again when neither partner has shown a playing suit. If his hand is so strong that he can definitly locate and name the two primary tricks on which you made your jump-raise and can see that there are now eleven sure tricks in the two hands, but that an additional queen is needed to justify a slam contract, he should bid five no trumps, which is an invitation to you to bid six if you have a queen in addition to the two primary tricks on which you based your response of four no trumps.

Should you have three primary tricks in your hand it is obvious that your partner cannot have a rebid in his hand in terms of no trumps and you should take the decision on yourself by bidding six no trumps in response to the opening bid of two no trumps. To bid immediately seven no trumps you must hold four primary tricks, otherwise there is a possibility of all four suits being of exactly the same length in each hand, rendering it impossible to take a discard on any high or established card.

A Suberb Defensive Play.

Mr. Harold S. Vanderbilt is one of our greatest players, besides being the real father of contract in this country. He formulated the scoring schedule which we all use, known as the Vanderbilt Count, and was, as far as I know, the first and for some time the only authority who realized that contract bidding could not be based on auction valuations and methods of procedure. He therefore invented the Vanderbilt Club convention, a system still widely used by many fine players.

	♠8-5 ♥A-Q-10-7-6-3-2 ♦K-Q ♣8-3
♠J-9-4-3 ♥K-4 ♦A-J-7-6-2 ♣A-5	N. W. E. S.	♠7-2 ♥J-9 ♦10-8-5-4-3 ♣K-Q-9-2
	♠A-K-Q-10-6 ♥8-5 ♦9 ♣J-10-7-6-4

I held the North hand and arrived at the right contract of four hearts. East opened the king of clubs. Mr. Vanderbilt, West, realized that I had at least six hearts, perhaps seven, from my bidding, and concluded that I could be defeated only if his partner held the jack of hearts. If the holding were J x, it was necessary for his king of hearts to force my ace without East having to follow suit on that play. Mr. Vanderbilt overtook the club king, played the ace of diamonds and returned the club. East realized that he was calling for the chance to ruff the third round of clubs, even though I could overruff. This play was made and I was defeated on the hand by this truly masterful feat of imagination and technique.

Italy America Society Enjoys Saga of Yacht

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The Italy America society enjoyed a delightful party last evening in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris. Mrs. Walter Kirk read a poem about Columbus which she had written fifteen years ago and Robert Hall McCormick told of his Venetian boat, the San Marco, and the cruises he has taken in it up and down the Dalmatian coast.

Mr. Harris, on his recent cruise through the Mediterranean, discovered that Mr. McCormick and his boat were widely known on the eastern coast of Italy. Hence the request to Mr. McCormick to tell about his experiences. Mr. McCormick not only gave vivid descriptions of the country and its history and the life there, but he also showed pictures of the San Marco.

Mr. McCormick related that as a boy he had always wanted a boat with painted sails, and that finally he arrived at owning one. The boat was purchased by letter from Boston and was relaunched in Venice the following spring.

Built in 1909 to carry lumber across the Adriatic, Mr. McCormick was forced to make a few changes in the boat's interior. With old furniture and Venetian hangings he soon had lovely living quarters of three single and one double cabin, dining room, library, and salon, and modern conveniences in an engine, refrigeration, and electricity.

The San Marco was the first—and probably the only—real travaccolo to be outfitted in this manner, and it creates a sensation wherever it goes. In one port Mr. McCormick was not allowed to moor it with other yachts.

After the program the members moved into the Harrises' charming dining room, with its butterfly walls, where they were served rum punch and petit fours by the junior members of the organization.

Acne Scars Are Treated Safely Only by Doctor

Hygienic Beauty Habits Are Important.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

For the removal of acne scars, see a physician.

For treatment of moles, see a physician. Don't under any circumstances, let other than a physician-specialist touch one of the dark brown or black moles.

The warnings above are offered because of cases, that have come to my attention, in which nonprofessional advice was sought in case of acne scars and dark mole treatment, with very unfortunate results.

There are plenty of other things that the nonmedical attendant can do for you in a beauty way, but in things like the above let me repeat, consult your physician. If he is not a specialist in the line, he will refer you to a specialist.

It is the opinion of several physicians whom I know that the milder acne scars were better left alone, that they have a tendency to grow smaller and smaller as time goes on. If you turn such scars over to one not thoroughly conversant with their character and the right kind of treatment, larger scars may result, in which event the sufferer is worse off than in the beginning.

Going back a little way on the acne scars, they are frequently caused by the individual's inexpert attempt to remove blackheads and to clear skin areas of pimples by squeezing out the contents of the pores without attention to sterilization. One has to be exceedingly careful, in squeezing out the common blackhead, and not to leave a scar, and to wipe the area with some sterilizing solution. You can see how the danger is increased where a pimple condition exists.

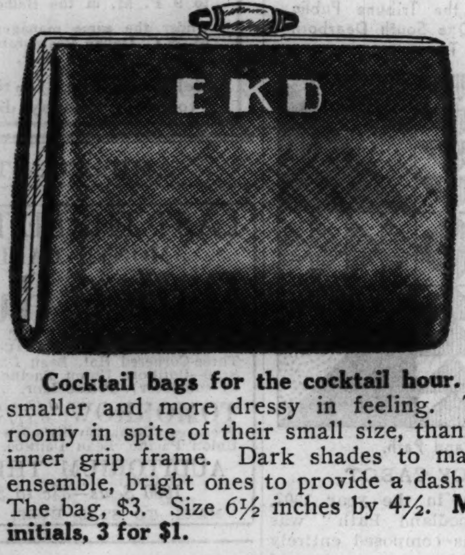
SHEERS

Cut in on the Hat Mode

The smaller brim does a back upturn, too (all the newer brims are doing it), and there's a bright patent leather-like band for accent. At $5.

The broad brimmed style has a stitched brim that turns up in back, and a sprightly ribbon trimming. It is priced at $5.

Millinery, Fifth Floor.



$3

Cocktail bags for the cocktail hour. They're smaller and more dressy in feeling. They are roomy in spite of their small size, thanks to the inner grip frame. Dark shades to match your ensemble, bright ones to provide a dash of color. The bag, $3. Size 6½ inches by 4½. Monocraft initials, 3 for $1.

Bags, First Floor.

Jumper Blousette

Choose it in net. First, because net is fashionable. Second, because it is practical, needing little care.

Net Blousette

That is feminine and flattering. This attractive new style is charming with V-neck and frilly jabot. White, navy, brown, and pastels.

$3.50

Is a Price to Be Marveled at for Coats New and Smart as These

Stitched lapels point out smartly on this very wearable coat for women—or can be buttoned up. It is fitted just enough to be becoming. Navy or black. 36 to 44.

A taffeta scarf slips through the upstanding collar of this swagger coat. It has the new wider sleeves and sporty slash pockets. In navy. Sizes 12 to 18.

Moire taffeta ripples to a frilly fullness in the collar of this chic style for misses. The lines are straight, with a slight "nip-in" at the waist. Navy. 12 to 18.

Moderate Price Coats, Fourth Floor.

Lastex Panty

This little panty has a way about it—a way of slimming down your hips and thighs and giving you the smoothest kind of a line. You'll find it's cool as can be, will wear and wear, and is absolutely no trouble at all to suds out.

Knit Underwear, Third Floor.

12½c each

Appliqued-initialed handkerchiefs to tuck in the pocket of your tailleur. Note the fine points—sport-size linen handkerchiefs with hand-whipped edges. White with colored initial. In this group, white or colored styles with one corner hand-embroidered and hand-appliqued floral designs.

Handkerchiefs, First Floor.

Twist Knit Silk Hosiery

$1 and $1.25 pair

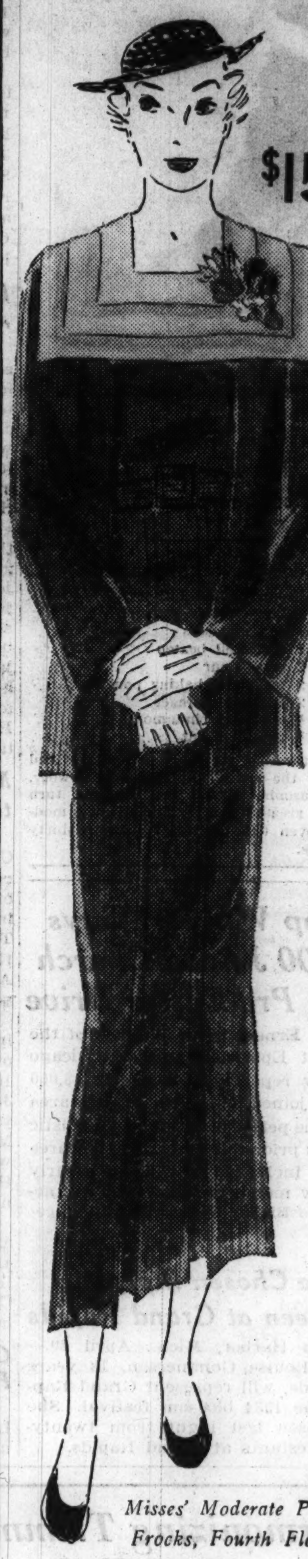
"I am looking for a chiffon stocking for day-in, day-out wear." We suggest Twist Knit silk hosiery. It is fashioned of high-twisted silk. This makes it look sheerer than it really is. The toe and sole reinforcements, the "heel-within-the-heel" greatly increase its wearing qualities. Five new spring colors. $1 pair.

"I am looking for very sheer chiffon stockings to wear with my 'dress-up' clothes. Twist Knit supersheer hosiery is just the thing. It's beautifully sheer and clear. The dull finish gives it an expensive appearance. See the new colors—Minx, Blend, Townwear, Tamale, and Sunbrown. $1.25 pair.

Hosiery, First Floor.

Canary Yellow Linen on Navy Blue Sheer!

A most effective color combination, with a bouquet of bright field flowers to set it off. The frock is sleeveless, with a long-sleeved fingertip length jacket. Note the smart square shape of the collar. Sizes 14 to 20.



$15

Misses' Moderate Price Frocks, Fourth Floor.

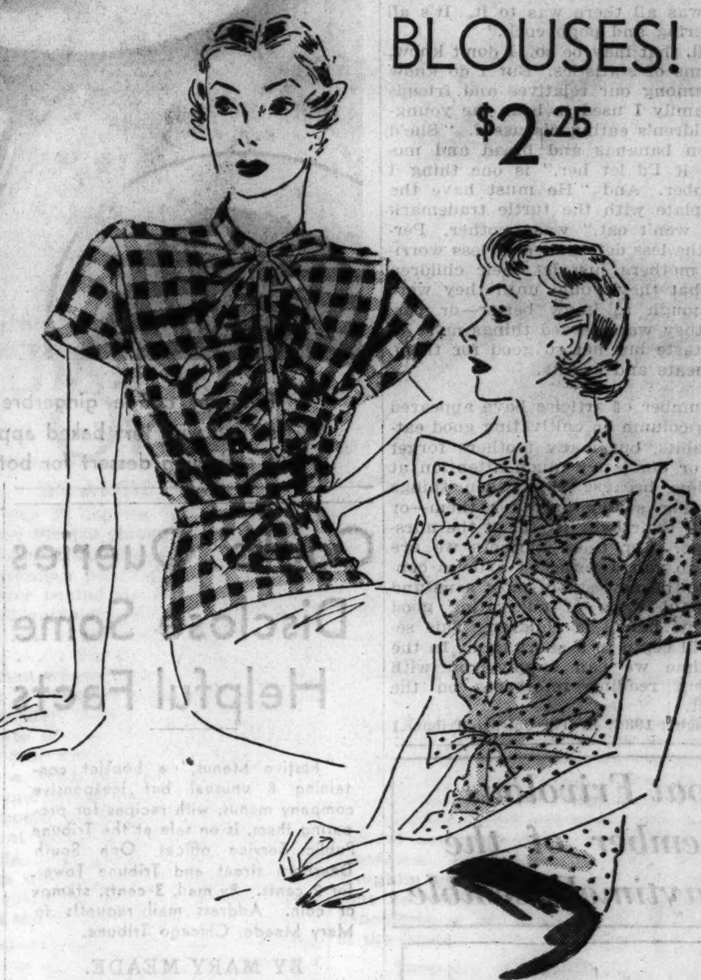
Children! Today There's a Circus Luncheon, 35c

Spring means circuses, and circuses mean clowns! So don't miss Bobo, the Clown, and his helper, Gumdrop, who will entertain you with their antics Saturday at luncheon between 11:30 and 2. We promise you the jolliest kind of a time.

Children's Tearoom, Eighth Floor.

BLOUSES!

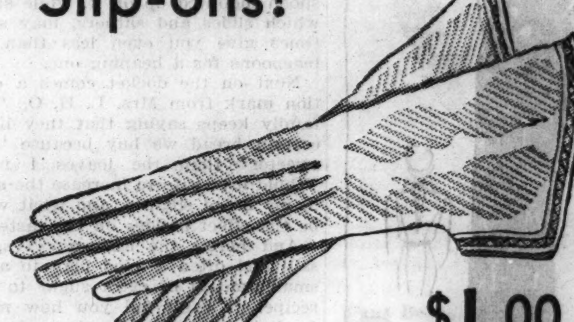
$2.25



Polkadots or checks—it's all the same to fashion! For they are equally smart and they come in blouses that are just the same style. The polkadot blouse is of batiste trimmed in organdy, with brown, red, navy, or blue dots. The checked gingham comes in brown, red, blue, or navy. Sizes range from 32 to 38. $2.25 each.

Blouses, Fourth Floor.

Slip-ons!



$1.00

New spring slip-ons in a soft new fabric made of Bemberg. It has a dull finish. It reveals the slim elegance of your hands. Best of all, it's as easy to wash as a handkerchief. Plain or decorative cuffs. White, navy, black, beige. $1 pair.

Gloves, First Floor.

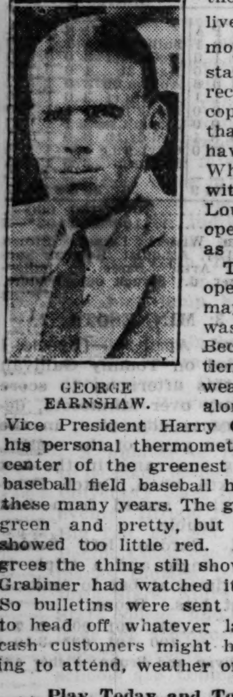
SOX TO START PLAY AGAINST BROWNS TODAY

Earnshaw to Get His First Test.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Rogers Hornsby, still rated a rather swell gent in lots of ways, even though he doesn't live here any more, today will stand a chance of receiving a more copious welcome than he would have had the White Sox series with Rogers' St. Louis Browns opened yesterday as per schedule. The scheduled opener, as you may have heard, was frozen out. Becoming impatient with the weather bureau along about noon, Vice President Harry Grabiner took his personal thermometer out to the center of the greenest and prettiest baseball field baseball has seen in lo these many years. The grass remained green and pretty, but the mercury showed too little red. Forty-two degrees the thing still showed after Mr. Grabiner had watched it a full hour. So bulletins were sent far and wide to head off whatever ladies' day or cash customers might have been fixing to attend, weather or no weather.



GEORGE EARNSHAW.

Play Today and Tomorrow.

The White Sox and the Browns will meet today and tomorrow if the weather is no worse than it was yesterday.

The postponement yesterday not only delayed a baseball game. It further put off the unveiling of George Earnshaw, once a great pitcher and still suspected of being possessed of superior talents.

Under the circumstances as they now exist, the Earnshaw gamble is a romantic one. If George proves an approximation of the artist he was in his best years with the Athletics, he can keep the Sox far out of the yawning American league cellar. On the other hand if he is of no more use to the Sox than he was to Connie Mack last year, and has been to the Sox in the exhibition season, he will be just another Comiskey liability, of whom there are already several to test the patience of that most patient of men, J. Louis Comiskey.

Loses Exhibition Game.

Last year big George won only five games while losing ten and twice was shipped home for training lapses. This spring the big Swarthmore aristocrat lost three exhibition games and won none. It should be said in his behalf, however, that if he was guilty of any training infractions of the kind that caused him embarrassment last year little was said about it.

Manager Fonseca is among those who say they believe Earnshaw is set for a great year. Many others who are less certain are awaiting his start today, ready to climb on the bandwagon or join such Earnshaw marching clubs as may be organized on the south side. While Earnshaw is not possessed of some of the requisites of a public idol, Sox fans are so eager to watch a pitching star in Comiskey raiment that the easterner eventually may be elected to congress from a south side district if he establishes his legal residence in the White Sox territory.

Sox Play on Road Tuesday.

The games today and tomorrow will furnish half the total the Sox are scheduled to play on their home premises between now and May 17, when the Athletics open the invasion of the eastern clubs. The Sox will rest Monday and will open the Detroit season Tuesday. After three days in Detroit the team moves to St. Louis for three days. The lads then return for two games with the Cleveland Indians, then move east for series in Philadelphia, Washington, New York, and Boston, in that order.

Today's contestants are tied in the American league standings. Each has won one and lost two.

COLD WEATHER THWARTS CUBS' ZEST FOR ACTION

Must Wait Until Today for Chance at Cards.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 20.—The Cubs, self inflated by virtue of three straight victories over the Reds, turned up here this morning expecting to have an immediate opportunity to test themselves against a supposedly stronger opponent. The opportunity didn't materialize. The Cardinal officials, who are business men, canceled the opener with the Chicagoans because of cold weather.

It was chilly all right, although not too chilly for the athletes to perform in safety. But nobody would have paid to see the show and, after all, that is important. Besides, the local club is a firm believer in Sunday double headers and is almost certain to pass up few excuses for cancellations until the at-home Sabbath dates are filled with bargain attractions.

The fact that the Cardinals in two of their three games thus far have acted as if they were in need of more practice also may have entered into today's postponement. The Cards practiced today during the hours the ball game should have been played.

No Double Header Yet.

Double headers can't be staged in the year's first series between any two teams, so the Cubs will be called on for only single games tomorrow and Sunday. Charley Root, who was nominated to make his season's debut today, will do it tomorrow. Root insists he will prove himself o. k. despite all the panic which prevailed because he was hit hard a few times during the spring exhibitions.

If Root gets by with a victory tomorrow, Manager Grimm may take a chance on Rookie Bill Lee in Sunday's game. If Root loses, Grimm may use Lon Warneke instead of Lee, who is thought to be none too healthy because of a recent flu attack.

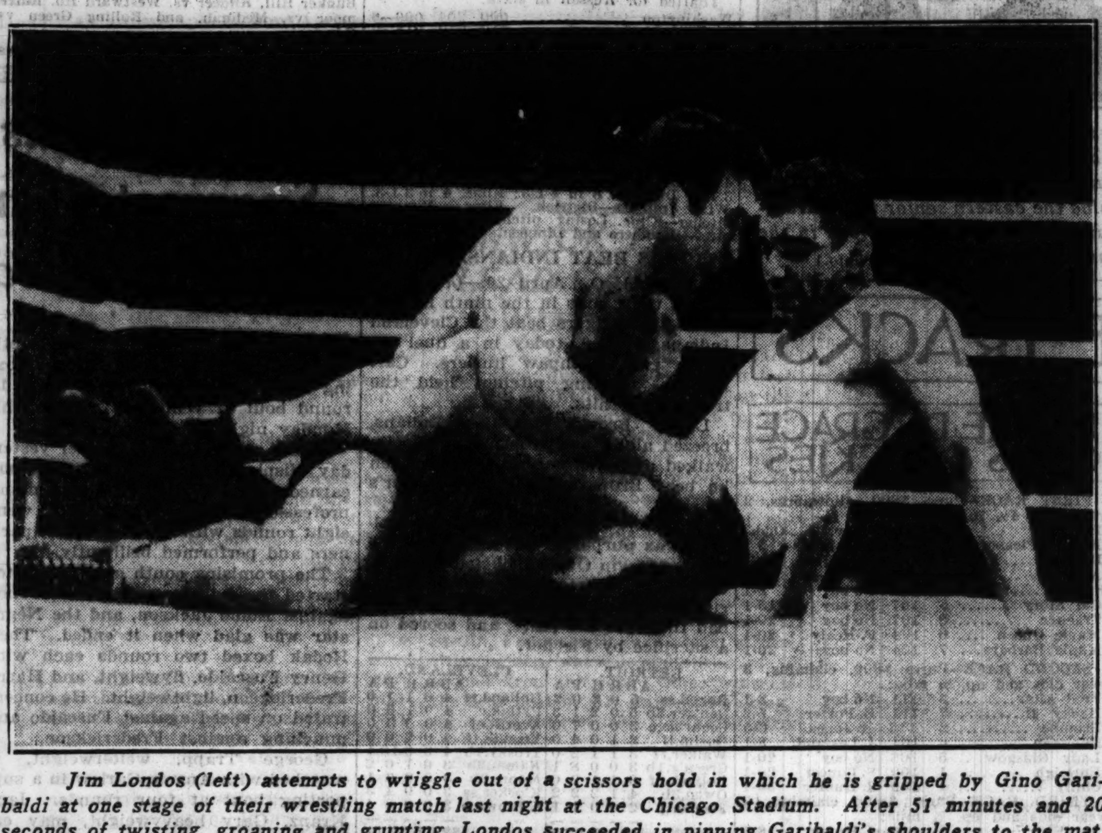
The Sunday assignment is not one that any of the Cub pitchers are fighting to grab. The famous Dizzy Dean will operate for the Cardinals that afternoon and there is a lot of respect for him. The Cubs have beaten Dean at various times, but they can't forget that in nine innings last season he fanned 17 of them. Pitchers naturally don't crave being pitted against that type of an opponent. The Cardinals' choice against Root tomorrow will be Tex Carleton.

Reds Weak at Bat.

The three engagements in which the Cubs were victors at Cincinnati have aroused a lot of fresh ideas about what is going to happen in the current flag race, but it is advisable not to wax too enthusiastic. The Cubs looked impressive in those three games, so much so in fact that they looked as if nobody ever could whip them. Allowance should be made for the weakness of the Reds at bat and in the field. If the Cub pitchers can treat some of the heavy hitting teams as they did the Reds there still will be time enough to get in order for Wrigley field world series tickets.

The Cubs, after finishing here Sunday, will ride back to Chicago to enjoy an off day on Monday. The following afternoon they'll formally open their Wrigley field season with the Reds furnishing the other half of the attraction.

A FEW GRUNTS SHORT OF VICTORY



Jim Londos (left) attempts to wriggle out of a scissors hold in which he is gripped by Gino Garibaldi at one stage of their wrestling match last night at the Chicago Stadium. NORTH CENTRAL GROUP EXPELS DETROIT, XAVIER

The University of Detroit yesterday was expelled from the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The action, taken on recommendation of the association's board of review, was based on the university's "academic administration, academic standards, and athletic conditions," according to Dr. George A. Works of the University of Chicago, secretary of the board. At the same time, Xavier university of Cincinnati, a lesser known institution, but one which has had a rapid development to leadership in athletics in the Ohio valley, also was expelled because of its athletic situation.

While the exact nature of the charges against the two universities was not revealed by Dr. Works, it was recalled that Detroit had had difficulties with the association last year because of loans which it had made to varsity athletes and had been unable to collect.

Points to Economical Conditions.

At that time officials of the university had pleaded that because of economic conditions many students, including athletes, were unable to repay money borrowed from the student loan funds and the association granted the university a reprieve "pending a reinspection" of conditions in the athletic department. This year when the question of academic administration and academic standards also became involved, the board of review recommended expulsion. The recommendation was upheld by the commission on institutions of higher learning at its meeting at the Stevens hotel.

Dr. Works said that neither Detroit nor Xavier has any recourse except an appeal to the executive committee of the association for reinstatement next year.

The North Central association embraces in its membership nearly every university, college, and high school in the great central section of the United States. Its jurisdiction extends from the Alleghenies to the Rocky mountains. A school removed from its accredited list is deprived of the right of academic intercourse with member institutions, and credits of students from non-member schools are not recognized by members. The association may even prevent a graduate of a non-member school from teaching in an institution which is a member of the association.

Would Be Shunned Later.

Should Detroit be denied reinstatement it would, after the next academic year, be forced to rearrange all of its athletic schedules, as members of the North Central association are expected to refrain from athletic relationships with nonmembers.

"Teams which already have signed contracts with Detroit and Xavier for

Polo Teams Start Play for National Title Tonight

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Play for the national indoor polo championship will start tonight. A Chicago Riding club team composed of Bill Nicholls, Herb Lorber, and Lieut. Larry Smith will encounter the New York Athletic club in the first of a three game series for the senior title. In the junior division, the Cleveland Riding club will open a championship series with the Boulder Brook club of New York. The games will be played at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

The New York Athletic club players, W. G. Reynolds, C. C. Coombs, and Arthur Borden, bring a reputation with them to the tournament. In the series for the eastern championship they defeated Winston Guest's Optimists, two games to one. It was the first time in four years that Guest's team was deprived of the title.

Versatile Chicago Team.

Against the New York A. C., the Chicago area will send a versatile team which can be rough and reckless when occasion demands. On offense and defense, Larry Smith has been consistently effective throughout the season. Lorber's weight will be useful in close quarters, and his long, accurate shots should lead to numerous setups for the adroit Nicholls.

Both of the senior division teams are rated at sixteen goals, so the game will start from scratch.

Boulder Brook, a nine goal combination, will concede two points to the Cleveland Riding club at the start of the junior division game. Baker, Fergus, and Evinger, the Cleveland players, have demonstrated their ability to protect a slim advantage. In some of their Metropolitan league engagements, they received gifts of several points and then proceeded to run away with their more highly rated opponents. So that two point handicap tonight will be something for the Boulder Brook boys to worry about.

Work Out at Armory.

The Boulder Brook team will include Merrill Fink, Edwin Ford, and John Loeb, with L. F. Brigham as alternate. Maj. O. I. Gates will be alternate for Cleveland.

The eastern players arrived yesterday and took light workouts at the armory. They expressed a liking for the size of the arena and were well satisfied with the clay and sand surface.

The tournament will continue on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday of next week. Play in the open division will begin after the senior championship has been decided. If one of the teams wins the first two games, open competition will start Thursday. Otherwise, it will not begin until a week from tonight. In that event it will be necessary to extend the tournament into the following week.

Guest Due Next Week.

Winston Guest will not arrive until early next week. Although his Optimists were defeated in the senior division of the eastern tournament, Guest was named to lead the all star team which will represent the east in open competition.

Nicholls, Smith, and Capt. C. A. Wilkinson will compose the western team which will compete in the open division.

COULON RETURNS TO RING; BOXES EXHIBITION BOUT

Johnny Coulon, bantamweight champion of the world 20 years ago, demonstrated before a crowd of 1,100 last night that he still can keep up with the youngsters—for three rounds, anyway. Coulon boxed a three round exhibition match with Bobby O'Dowd at the Rainbo fronton. The former champion outboxed O'Dowd and finished as strong as when he started. Coulon weighed 114 pounds, and O'Dowd 113.

Young Geno of La Salle, stopped Freddie Gravelle in the fourth round of a scheduled six round bout. Referee Dave Barry halted the bout when Gravelle was unable to defend himself.

Other results were:

Joe Serletic defeated Roosevelt Haines [5].
Gary Baldwin and Al Schiarato, drew [4].
Billy Ross and Jimmy Richards, drew [4].

LONDOS THROWS GARIBALDI AFTER ROUGH BATTLE

Touch of Boxing Fails to Halt Jim.

James Londos, if anyone should doubt the fact, is still the leading lessee of the world's heavyweight championship. A quarrelsome squatter named Gino Garibaldi last night attempted to stake a claim to James' holdings at the Stadium, but the head tenant slammed the door in his face after 51 minutes and 20 seconds of none too gentle wrestling.

The 7,500 devotees who attended to the tune of $12,000 were more than once brought off their pews to cheer Gino in the midst of what seemed to be finishing tortures, but Londos had brought his tricycle along, as usual, and wriggled out of several grips which Gino applied.

Fundamental holds were not the only contents in Garibaldi's répertoire last night, for he also added a touch of boxing, as per his threat prior to the match. It did not suffice to halt Londos, who answered in kind more than once.

Punts Out of Damage.

After about 47 minutes, Gino punted his way out of danger by nudging Jim in the chin with his toe and both wound up outside the ring simultaneously. Followed a few lunges and tackles, which ultimately found Gino stretched on the canvas.

Everett Marshall of Colorado, one of the elect of the Londos troupe, solved the contortions of a double jointed Swedish masseur announced as Cliff Olson in 19:39 of the semi windup with a series of flying mares.

Dutch Hefner, the Texas apostle of the George Zaharias school, came to grief in the first number on the bill when he encountered Jack Smith, a local boy operating under the nickname of Gentleman. They writhed through the approved movements, with the blubbery Hefner interspersing the routine with several left jabs, until the allotted twenty minutes had been consumed. Smith was awarded the referee's decision at the end of that time, just as he had retorted to a brace of Dutch's upper cuts by flooring the Texan. All in all, it was not an exciting duel, the action being far below the usual preliminary par.

Indian Bites the Resin.

Jagot Singh, the Hindu horror, and Sun Jennings, another one of the vanishing Americans, presented an educational tableau which involved all of the kindergarten grips in the catalog, with Sun carrying the guinea pig rôle most of the way. Jagot was applying all of the kindergarten clutches neatly until Sun's ire was aroused to the point where he did everything but seize the Hindu by his handle bar mustache. During this repartee Jagot displayed a very decent rabbit punch himself and finally caused the Indian to bite the resin in 15 minutes and 12 seconds with what was announced as the Hindu spin, just another name for Londos' old airplane spin.

Hans Kampfer, the German piano hoister, and Joe Malcewicz, the barefoot Pole, struggled through 30 minutes of several grades of agony without coming to a decision. They neglected naught, taking turns in flinging each other off the working premises, kicking, kneeing, and gouging with abandon, and at one time Hans set up a terrible wail, claiming that Joe had taken a nip at his right arm.

Leicester City Defeats Derby in English Football

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEICESTER, England, April 20.—Derby county was defeated in a first division game of the English Football league today, losing to Leicester City. The score was 2 to 0.

TURF INTERESTS FORCE DECISION TO QUIT HOCKY

Name of New Pilot Withheld.

Thomas Patrick Gorman, the energetic party who piloted the Chicago Blackhawks from last place in the American division of the National Hocky league to the Stanley cup and the world's championship within less than two seasons, will not return to manage the black and white sextet when it opens the defense of its title in November.

TOM GORMAN.

In a long distance telephone conversation from Ottawa yesterday with Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Blackhawks, Gorman resigned from the post which he had held since Jan. 14, 1933. Gorman's reason for his action coincided with that given during the Stanley cup series, when it was rumored that he would resign—his racing interests, which are now as extensive, if not more so, than his hocky activities. In talking to Maj. McLaughlin yesterday, he made it plain that he would devote all of his time henceforth to his duties as secretary of the Quebec Racing association.

Successor Already Chosen.

Maj. McLaughlin, in commenting on Gorman's resignation, admitted that Gorman's successor already has been chosen, but refused to name him. The Blackhawks' boss had the highest praise for the man who managed the team during its sensational spurt from the cellar regions to the world's championship.

"Some time before the start of the playoff season," Maj. McLaughlin said, "Manager Gorman notified us that because of his racing connections he felt he would be unable to manage the Blackhawks after this season. Because of our pleasant relations with Gorman and his success in managing the team, this was a great disappointment to us. His consideration in giving us notice so far in advance of his intentions, however, enabled us to make a thorough canvass of the field in looking for his successor.

"We have been fortunate in picking a man who will be able to follow successfully in his footsteps. Owing to certain circumstances, we are unable to announce the name of the new manager, but hope to be able to do so shortly."

Fans Begin Speculating.

Blackhawk partisans are still attempting to guess who the new manager will be, however. At the time of the first rumors of Gorman's possible resignation, which came to light shortly before the first game of the final cup series at Detroit, a number of candidates were mentioned. First of these was Frank Patrick, brother of Lester of the Rangers, who served as managing director of the league during the recent season, but Patrick denied that he would take the position.

Two others mentioned were Lionel Conacher, the big defense man who was largely responsible for the Hawks' success this year, and Helge Bostrum, former Hawk star who made good as a minor league manager this year. Practically all of the remaining National Hocky league pilots appear comfortably settled in their jobs for next season, so it would appear that the next Hawk manager might be either a player or an outsider.

Gorman came to the Hawks on Jan. 14, 1933, replacing Emil Iverson at a time when the Hawks were struggling in the throes of a slump. Such was the nature of the slump that they couldn't rise out of it by the end of the regular season, finishing sixth in the entire league and last in the United States section with a record of 16 games won, 20 lost, and 12 tied. They battled for the leadership throughout the last season, finally finishing second in their division.

Piloted Ottawa to Cups.

They entered the Stanley cup playoffs with the Canadiens as their first foes and won the series by beating and tying the Frenchmen. They looked even better in winning the second round series from the Montreal Maroons. They smashed the Detroit Red Wings in the first two games of the finals, dropped the third, and took the series and the Stanley cup in the fourth battle on Mush March's goal after more than 30 minutes of overtime.

Gorman has been identified with racing as much as with hocky, but it was the latter that he gained his first fame. He managed the Ottawa Senators from 1918 to 1924, inclusive, during which period he led the Senators to four Stanley cups, three of them in succession.

In January of 1925, Gorman signed with the late Tex Rickard to introduce professional major league hocky into the United States and in December of that year, the New York Americans made their debut, setting a record for gate receipts at a single hocky game—upwards of $50,000. He remained with the New Yorkers until 1929, and until his coming to the Blackhawks spent all of his time in racing—as secretary of the Quebec Racing association and assistant general manager of Agua Caliente. He was en route to the latter track when Maj. McLaughlin summoned him to take over the Blackhawk job.

JAMAICA TO OPEN NEW YORK RACING THIS AFTERNOON

Eastern Track Will Have Open Betting.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—The metropolitan racing season is scheduled to start tomorrow afternoon with betting legal for the first time in a generation. The 163 day season will begin at the Jamaica course of the Metropolitan Jocky club in Queens county with the famous old Paumonok handicap as the feature.

Threatened with extinction through repressive laws which have retarded betting operations for twenty-six years, the twenty day meeting will operate under the terms of the recently enacted Crawford-Breitenbach law, which was signed by Gov. Lehman Thursday. It is expected to effect a renaissance of the sport in this state.

Expect Large Crowd.

Edward P. Kilroe, president of the Metropolitan Jocky club, said tonight: "We expect the largest crowd in many years. We hope everybody is pleased by the many changes which will work for the good of the sport."

The changes include the clearing of the lawns of bookmakers, the removal of betting operations from the clubhouse area, the reduction of the grandstand admission price to $2.50 per person, the increase of purse money to a minimum of $800 per race, and the introduction of the saliva test for the prevention of stimulation of horses.

Twelve to Race in Feature.

The feature race has attracted a field of twelve, including Faireno, 3 year old champion of 1932, owned by William Woodward, chairman of the Jocky club, who led the fight for a change in the betting laws. Faireno has been assigned top weight of 126 pounds, and will be making his first start since the fall of 1932. He will run coupled in the betting with Mr. Woodward's Vicar and the Wheatley stable's Slapdash. Five other races support the feature event, which carries $2,500 in added money—it is a sprint of six furlongs:

The efforts of Joseph E. Widener, vice chairman of the Jocky club and owner of Hialeah Park in Miami, have brought to New York the veterinarian and chemist who worked in Florida with the saliva test during the last winter. These men, J. W. Catlett and C. E. Morgan, will function until the Dunnigan bill creating a new racing commission becomes a law. The new body then will select its own officials.

EQUIPOISE ENTERED TODAY.

Havre de Grace, Md., April 20.—[Special.] — Headed by Equipoise, eight horses will go to the post tomorrow afternoon in the Philadelphia handicap at the Havre de Grace race track. Equiposie, holder of the world's record for one mile, will carry top weight of 130 pounds. It will be his first start of the year.

The distance of the race, which was won last year by Equipoise, is one and one-sixteenth miles. Equipoise's rivals in the event include Springsteel and Monel, owned by S. W. Labrot; Inlander, owned by Mrs. Dodge Sloane; Caesar's Ghost, Larranaga, Silent Shot, and Gay World.

TEXAS DERBY TODAY.

Arlington Downs, Tex., April 20.—[Special.]—The $10,000 added Texas Derby will be run at the Arlington Downs track here tomorrow before what the track officials believe will be a crowd of more than 40,000.

Twelve 3 year olds were named overnight for the big 3 year old special which has nearly everybody in the southwest excited over the outcome. The race is at a mile and a furlong and will be run at about 5 o'clock central standard time.

In the betting tonight Riskulus, winner of the Agua Caliente Derby, was installed as the favorite at 6 to 5. Riskulus is owned by Norman W. Church of Los Angeles and as a result of a plunge on him in the Kentucky Derby Future books the price against him for that race dropped from 80 to 1 to 10 to 1.

The W. Sachsenmaier entry of Indian Salute and Plight was the second choice at 2 to 1. The price against the others ranged from 10 to 1 to 100 to 1. Hickory Lad, winner of the Louisiana Derby, was not highly regarded.

The running of the Derby tomorrow will wind up the spring season at the Arlington Downs track. Most of the horses which will go to the post in the Derby will be shipped north to Louisville and Chicago early next week.

PEARCE, MISSING PHILLY PITCHER, PHONES MANAGER

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Frank Pearce, young right-handed pitcher of the Phillies baseball club, who mysteriously disappeared from his hotel in Philadelphia on Tuesday morning and had not been heard of for three days, was located in Winchester, Va., early this morning.

Pearce himself made known his whereabouts when he phoned his manager, Jimmy Wilson, at the club's headquarters here to report that he was well, unharmed and would report to the team as soon as possible.

He gave no explanation of his unusual conduct other than to say that he had been "tending to some personal business." He refused to discuss what that personal business was, but said that the reason he had not asked permission of the manager to make the trip was because he was afraid that the favor would not be granted.

Emmett Murphy to Coach Back Field at St. Mary's

Winona, Miss., April 20.—[Special.]—Emmett Murphy, quarter back on the 1932 University of Notre Dame football team, was signed today as backfield coach at St. Mary's college here. The announcement was made by Ed Krause who recently was appointed head football coach.

Earlham Tennis Team Runs Over Indiana, 5-1

Bloomington, Ind., April 20.—[Special.]—Earlham college's tennis team defeated Indiana, 5 to 1, today. Three matches were called off because of inclement weather.

POLO CHAMPIONS OF THE EAST

GOFF PITCHES STATE NORMAL TO 9-6 VICTORY

Bloomington, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—Pim Goff, State Normal's ace left hander, was touched for six hits and six runs in the first two innings, but recovered and went on to defeat Charleston Teachers, 9 to 6, today. Goff yielded only two more hits and struck out 19. He also hit a home run over the right field wall, a distance of 380 feet. The victory was Normal's second straight in the Little 19 conference race without a loss.

Normal counted seven times in the fourth inning. John White, right fielder, hit two doubles during the rally, driving in three of the seven runs. Score:

ATHLETICS POUND WEAVER; DEFEAT SENATORS, 9 TO 6

Philadelphia Scores Early and Keeps Lead.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 20.—(AP)—The Athletics landed on four Washington pitchers today for 15 hits and defeated the American league champions, 9 to 6.

The A's hammered Monte Weaver for five hits and four runs in the first inning and were never headed after Weaver went to the showers. The Senators counted four runs in the sixth.

Rabbit Warstler, Philadelphia second baseman and lead-off man, made four hits in as many times at bat. Schulte and Stone, Senator outfielders, each made three hits in five trips to the plate.

TIGERS BEAT INDIANS, 4 TO 0.

Cleveland, O., April 20.—(AP)—Scoring all their runs in the ninth inning, the Detroit Tigers beat the Cleveland Indians, 4 to 0, today in a duel between two southpaw hurlers. Carl Fischer, winning pitcher, held the tribe to five hits.

Lloyd Brown, for the Indians, breezed along until the ninth. Goslin walked and was safe at second when he beat Brown's throw on Walker's sacrifice.

Greenberg also sacrificed and Doljack was purposely passed, filling the bases. Marvin Owen rocketed a double off the right field wall, scoring three runs. Owen reached third on Averill's bad throw to the plate, and scored on a sacrifice by Fischer.

NEW YORK, 7; BOSTON, 3.

New York, April 20.—(AP)—The Giants crossed up Ben Cantwell with two bunts in the sixth inning today and started a four run rally that enabled them to continue their victory march with a 7 to 3 triumph over the Boston Braves. It was the champions' fourth straight victory.

The rally, which broke a 3 to 3 tie, started when Travis Jackson bounced a single off the pitcher's glove. Watkins bunted to Cantwell and he threw wild to second trying to catch Jackson. Vergez laid down another bunt and beat it out to fill the bases. Cantwell forced in a run by hitting Frank O'Doul, pinch hitter, and Joe Moore slashed out a double to send two more runs home. O'Doul stopped at third and scored on Blondy Ryan's fly.

Northwest Golf League Points for Season Opening

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Northwest Golf league, one of the best known team organizations in the game, is all set and ready to go for the opening of its sixth consecutive season, which will take place at Park Ridge on May 22. The league is composed of teams representing eight clubs in the northwest section of the Chicago district—Bunker Hill, Edgewater, Kildeer, Medinah, Park Ridge, Ridgemoor, Rolling Green and Westward Ho. Fred W. Lietzow of Ridgemoor, who was largely instrumental in founding the league, is chairman, and Dr. A. O. Young of Park Ridge, secretary for this year.

The 1934 schedule is expected to resolve itself into a battle between Bunker Hill and Ridgemoor, both of which hold two legs on the championship trophy. Three are required for permanent possession. Ridgemoor won it in 1929 and 1931, while Bunker Hill has scored the last two years. Sunset Ridge, which came home in front in 1930, subsequently dropped out to join the North Shore league. Incidentally, plans are now being made to match the winners of the Northwest and North Shore groups at the completion of their regular schedule.

The opening bracket of the league at Park Ridge on May 22 will bring together the home club and Kildeer, Ridgemoor and Rolling Green, Medinah and Edgewater, and Bunker Hill and Westward Ho. The remainder of the schedule, which has been arranged so that its dates conflict as little as possible with other district tournaments, follows:

June 5 at Kildeer—Park Ridge vs. Rolling Green, Kildeer vs. Ridgemoor, Medinah vs. Westward Ho, and Edgewater vs. Bunker Hill.

June 22 at Ridgemoor—Park Ridge vs. Bunker Hill, Kildeer vs. Westward Ho, Ridgemoor vs. Medinah, and Rolling Green vs. Edgewater.

July 12 at Rolling Green—Medinah vs. Park Ridge, Kildeer vs. Edgewater, Ridgemoor vs. Bunker Hill, and Rolling Green vs. Westward Ho.

July 31 at Medinah—Kildeer vs. Rolling Green, Park Ridge vs. Ridgemoor, Medinah vs. Bunker Hill, and Edgewater vs. Westward Ho.

Aug. 30 at Edgewater—Edgewater vs. Park Ridge, Kildeer vs. Bunker Hill, Westward Ho vs. Ridgemoor, and Medinah vs. Rolling Green.

Sept. 18 at Bunker Hill—Westward Ho vs. Park Ridge, Kildeer vs. Medinah, Ridgemoor vs. Edgewater, and Rolling Green vs. Bunker Hill.

Oct. 2 at Westward Ho—This will consist of mixed pairings, involving all clubs of the league.

The imminent likelihood of an NRA code as applied to golf is not going to find the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association unprepared, if plans now being fostered by its officers are realized. Furthermore, the association is not forgetting its daily fee brethren throughout the country, having already arranged for a national convention of fee course owners and operators, to be held here in early June.

All golf club restaurants already are being operated under the restaurant code, and with the probability that time will bring a code for golf clubs proper, C. D. F. G. A. officials have heeded the advice of those higher up to be able to discuss their own particular problems as a unified group. For this reason, the proposed national gathering here will have as its first purpose the task of banding the larger daily fee organizations throughout the United States into one organization. With this done, the owners and operators will be better qualified to iron out such kinks liable to occur in an NRA code as the cost of course maintenance, with special reference to laborers' hours and wages.

Letters were mailed out several days ago concerning a national convention, and from the replies already received, Chicago was unanimously nominated as a meeting place, not only because of its location, but because the Daily Fee association here has been the largest and most solidly organized group of its kind in the country. Another factor in bringing representatives from New York, Boston, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Kansas City, Cleveland, St. Louis, Detroit, and Cincinnati, was the success of THE TRIBUNE golf school last year, which was sponsored by the Chicago association. All of these cities have been eager to learn about the makeup of the school, and several have made plans to conduct similar courses of instruction.

Ted Moreau of Mid-City, Julian Lambert of Northbrook, and Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley form the committee which will represent the C. D. F. G. A. at the coming convention.

Rodak Pounds Sparmates in Drill for Shea

Leo Rodak and Eddie Shea, south side junior lightweights, will end boxing drills this afternoon for their 10 round bout at White City roller rink Monday night.

Rodak at the C. Y. O. center yesterday displayed the ability that has earned him 16 triumphs in as many professional appearances. He went eight rounds with three sparring partners and performed brilliantly.

The promising south side youngster started the drill by going four rounds against Eddie Jackson, and the Negro star was glad when it ended. Then Rodak boxed two rounds each with Henry Fuscaldo, flyweight, and Harry Frederickson, lightweight. He concentrated on speed against Fuscaldo and punching against Frederickson.

George Trapp, welterweight, is matched with Angelo Garlow in a supporting bout at four rounds. Jack Kranz, Gary heavyweight, may engage Gene Klopack in another.

Harry Dublinsky, west side 145 pound boxer, has signed to meet Eddie [Kid] Wolfe at Memphis, Tenn., May 15. Solly Dukelsky, middleweight stablemate of Dublinsky, is paired with Bobby Matthews in a second 10 round match on the card which will be refereed by Jack Dempsey. Dublinsky also may box Eddie Flynn, former Olympic champion, at Memphis May 21.

Johnny Phagan, local middleweight, will be out of action for two weeks because of a tooth ailment. . . . Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., 160 pounder, yesterday agreed to head the show at White City next Friday against a suitable opponent. . . . Mintz Minikel repudiated his agreement for a contest with Adolph Wiater, Green Bay, Wis., heavyweight, at Milwaukee Wednesday, so the match has been canceled.

Julius [Mephisto] Woronick, Detroit, Mich., light heavyweight wrestler, and Jack [Bad Boy] Brown of New York were matched yesterday to meet in the main event of the wrestling card Wednesday at Rainbo Fronton. . . . Einar Hedquist yesterday replaced Jimmy Cummings in a four round scrap on the Frank Siglio-Tommy Corbett boxing program next Friday at Cicero stadium. . . . Carl Scalise boxes Harry Booker for six round. . . . Joey Esposito faces Jimmy Richards and Harry Robarts opposes Frank Ketter in other four round preliminary matches.

Three contests will head the amateur show Monday at St. Leonard auditorium, 34th street and Clarence avenue, Berwyn. John Logan will meet Tom Kenneally, Charles Neigo is matched with George Sluka and Frank Schultz will face Al Soukup.

The schedule of bouts tonight is:

At Chicago Athletic club—Joey Kleko vs. Jackie McCarten, junior welterweights; George Haberski vs. Lou Vine, and Harry Booker vs. Art. Zimmer, both lightweights; Bobby O'Dowd vs. Lenny Cohen, bantamweights, each four rounds.

At New York—Benny Whittier vs. Benny Brostaff.

McNamara Named Basket Coach at St. Viator College

Kankakee, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—John J. McNamara, athletic director of the St. Albans High school in Sycamore, today was named head basketball coach at St. Viator college to succeed Jack Corcoran, who was released in December.

Dempsey Denies Interest in Races on Return Here

Jack Dempsey yesterday said upon his return to Chicago that the two days he spent in Benton Harbor, Mich., had nothing to do with boxing or horse racing.

"I had a couple of days of leisure so I motored to Benton Harbor to chat with my old pal, Floyd Fitzsimmons," the former boxing champion said.

The report that Dempsey is making plans to have Max Baer box in Chicago after a heavyweight title meeting with Champion Primo Carnera is not true, he said.

"We can't very well arrange matches for Baer until we learn the outcome of his fight in June," Dempsey added. "As for being interested in a race track near Detroit, there's nothing to it."

Dempsey has a share of Baer's contract and he is supposed to be in a position to decide where and when the California challenger boxes.

It is understood that the former champion went to Benton Harbor to confer with Fitzsimmons relative to a refereeing tour in Michigan next week. Here's Dempsey's schedule until the latter part of June:

April 23, referee at Battle Creek, Mich.; April 24, referee at Lansing; April 25, referee at Grand Rapids; April 26, referee at Muskegon; April 27, referee at Saginaw; May 15, referee at Memphis; May 17 to June at New York, aid in promotion of Baer-Carnera bout.

WILDCATS WHIP WOLVERINES IN MOUND DUEL, 3-1

Lagger Limits Michigan to Four Singles.

Northwestern opened its Big Ten baseball season with a 3 to 1 victory over Michigan at Roycemore field in Evanston yesterday. The two teams will clash in a second game today at 2:30.

It was a pitchers' battle all the way. Ed Lagger, starting his first conference game for the Wildcats, held the Wolverines to four hits, all singles. Whitey Wistert hurled well for the visitors, but the Wildcats bunched three of their eight hits in the eighth inning to push over two runs.

The Purple got off to a one run lead in the first inning, when Sullivan singled, went to second on McGinnis' sacrifice, and scored on Auguston's single. Michigan evened the count in the fourth when Wistert walked, took third on Oliver's single, and scored on Regeczi's single to left.

Both teams then went scoreless until the eighth. After two were out the Wildcats pushed over a pair of runs on successive singles by Henikoff, Arnquist, and Kennedy. Score:

750 ATHLETES VIE TODAY IN KANSAS RELAYS

Special Mile Race Tops Program.

Lawrence, Kas., April 20.—[Special.]—The twelfth annual Kansas relays program, which has attracted 750 athletes from 15 states, will be run off here tomorrow in Memorial stadium under what promises to be ideal weather conditions. Clear and warmer is the prediction for tomorrow and the report was welcomed by athletes who are anxious to turn in record breaking performances in the first major meet of the 1934 season.

The program, which calls for twelve relay races, nine special individual events, an invitational mile, and the Missouri Valley A. A. U. decathlon championship, has drawn track and field stars from 24 universities, 28 colleges, and 6 junior colleges.

Venzke Among First Arrivals.

The first arrivals today were Glen Dawson of Tulsa and Gene Venzke of Pennsylvania, who will compete tomorrow against Glen Cunningham of Kansas, Raymond Sears of Butler, and Harold Manning of Wichita in the invitational mile, feature event on the program.

Venzke, who is in excellent physical condition, said he did not look for a new world record in the race. He asserted it was not yet warm enough for track men to run their best, and that records for distance runs will come as the season advances. Venzke and Cunningham are favored to battle it out for first place in the race.

Interest in the relays is centering around the individual track events, which include, besides the mile, the 100 yard dash, 120 yard high hurdles, 1,500 meter run, shot put, javelin, discus, high jump, broad jump, and pole vault.

With Cunningham out of the 1,500 meters, the race is expected to be a duel between Don Landon of Kansas State and Wayne Slocum of Minnesota.

Expect Many Records.

A number of records are expected to be made tomorrow, especially in the university class relays and individual events. Strong relay teams from the Big Ten, Big Six, Missouri Valley and Pacific Coast conferences threaten the marks. Indiana, Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, Iowa State, Notre Dame, Washington State college, and Oklahoma appear to have the strongest teams for the university events. The college class schools are hoping to halt the Pittsburg, Kas., Teachers, who won seven out of eight races in that division during the last two years.

Some of the leading athletes entered are Charles Hornbostel and Ivan Fuqua of Indiana, Art Crews and Hal Dunker of Washington State college, Sidney Dean, captain of the University of Iowa team; William Freimuth of Minnesota, Chin Kamm and Dave Cook, co-captains of Illinois team; Heye Lambertus of Nebraska, and Clyde Coffman, Edwin Hall, and Elwyn Dees of Kansas university.

Hoosier Ties World Mark.

Hornbostel has tied the world 880 yard record and is the 1934 indoor 1,000 yard and 1,000 meter champion. Fuqua ran on the United States Olympic 1,600 meter relay team in 1932.

Crews and Dunkers are the northern division champions of the Pacific coast conference in the javelin and shot put, respectively. Kamm won the shot put title here in 1933, while Freimuth is the Big Ten indoor champion in that event. Lambertus is the National A. A. U. 220 yard low hurdles champion.

Edwin Hall, Big Six conference sprint champion, will be defending the Kansas relays 100 yard dash title. Elwyn Dees, Jayhawker shotput king, is one of the favorites in his event.

George T. Bresnahan, track coach of Iowa, is referee for the relays. The honorary referee is Dr. John Outland of Kansas City, who is the father of the annual Kansas outdoor carnival.

White Leads Decathlon.

Delbert White, Negro star of the Pittsburg, Kas., Teachers, took a lead of 90 points in the Missouri Valley A. A. U. decathlon championship. In the five events today, White ran up a total of 4084.575.

Second place was held by Jay Berwanger, University of Chicago athlete, who collected 3994.395 points. The scores of other competitors follow:

Roy Patterson, Iowa Wesleyan, 3885.33, Clyde Coffman, Kansas, 3856.85; Lorenzo McClain, Wichita, 3826.12; Arnold Preheim, Yankton, 3696.55, and Russell Pearson, Warrensburg Teachers, 3181.78.

The events run off today were 100 meter run, broad jump, shot put, high jump and 400 meter run. Tomorrow morning the seven athletes will return to Memorial stadium and complete the final five events, calling for the 110 meter hurdle, discus, pole vault, javelin, and 1,500 meter run.

Decathlon summaries:

Walker Cup Stars Sail for England Today

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Nine leading amateur golfers of the nation, including the United States open and amateur champions, gathered in New York today preparatory to starting an ocean voyage which ultimately will lead to St. Andrew's in Scotland for the International Walker Cup Team matches with Great Britain on May 11 and 12. The team sails tomorrow at noon on the Caledonia.

Ouimet is Captain.

Francis Ouimet, team captain, came down from Boston; Chandler Egan, the 50-year-old veteran, arrived from the Pacific coast, and Gus Moreland came up from Texas. They were joined by George T. Dunlap Jr. and Johnny Goodman, amateur and open champions, respectively; Jack Westland, Chicago; Johnny Fischer, Cincinnati; Max Marston, Philadelphia, and Lawson Little, San Francisco, also arrived.

They form one of the strongest aggregations the United States golf association ever has sent abroad. Ouimet has played on every U. S. Walker Cup team. Marston, Westland, Dunlap, and Moreland also have played in previous cup matches, while the veteran Egan and Goodman. Fischer and Little will be making their debuts as internationalists.

8th Renewal of Series.

The foursome and singles matches to be played over the famous Royal and Ancient golf course will be the eighth renewal of the series. The British have yet to score a victory.

Four members of the American team are familiar with the gales that sweep the renowned Scottish links. Ouimet, Dunlap, Egan and Westland have played there before, but with little success. In previous matches at St. Andrews, Ouimet failed to score a single point for the United States. Dunlap's first experience there last year was in the British amateur tournament, in which he lost to Michael Scott, captain of the British team, in the semi finals.

Members of the team were dinner guests of Herbert Jaques, president of the United States Golf association, tonight.

Y. M. C. A. SPORT CARNIVAL TO BE HELD TONIGHT

The first annual all-Chicago Y. M. C. A. sports carnival, commemorating the organization's 75th anniversary in Chicago, will be held tonight at the 132d Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets.

There will be championship bouts in boxing and wrestling, four championship basketball games, volleyball between the Hyde Park and Division Street teams, and in addition there will be relay races, mass demonstrations, ping-pong exhibitions, and gymnastic events. Twenty-seven teams have entered from 17 branches.

The floor of the armory has been so arranged that as many as seven different sports will be taking place at the same time. The boxing and wrestling will be held in a raised ring at the southwest part of the hall; volleyball and basketball along the north side. The gymnastic events will take place in the center area.

The athletes who take part are the pick of the 30,000 persons who have participated in "Y" sports during the last 12 months.

International Softball League to Open May 15

The International Softball league will open its season May 15, President Matt Ruppert announced yesterday. The final games for the 12, 14, and 16 inch championship in the men's and women's divisions will be decided at Minneapolis, Minn.

The Time Is Here, Trout Anglers, to Prepare Flies

BY BOB BECKER.

Next week is the week for trout anglers to add the final touches to their fishing outfits. It is the time to check over the waders and put on any patches that are needed, take the flies out of the glass jars where they have been kept safe in the company of moth balls [if that's the way you keep them during the winter], and make any purchases needed to complete the outfit which will be used on opening day.

Of course the dyed in the wool trout fishermen need no warning. Most of them have been fussing around for weeks making new flies and polishing up the bamboo rods, if they haven't fallen for one of those new, hollow tube steel fly rods which are intriguing trout fishermen this spring.

As an example of how April affects trout fishermen and how eagerly they are looking forward to opening day when many fancy combinations of feathers will be paraded before the fish, there is the delegate to the Izaak Walton league convention who came to Chicago day before yesterday with a good sized metal box of dry flies. He carried these around with him as if it were against the law to leave such a package in one's hotel room.

There are a number of new and worth while fishing gadgets on the market this spring, all guaranteed to interest the outdoorsman. At the head of the list for the trout fisherman there is the newest thing in a steel rod—the tubular type made by drawing out a resilent piece of metal.

These new rods, which produce 50 per cent more power than bamboo of the same length and still weigh only 4¾ or 5 ounces, can handle line and a fish in excellent style. The first trout trip we take this spring will find one of these new hollow steel rods working for us, because we are going to alternate bamboo and steel in our fishing, just for the fun of comparing the action.

If any one had told us a few years ago that there would be on the market a special bait for catching carp and catfish we would have considered it quite a joke. Yet a few days ago we saw a river fisherman using a special, manufactured, bright red bait for these fish. It comes in tough chunks just like doughballs which so many carp fishermen make at home.

The catfish bait [also brilliant scarlet in color] is contained in a tough anise flavored material and apparently the contents have a high percentage of very smelly cheese. With high hat baits like this for the coarse fish and trout getting lures, including everything from peacock to wood duck feathers, the American species of fish will continue to be royally "entertained" by fishermen this spring.

CHICAGO NINE, NOTRE DAME TO CLASH TODAY

Notre Dame's baseball team will play the University of Chicago this afternoon at Greenwood field, 60th street and Greenwood avenue. The Irish will be out to avenge a pair of defeats at the hands of Chicago last year. Neither team has fared too well in early season games, both having been beaten by Western State Teachers.

Bob Langford is scheduled to pitch for the Maroons, probably against Ed Rascher, who lost twice to the Maroons last year.

Erie (Pa.) Bowler Leads in Match Game Trials

Frank Snyder of Erie, Pa., last night led a field of seven out of town bowlers who opened a series at the Windy City alleys to qualify two for the national match game eliminations at Detroit next week-end. Snyder shot 1,502 for eight games. Other scores were

Emil Nagelson, Cincinnati, 1,489; L. Angstman, Bay City, Mich., 1,481; L. Kelsven, Minot, N. D., 1,459; C. Brix, Decatur, Ill., 1,419; R. Mitchell, Sioux City, Ia., 1,402, and W. Levitz, Jackson, Mich., 1,381.

Another round will be rolled this evening and a third tomorrow afternoon.

Prep Pitches Roosevelt to No Hit Victory

Capt. Chuck Lesperance, senior member of the Roosevelt High school baseball team, pitched a no hit-no run game as Roosevelt defeated Amundsen, 9 to 0, at Logan Square park yesterday. Only one Amundsen player reached first base. It was the first no hit game of the Chicago Public High School league season.

Roosevelt collected seven hits off four Amundsen pitchers and scored three runs in the first inning, five in the third, and one in the fourth.

Two other games were played yesterday. Harrison defeated Oak Park, 4 to 2, and Blue Island triumphed over Fenger, 4 to 1.

FENWICK PREPS LEAD CATHOLIC SWIM TOURNEY

Fenwick High school, last year's champions, qualified eleven men last night at the Fenwick pool to lead the five schools entered in the race for the Catholic swimming title. Loyola academy placed second with nine men, while St. George of Evanston and St. Leo placed five and one, respectively. Mount Carmel, the other school entered, was eliminated from participation in the finals to be held tonight.

Monaco, Fenwick, defending champion in the free style event, qualified when he won the second heat in :26. Spehn, Fenwick, 50 yard breast stroke title holder, shaved six-tenths of a second from his own time, winning the first heat in :33. Carroll, Fenwick, set a new time of :30.8 for the 50 yard back stroke.

CALIFORNIA CREW DEFEATS BRANCH AT LOS ANGELES

Oakland, Cal., April 20.—(AP)—University of California's varsity and junior varsity crews defeated University of California at Los Angeles oarsmen in easy fashion today in races on Oakland estuary.

The Bear varsity won by six lengths in the two mile race in 10:30.

In the 2,000 meter junior varsity race the Bear oarsmen took command early and crossed the finish line with a three and one-half length lead. The time was six minutes twenty seconds.

MORTON BOXERS WIN.

HOLD J. O. Y. MAT FINALS TONIGHT; 48 TO COMPETE

The finals of the Jewish Organized Youth's first annual amateur wrestling tournament will be held tonight at the Jewish People's institute, 3500 Douglas boulevard, in grammar school, intermediate and senior divisions. Eight champions will be determined in each class.

The field of 200 has been reduced to 16 in each of the three divisions. Ten clubs remain in the running for the Julius Brody team trophy, with the American Boys' commonwealth and the Deborah Boys' clubs in the lead.

Jerry Gordon, Jewish People's institute representative, will meet Dan Schuster of the Deborah club in a senior division bout.

ST. SABINA'S WINS PRELIMINARIES IN C. Y. O. SWIMMING

St. Sabina scored 97 points to win the south section preliminaries of the annual C. Y. O. swimming meet as qualifying tests for south side competitors were held at Mount Carmel High school pool last night. All Saints of Roseland was second with 46 points. St. Leo, with 28 points, finished third, St. Bride was fourth with 26, and St. George (Lithuanian) scored 18 points to take fifth place.

Two nonofficial records in the senior division were set last night as Nattinger, St. Sabina, swam the 100 yard back stroke in 1:16.9.

With the last of the sectional preliminaries out of the way, attention is now centered on the league finals, to be held at the Lake Shore Athletic club Tuesday night. St. Francis Xavier of Wilmette, Ascension of Oak Park, St. Ignatius, Our Lady of Angels, and St. Sabina will have the largest representations in the finals. St. Francis Xavier is defending title-holder.

NORTH CENTRAL GROUP EXPELS DETROIT, XAVIER

Athletic Conditions Bring Action.

the next season would not, of course, be expected to break those contracts," Dr. Works explained. "It would be too late now for either Detroit or its opponents to arrange new schedules for next season. However, member institutions would be expected not to meet Detroit or Xavier after the expiration of existing contracts."

In cases where contracts for athletic contests with the two expelled universities extend over a period of several years the members of the association would be expected to make a readjustment and not carry on relations after a reasonable period.

Coached by Dorais.

Charles E. (Gus) Dorais, quarter back on the Notre Dame football team during Knute Rockne's days as a player, is athletic director and football coach at Detroit. Under his direction athletics have had a great development and Detroit in recent years has been recognized as one of the leaders in central western sports. It includes among its opponents in football Marquette, Duquesne, Washington State, Michigan State, Oklahoma A. and M., Washington and Jefferson, and Western State Normal.

Five other schools expelled, though not for athletic reasons, are Rochester Junior college, McKendree college, Ashland college, Regis college of Denver, and College of the Ozarks. Their athletic relationships, however, will be affected in the same manner as those of Detroit.

SINCLAIR H-C GASOLINE
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

ONE GALLON could hoist the Sphinx 3⅓ feet

99 Million Foot-Pounds* Per Gallon

Have you ever seen the Sphinx, that great mystery of Egypt — half woman, half beast — built of solid rock, in the desert of Gizeh? This ancient monument is estimated to weigh 14,630 tons. And yet, if all the potential energy in the powerful new H-C could be fully utilized* a single gallon could hoist the Sphinx 3⅓ feet in the air!

The new H-C awaits you at the nearest Sinclair dealer's. Its tremendous power will give your car new life, new energy, new smoothness and a surprising number of miles to the gallon. The new H-C sells at the price of regular gasoline. Try it for 30 days.

Ask the Sinclair dealer for a folder which fully explains how one gallon of the new H-C could hoist the Sphinx 3⅓ feet.

*Foot-Pound: The amount of work required to lift one pound one foot. Due to friction and other losses no machine yet built can convert into useful work all the potential energy in any gasoline. Friction alone steals millions of foot-pounds of work from every gallon of gasoline you buy. To keep friction loss in your engine at a minimum be sure to use either Sinclair Opaline or Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oil.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 20.—Prices of domestic corporation bonds were again higher on the stock exchange today in active trading, and leading foreign loans were irregularly higher. United States government bonds, however, pursued their decline, selling off 1-32d to 13-32d points, with the exception of the uncalled Fourth Liberty 4¼s, which held unchanged. Total dealings in the listed market reached $18,344,000, against $15,936,000 on the preceding day.

By climbing fractionally to more than 3 points, the averages of railroad, industrial and utility bonds all moved up to new highs for the year thus far.

Idle Funds Seek Employment.

Aside from a slight inflationary twinge, due to a rather sharp decline of international dollar rates, the market apparently was motivated principally by the pressure of idle funds seeking employment. The rails resumed their leadership of corporation group. The more active gainers here included some liens of Alleghany Corporation, Central of Georgia, St. Paul, Chicago and North Western, Denver and Rio Grande, Erie, "Soo" Line, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, New Haven, Frisco, Southern Pacific, Wabash, and Western Pacific.

Several Issues Are Strong.

Among the strongest utilities and industrials were loans of Western Union, Warren Bros., U. S. Rubber, Utilities Power and Light, Warner Bros. Pictures, Richfield Oil, Portland General Electric, Philadelphia Reading Coal and Iron, National Dairy, McKesson, Laclede Gas, International Telephone, International Paper, International Hydro-Electric, Houston Oil, Goodrich, Gannett Co., Anglo-Chilean Nitrate, American Water Works, American I. G. Chemical, and American and Foreign Power.

Foreign loans showed a fair degree of activity. Issues of the German group closed irregularly lower but the French government and municipal, United Kingdom, and various Austrian loans gained ground. A feature of the Latin-American group was the unusual activity in Chilean bonds, most of which were up fractionally to more than a point on the day.

HOLC BONDS.

Bonds of the Home Owners corporation were quoted yesterday at 100⅛ bid, 100¼ asked.

Packard Motor Car.

Investors' Guide: Please favor me with an analysis of Packard Motors.—H. S. D.

Answer: Packard Motor Car company is one of the pioneers of the automobile industry. It has always been a prominent producer of higher priced cars. Last month Alvan Macauley, president, said that the management is experimenting with a lower priced automobile which will go into production when plans are completed. The company also manufactures aviation and marine motors, of Diesel and internal combustion types.

Curtailment of automobile purchases by the general public cut heavily into Packard's earnings during 1930, 1931, and 1932. Such purchases as were made were for the most part low priced cars. With rising prices and freer spending on the part of the public during 1933, the company experienced increasing sales with a consequent reflection in profits. The four year record of earnings follows:

	Net sales.	Net income.	Inc. per share.
1933	$19,230,000	$ 107,000	$0.01
1932	15,516,000	*6,824,000	*.45
1931	29,987,000	*2,909,000	*.19
1930	57,690,000	9,034,000	.60

*Net loss.

Comparison of 1933 and 1931 results indicates that operations are currently on a much more efficient basis. Earnings in 1934 will probably be affected by higher material and labor costs due to national recovery act legislation.

A conservative policy in regard to dividend payments has enabled the company to maintain a strong current position. On Dec. 31, 1933, cash assets alone were about 6½ times current liabilities.

Capitalization consists solely of 15,000,000 shares of no par stock on which nothing has been paid since Dec. 12, 1931. The stock is speculative.

Riley-Schubert-Grossman.

Investors' Guide: After my father's death I went through his papers and found shares of Riley-Schubert-Grossman company. Will you please tell me if they are worth anything?—T. J. W.

Answer: Riley-Schubert-Grossman company was adjudged bankrupt on July 16, 1918. At the time indebtedness was $55,000. Assets consisted of $10,000 cash, $6,000 merchandise and $1,000 of miscellaneous receivables. In addition the company had a part interest in an unfinished building subject to $300,000 of encumbrances. The receiver estimated that the company's equity in the property at best was not worth more than $25,000.

"It is apparent from the above information," said the receiver in a letter to us dated July 31, 1918, "that stockholders, common or preferred, can obtain nothing on their investments."

WORK ON PLANS TO REORGANIZE MIDLAND UNITED

Chicago Utilities Ask Aid of Bank Creditors.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Efforts to reorganize the affairs of the Midland United company's group of utility properties are being made by the big Chicago utility companies which hold the controling interest in the system, it was learned yesterday. Although no definite plan has been settled on yet, overtures have been made to the bank creditors by the companies for straightening out of the system's affairs.

The Midland United company controls a string of gas, electric, and traction properties in Indiana and Ohio. It is a segment of the old Insull system and is still nominally controled by the Commonwealth Edison company, Peoples Gas, Light, and Coke company, Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, and the Middle West Utilities company.

Pledged Principal Assets.

Under the former management the company pledged its principal assets to get money for expansion and refinancing. The bulk of these assets is held by the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company. The bank has made no move toward reducing these assets to possession, although the loans they secure have running for some years. At the close of 1932 the company reported notes payable of nearly $13,000,000.

The financial strength of the Chicago companies controling the properties has enabled the system to pull through the last few years and escape the fate which overtook Middle West Utilities, the biggest of the Insull holding companies. At various times the big Chicago firms have furnished financial assistance to the company.

One Plan Rejected by Bank.

One overture made by the management which contemplated the return of the collateral held by the Continental bank has been rejected by the bank, it is reported. Conferences are still going on, however, and some program which will provide for the company financing problem is believed near. Refinancing faced by underlying properties make necessary some reorganization.

Among the properties controled by Midland are the Public Service Company of Indiana, Northern Indiana Public Service company, and Gary Electric and Gas company. Included in the group are several Indiana traction properties. The electric systems of the subsidiary companies are interconnected with the systems of Commonwealth Edison and Public Service of Northern Illinois.

Among those active in the reorganization negotiations are James Simpson, chairman of the parent companies; Walter J. Cummings, and A. J. Stilwell, respectively chairman and vice president of the Continental bank, and John N. Shannahan, president of Midland.

POTATOES HIT SEASON'S LOW; JUNE BUTTER RISES

Egg futures closed unchanged to 8 cents lower on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. June butter moved up ⅜ cent. May potatoes dropped 5 cents to a new low for the season.

Egg news was construed as slightly favorable. Receipts were about on a par with last year and the movement into storage 9,600 cases less than last year. Hedging operations continued rather active.

Little interest developed in butter. The four market surplus was reduced 167,000 pounds. Buyers and sellers alike held back, however. About the only support to be found in potatoes was short covering. Sales: Butter, 1 car; eggs, 54 cars; potatoes, 4 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 11 cars. Prices:

COTTON GAINS ON SHORT COVERING; PLANTING SLOW

Scattered liquidation exerted pressure in cotton early yesterday despite unfavorable comments from Texas regarding progress made in planting, but short covering developed late in the day in sympathy with the unexpected upturn in sterling and the close was about the top.

Net gains on futures in Chicago were 2 to 6 cents, and other markets were unchanged to 4 cents per bale higher. Spot cotton advanced 5 cents to 11.80 cents per pound at New York, New Orleans, and Galveston, while Houston was 11.75 cents. Prices:

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable. Was quiet, with the trade apparently inclined to hold aloof pending developments on the disposition of the tax bill at Washington and silver legislation. Prices were generally steady and closed 2 to 3 points net higher influenced by the steadiness of most other commodities and the advance in stocks. Sales were only 10 contracts, including 6 exchanges. Bleachable not nominal; May closed 5.20c; July, 5.42c; September, 5.64c; October, 5.72c.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP)—Cotton goods continued quiet today. Sales of print cloth numbers reached a little over a million pieces to converters on a basis of 6¾ cents for 38½ inch 64x60s. Unbranded sheets and pillow cases were quoted at 24@27½ per cent off the list with trade light. Rayon yarns were quiet and the trade awaited a decision on compensatory taxes and wage advances. Wool goods continued quiet. Wool goods code committee considered plans for lifting wages paid in cotton mills making merino yarns. Burlaps were steady and quiet in spot markets, silk goods sales were checked by dress strike.

DIRECT RESERVE LOANS GET O. K. OF ROOSEVELT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—President Roosevelt today gave his approval to a bill to enable the federal reserve banks to make direct loans to any "established industrial or commercial business." The measure, which is the joint product of Senator Glass and Gov. Black of the federal reserve board, appears to be the result of compromise between various ideas which have been advanced during the last few months with the common purpose of making credit available for the smaller businesses of the country.

While the text of the bill, in the draft form approved this morning at a conference between President Roosevelt, Senator Glass and Gov. Black, makes no limitation as to the size of business ventures to which advances may be made, Gov. Black explained that its prime purpose was to aid small concerns. Large corporations can receive adequate financial aid through ordinary banking channels, in the opinion of the bill's authors.

Substitute for Jones' Plan.

The measure agreed upon is regarded as a substitute for the suggestion advanced by Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, that the RFC be authorized to finance small industries and another proposal first sponsored by Gov. Black to create twelve intermediate credit banks, capitalized at $142,000,000, for the same purpose.

The Glass-Black bill authorizes federal reserve banks to lend money to or purchase obligations of businesses, located in their respective districts, which are "unable to obtain requisite financial assistance on a reasonable basis from the usual sources." Such loans may be made for a term not to exceed five years, and may be made for the purpose of providing working capital to sound concerns.

Technically, the bill amends the federal reserve act in order to broaden the powers of federal reserve banks.

The banks may also, under its terms, discount or purchase commercial obligations, maturing within five years, from banking organizations in their districts, provided the banking organization agrees to make good to the federal reserve bank at least 20 per cent of any loss accruing.

May Advance Guaranty.

The banking organization may avoid this stop-loss guaranty by advancing, out of its own funds, 20 per cent of the capital funds required by the business in question.

One result of today's conference was the elimination from the bill of the emergency clause previously contained in it, thus making the proposed measure a permanent part of the federal reserve setup.

An industrial advisory committee made up of three to five members actively engaged in industry, to serve without pay, is created to pass on loan applications before they reach the federal reserve bank. Another section of the bill looks to the release of reserve bank funds to carry out the commercial banking envisaged. A fund of about $300,000,000 would be set up in the reserve system for the loans, half from the treasury and the remainder from the reserve banks' surplus. Each bank, in addition, would have authority to borrow up to six times its surplus.

EASTERN UTILITY RESTORES HALF OF CUT IN PAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 20.—George B. Cortelyou, president of the Consolidated Gas company, announced today the restoration of half the pay cut of its employés which resulted from a reduction of working hours as of May 1, 1933.

The restoration, effective on April 30, applies to all employés of the Consolidated and its affiliated gas and electric and steam companies except those in supervisory and managerial positions receiving more than $7,500 a year. This will add approximately $3,500,000 a year to the pay rolls of the companies, it was announced.

RECORD PROFIT MADE LAST YEAR BY ROLLS-ROYCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, April 20.—"The record profit made last year was a fitting reward for overcoming the difficulties encountered during the long commercial depression, which I hope now is left behind," declared Lord Wargrave at the annual meeting of Rolls-Royce, Ltd., at Derby today.

Profits for the year amounted to $1,083,625, an increase of $328,735 compared with the previous year. With an interim dividend already distributed, the dividend for the year would be 15 per cent plus a bonus of 2 per cent, both subject to income tax.

New Economy Is Dictatorship Says Heilman

RALPH E. HEILMAN

Economic planning which seeks a centralized control of all the nation's resources means the establishment of an economic dictatorship, Ralph E. Heilman, dean of the school of commerce, Northwestern university, said in an address last night at the annual dinner of the Northwestern Associates at the Chicago club.

"Thorough economic planning on a compulsory basis means a centralized governmental agency must be authorized to instruct business men what, when and how much they can produce," he said. "Stripped to essentials, this involves a greater surrender of individual rights than we would be willing to make unless we wish to abandon entirely our existing economic and governmental system."

Business Leaders Attend.

More than 200 of Chicago's leaders in business and industry attended the dinner, held in observance of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of Northwestern commerce school.

Dean Heilman, who has headed the school since 1919, discussed "Is Economic Planning Workable?" He said he did not refer primarily to various legislative measures recently enacted in Washington. These, he said, do not constitute economic planning in the true sense, but are emergency measures.

He told the assemblage the thesis underlying this school of thought is that capitalism, as now organized, means "planless production," and that by adoption of economic planning it is proposed to balance consumption with production, selling price with costs, demand for labor with supply, with depression a thing of the past.

Trend Toward Federal Rule.

He said that hopes for a return to complete laissez-faire are vain and that the growing interdependence and complexity of society require enlarged supervision in many respects. The inevitable tendency is toward an enlargement of governmental control, he said.

"Economic planning is impossible in a business system which rests in a large degree on property and contract rights, and freedom of enterprise and initiative," he declared. "It is incompatible with democratic government, for under our political system great voting power is exercised by sectional groups which use this influence to attain desired ends.

"Our public officials must make an accounting to the electorate each two or four years. We make changes frequently and newly elected administrators or legislators cannot be expected to carry out policies of their predecessors, since the platform on which they are elected is usually in opposition to those policies.

Managed by Vote Getters.

"Economic planning is intriguing in idea, but its execution is the real significance. It means complete management, which in turn means management by representatives of government—those who are expert in influencing votes or popular support."

In rejecting this program for the future, Dean Heilman said it is not necessary to accept permanently all existing economic arrangements which contain numerous defects. The war on economic insecurity should be fought not by one agency but by the collective economic intelligence of the nation, he declared.

Among constructive steps which he urged were the establishment of a national council with advisory powers only, long range planning of public works, more effective control of credit, better balance between agriculture and industry, and further development of self-government in industry.

Mark W. Cresap, chairman of Hart, Schaffner & Marx, reviewed events leading up to the establishment of the school of commerce and thanked the business men present for their efforts in supporting it.

MOTOR FREIGHT GROUP APPROVES U. S. REGULATION

A united stand for federal regulation of highway transportation was taken yesterday at a meeting in the Palmer house of the National Highway Freight association.

The organization, formed four months ago, also launched plans for a membership drive which it is hoped will increase the present roster of 200 member firms to 1,000. Approximately 50 members from several states in the middle west area attended the session.

According to J. L. Keeshin, president of the Keeshin Motor Express company, Chicago, and head of the association, the organization desires federal regulation of the industry with rates based on costs of operation and capital invested, and an arrangement providing through bills of lading for truck-rail shipments. While it is not desired to bring the industry under the interstate commerce commission, some similar setup is hoped for, he asserted.

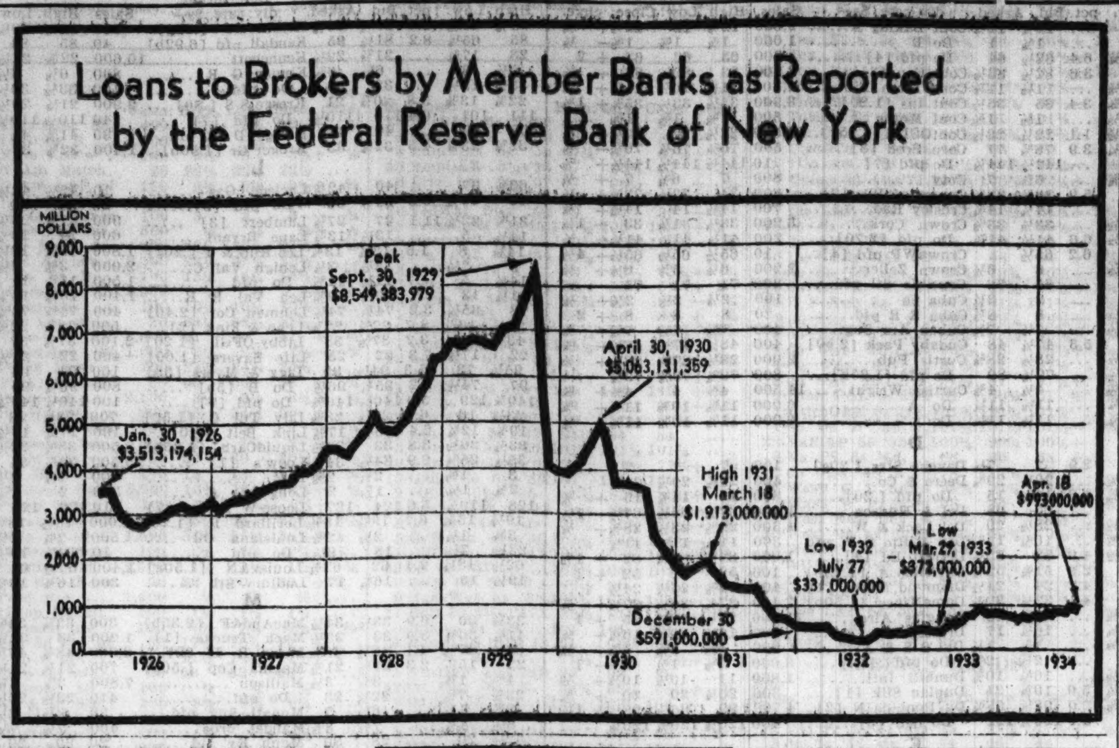
Loans to Brokers by Member Banks as Reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York



Field Stores Doing Better Than Year Ago

With net sales about 43 per cent above those of the year before, the net loss incurred by Marshall Field & Co. and subsidiaries in the first quarter of 1934 was about 63 per cent less than that of the corresponding quarter of 1933, according to the quarterly report to stockholders. Net sales for the quarter ended March 31, 1934, amounted to $22,058,300, or 42.9 per cent in excess of the total of $15,433,200 in the parallel period of last year. The net loss for the first quarter of this year was $762,000, compared with $2,073,500.

JOHN McKINLAY.

"Our pleasure at this year's improvement is tempered by the fact that we are making comparison with about the worst part of the depression and because we still showed a loss," comments John McKinlay, president, in the report. "But as sometimes even in the good days we failed to show profits in the first quarter we are not greatly surprised there aren't any now.

Predicts Continued Improvement.

"We are reasonably confident of a continued improvement, notwithstanding the increased costs of doing business, which are primarily in wages and taxes."

For the twelve months comprising the second, third, and fourth quarters of 1933 and the first quarter of 1934, net sales aggregated $95,083,100, surpassing by 27.9 per cent the total of $74,330,800 in the corresponding period ended March 31, 1933.

In each of the last four quarters net sales held a substantial margin over those of the like period of the preceding year. In the second quarter of 1933 net sales were $20,561,300, or 10.3 per cent over the total of $18,646,000 in the second quarter of 1932; in the third quarter $24,745,600, or 51.3 per cent over the total of $16,357,700; in the fourth quarter $27,717,900, or 16 per cent over the total of $23,893,900.

Four Quarters Comparatively Better.

The net results for the last four quarterly periods were also better than for the preceding year; either profits were greater or losses less. For the second, third, and fourth quarters of 1933 and the first quarter of 1934 net profit amounted to $1,409,100, in comparison with a net loss of $7,766,600 in the year before.

The net loss for the second quarter of 1933 was $301,900, compared with a loss of $4,107,000 in the like period of 1932; for the third quarter there was a profit of $955,000, compared with a net loss of $1,709,800; and in the fourth quarter net profit was $1,518,000, against a profit of $123,700.

Annalist Business Index Shows Gain During March

The Analyst index of business activity shows a slight gain for March, the preliminary figure being 78.5, compared with 77.0 for February and 69.7 for last December.

FACTORY AUTO SALES IN MARCH ARE NEARLY TRIPLE A YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., April 20.—(AP)—March factory sales of automobiles manufactured in the United States reached 335,993, compared with 235,384 in the preceding month, 118,002 in March, 1933, and 118,959 in March, 1932.

The bureau of the census said the figures showed that of the total for last month 278,135 were passenger cars, 57,842 trucks, and 16 taxicabs.

The total number of vehicles sold for the first three months of this year reached 732,463, as compared with 354,997 for the corresponding period of last year. Last year's total sales were 1,959,945, as compared with 1,370,678 for all of 1932.

PEORIA LIFE CO. GOES TO NEW MUTUAL FIRM

Peoria, Ill., Apirl 20.—[Special.]—The Peoria Mutual Life Insurance company now has unfettered hands to take over the assets and property of the old Peoria Life Insurance company, as the result of the action today of the Supreme court of Illinois in denying the petition of Ernest Palmer, state director of insurance, for leave to file a writ of prohibition preventing the enforcement of the decree of Circuit Judge John Niehaus handed down Monday.

The effect of the Supreme court decision is a victory for the group headed by local business men and G. Hall Roosevelt, Cleveland, O., brother-in-law of President Roosevelt. The decision comes after a long and heated legal entanglement with the state insurance director who has insisted that the property and assets of the old Peoria Life, now in technical receivership, be sold to an outside company.

Under the plan of the newly organized Peoria Mutual Life company, the business of the old company will be rehabilitated. As soon as a bond is filed with the insurance director the mutual company will begin underwriting new business and transacting company affairs tied up during the many weeks of litigation.

HOME OWNERS ASK $4,000,000,000, APPRAISERS TOLD

One million 200 thousand applications from distressed home owners with an aggregate indebtedness of $4,000,000,000 have been received by the Home Owners Loan corporation, Walter Newton, a director of the HOLC board told the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers of the National Association of Real Estate board, at a dinner at the Union League club last night.

"There have been actually closed and paid out one-sixth of the applications, or about 200,000 loans, aggregating $500,000,000," he continued. "The average amount of the loans was $2,900. We are now closing loans at the rate of about $40,000,000 to $45,000,0000 per week."

Henry G. Zander Jr., Illinois state manager for the HOLC, at the closing session of the conference of HOLC officials from several midwestern states held at the Union League club yesterday, predicted a speed up of loan making in this state to 2,500 in May, with a peak of 4,000 in June.

Spring Retail Buying Gains 15% to 40% Over Last Year

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 20.—Merchants generally are taking the most cheerful attitude regarding the future that has been in evidence in three or four years, Dun & Bradstreet report in their current review of trade and business.

"With real spring temperatures yet to appear," reads the review, "it now seems certain that the peak of the season's buying will not be reached until the latter part of May, with much of it to be carried over into June. That the unprecedented pre-Easter buying splurge was more than a flash is attested by the expansive extent to which sales have held during the last three weeks, with totals rising 15 to 40 per cent above last year's, the widest gains being recorded in the southwestern, south Atlantic, middle western and Pacific coast states.

Further Gain in Employment.

"The current increase in activity is substantiated by further gains in employment, while supporting statistics are present in bank clearings, postal receipts, payment of delinquent taxes and earnings statements. The improvement revealed by the latter is surpassing all earlier estimates.

"Prospects for the second quarter are being enhanced by the pronounced trend toward moderation in the administration of the government's program for the regulation of business, continued support to agricultural sections, the upbuilding of consumer purchasing power by wage advances, the probable stability of prices at current levels and the long awaited start of work on the public works administration program.

Industrial Activity Spurts.

"In industrial divisions, rates of operations are reported so frequently as double those of the preceding year that extension for comparison is being carried back to 1928, and for employment, in some centers, the averages of 1923-1925 are being taken as a basis of calculation. As a whole, industrial employment now is at the peak since the final month of 1930.

"Retail sales in nearly all lines are reported the best for any spring season in three years, with gains averaging from 20 to 40 per cent over the totals of last April.

"The wholesale markets became more active this week with orders for summer goods taking precedence over the fill-in requirements of spring merchandise, and fall needs beginning to press for attention. Summer buying budgets have been set ahead 20 to 30 per cent from those of a year ago."

Chicago Leads Fight Against Stock Control

How Chicago and other interior cities have led the fight against the Fletcher-Rayburn stock exchange control bill while Wall street feared to act lest it be accused of lobbying is the story told in La Salle street.

R. ARTHUR WOOD.

The fight waged against the bill, which seems likely to modify its most drastic features, has centered in Chicago. The Chicago Stock exchange has taken no part in the campaign officially, but several of its prominent members have been active.

R. Arthur Wood, former president of the Chicago exchange and one of the most vehement critics of the measure, has been busy for weeks organizing protests against the proposed bill here and in other cities. If the bill is defeated in its most drastic form, Wood will be more responsible for its failure than any other individual, his friends declare.

Develop Flood of Protest.

Industrial firms, brokers and their employés, business men and investors whose welfare is affected by the proposed law have been urged to protest to their congressmen. The result has been that a flood of telegrams and letters assailing the law has descended on Washington.

Chicago opponents of the measure have divided the country into sections and aided in the formation of groups in various strategic centers to fight the measure by the ballot box and protest method. Each community has financed its own expenses, although Wood and others are said to have spent considerable of their money as well as their time in forwarding the movement.

Will Fight to End.

The fight will continue until the bill is disposed of, Chicago brokers declare. Security dealers believe that if the measure is adopted in its most drastic form it will sound the death knell of their business and they are willing to fight it to the last ditch.

The tremendous popular response to the protests against the stringent provisions of the Fletcher-Rayburn bill as originally drafted has surprised even the Chicagoans who assumed leadership in the movement. Thousands of stockholders all over the country have hastened to lend their support, fearful lest congressional interference destroy the liquidity of stocks and impair free markets.

J. R. THOMPSON CO. LOWERS COMMON STOCK DIVIDEND

Common stock dividends of the John R. Thompson company were halved yesterday when directors at an adjourned meeting voted a quarterly payment of 12½ cents a share, payable May 14 to stockholders of record May 5. The rate has been $1 a share since 1931.

According to John R. Thompson Jr., president, yesterday's declaration will be paid from surplus. Gross sales for the first quarter totaled $2,627,215, he said, compared with sales of $2,543,005 in the same quarter last year. This resulted in a loss for the period of $114,240, against $227,547.

Action on the dividend was scheduled for March 19, but was delayed until first quarter results were known. In January a payment of 25 cents was made, also from surplus.

Plans Bill to Base Money on Home and Farm Bonds

Washington, D. C., April 20.—(AP)—A bill to make bonds of the Home Owners' Loan corporation and farm loan bonds legal security for the issuance of federal reserve and national bank currency was prepared for introduction today by Representative Ellenbogan [Dem., Pa.].

Crude Oil Stocks Decline 44,000 Barrels in Week

Washington, D. C., April 20.—(AP)—Stocks of domestic and foreign crude at the close of the week ended April 14 were announced by the interior department today to have totaled 341,922,000 barrels, a decrease of 44,000 below the stock on hand at the end of the previous week.

Montgomery Ward Plans New Sioux City Building

Plans for a new store building in Sioux City, Ia., were announced yesterday by Montgomery Ward & Co. Construction of the store at a cost of $100,000 will start next month.

FREIGHT TOTAL SHOWS 1ST GAIN SINCE MARCH 17

Miscellaneous Class Rises Most.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 20.—Freight loadings in the week ended April 14 were 578,837 cars, an increase of 3.7 per cent compared with the preceding week and a rise of 17 per cent compared with the corresponding week last year, the American Railway association announced today. The week's gain was the first since mid-March.

Miscellaneous freight, regarded as an index of public buying, totaled 238,534 cars, an increase of 10,161 above the preceding week, 53,420 above 1933, and 33,308 above 1932.

Coal loadings, which fell sharply in the preceding week, totaled 96,349 cars, an increase of 7,409 above the preceding period, 15,800 above 1933, and 1,993 above 1932.

All Districts Gain Over 1933.

The association said all districts reported increases during the week compared with the corresponding week in 1933 and that all except the eastern, Allegheny, and central western loadings showed increases over 1932. Total loadings from Jan. 1 through April 14 were 8,682,372 cars as compared with 7,239,538 in 1933 and 8,448,239 in 1932.

Less than carlot merchandise was 165,707 cars, 1,333 less than the preceding week, but 4,918 above 1933. The total was, however, a drop of 21,238 as compared with 1932.

Grain and grain products totaled 27,216 cars, an increase of 1,299 above the preceding week, but 6,753 below 1933 and 4,638 below 1932. In the western district grain and grain products loaded totaled 17,350, a decrease of 4,501 below 1933.

Other Classes Gain.

Forest products totaled 24,364 cars, an increase of 814 above the preceding week, 7,404 above 1933, and 4,350 above 1932; ore amounted to 6,356 cars, an increase of 1,267 above the preceding week, 3,814 above 1933, and 2,035 above 1932. Coke amounted to 5,391, a decrease of 546 below the preceding week, but an increase of 2,182 above 1933 and 1,326 above 1932.

Live Stock totaled 14,920 cars, an increase of 1,879 above the preceding week, but a decrease of 220 below 1933 and 5,225 below 1932. In the western districts live stock totaled 11,754 cars, a drop of 104 below 1933.

BOND EXCHANGE OFFERED BY U. S. TOPS A BILLION

Washington, D. C., April 20.—Subscriptions amounting to $1,040,441,300 were received for the 3¼ per cent treasury bond offering of 1944-1946, Secretary Morgenthau announced today. All of the subscriptions were allotted in full.

"Of this total," said Morgenthau, "$815,115,500 represents subscriptions in payment for which Fourth Liberty bonds called for redemption April 15 were tendered and $234,325,000 represents subscriptions in payment for which treasury notes maturing May 2 were tendered."

Subscription books on the new issue of bonds were closed April 12. The federal reserve banks hold a few subscriptions not included in the total announced because the bonds to be exchanged have not yet been cleared. These cases will slightly increase the final allotment.

Asserts Local Utilities Paid High for Coal

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—The Chicago Utility companies in recent years have purchased coal from the Peabody Coal company at prices in excess of market quotations and the higher cost has been reflected in the rates charged customers, the federal trade commission was told today by John H. Bass, Chicago examiner for the commission.

H. R. BOOTH.

The contract under which the coal purchases were made was negotiated in 1928 by Samuel Insull, who is now being brought back to this country to face criminal prosecution, Bass also said. The Peabody concern, he testified, was dominated by Insull and under the 1928 contract control was vested in a board composed of Insull, Stuyvesant Peabody, president of the company, and John F. Gilchrist, vice president of the Commonwealth Edison company.

Controled Majority of Stock.

This three man board controled 1,319,219 of the company's 2,140,918 outstanding shares of stock, Bass asserted.

The Peabody company also has a contract with the Middle West Utilities company, as well as Commonwealth Edison and the other Chicago firms, Bass said. The Middle West contract was canceled in 1932 when the company was placed in receivership, he said, but the company continued to buy Peabody coal.

"In comparing prices paid by the utilities for coal from Peabody in 1930, 1931, and 1932 with prevailing market prices," Bass told the commission, "it is a safe conclusion that Peabody Coal company received a higher realization than it did on coal sold commercially in the open market. Undoubtedly coal rates reflect in consumers rates on electric energy."

OFFICIALS EXPLAIN CONTRACT.

The contract under which the Chicago utility companies purchased coal from the Peabody Coal company were explained by officials of the company here yesterday. In 1928, it was stated, the company controled by the former Insull group was consolidated with the Peabody properties. The new company contracted to supply coal to the utilities on a cost plus basis for 30 years.

In 1931 and 1930, officials explained, under the terms of the contract the companies paid more than the open market prices, which were then less than the cost of production. The situation has since been reversed and the companies are now able to buy at less than the minimum fixed by the NRA code, it was said. The Peabody concern has been selling coal to the Edison company on a cost plus basis since 1912, it was stated.

At the same time it was disclosed by H. R. Booth, attorney for the Illinois commerce commission, that the commission has been investigating the coal contracts of the Chicago companies for the last several months.

"New contracts are now being prepared which will be submitted to the commission for final approval within the next few weeks," he said.

CONTINENTAL CAN REPORTS BIG RISE IN YEAR'S PROFITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 20.—Earnings of the Continental Can company showed a large increase for the year ended March 31, net income totaling $7,942,941, against $4,927,944 in the previous twelve months. Earnings per share were equal to $4.53 on 1,754,124 common shares, compared with $2.84 a share on 1,733,345 shares in the preceding year.

The company has perfected a valve vent can for use in a new method of canning natural American cheddar cheese recently developed in coöperation with the United States department of agriculture, it was announced by O. C. Huffman, president of the company.

The valve permits the escape of the carbon dioxide gas resulting from the maturing of the cheese, but keeps out the air. Mr. Huffman said that the new method curtailed labor costs and eliminated the invariable 5 per cent shrinkage under the old method.

Senate Group Sends Stock Control Measure to Floor

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—Divergent views on the administration of the proposed stock exchange control law and the important question of margin requirements were supported today as the senate banking and currency committee's bill was ordered reported to the senate, and the house interstate commerce committee approved outstanding features of its program.

The senate bill, ordered favorably reported by a vote of 11 to 8, carried the Glass amendments creating the federal securities exchange commission of five members, and vesting authority in this body and the federal reserve board to raise or lower margins as they believe necessary.

House Favors Trade Commission.

The house bill, on which the Rayburn committee continued work, retained the federal trade commission as the administrative agency, and laid down a margin requirement of 45 per cent of the current market price of the security, or 100 per cent of the lowest market price for the preceding three years, but not more than 75 per cent of the current price.

The vote on a favorable report for the senate bill was along the lines which have manifested themselves during previous differences in the committee. Nine Democrats and two Republicans supported the measure; two Democrats and six Republicans opposed it.

Senator Fletcher expects to introduce the banking and currency committee bill early next week with an accompanying report, while Rayburn proposes if possible to complete the house bill in committee tomorrow and introduce it with a report Monday or Tuesday.

Speedy Consideration.

Heartily supported by President Roosevelt, the bill will be quickly brought up in both houses, perhaps ahead of the tarif measure. Culmination of a two year study and investigating of the bill, according to experts, contains the "teeth" the President desires even though it has been liberalized in several particulars.

Although the margin requirement of the house bill has been approved by the committee, it appeared possible tonight that efforts might be made to strike it out altogether, thus leaving discretion on margins to the regulatory body.

DOLLAR FALLS UNDER NEW PAR FOR FIRST TIME

Franc and Pound Gain Sharply.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Under a barrage of selling orders from all over the world, the American dollar yesterday fell below its new par for the first time since its official devaluation last Jan. 31.

In terms of French gold francs the dollar closed at 99.49 cents [new par], compared with $1.0009 on Thursday. All day long the dollar was bobbing around in a rough sea. At the opening of the trading in foreign exchange in London it started nearly half a cent weaker than Thursday's close and declined still further before the close of the London market. The British pound opened in London at $5.14½, compared with a final rate of $5.13⅞ on Thursday, and then rose to a closing quotation of $5.15¼.

Weakens in New York.

Weakness was still evident in the later trading in New York after the European markets had closed. During the day the dollar rallied to 99.83 cents [in terms of its new par] but sold off again at the close to end up at 99.49, more than half a cent below its new par.

French francs were pushed up 2½ points to 6.65¼ cents at their top in the morning trading in New York and later advanced further to 6.66¾ cents, only a few points from the technical gold export point. The franc reached its highest point since Nov. 16, 1933. Sterling in New York rose 2½ cents to a top of $5.17¼ and later rose still further to close at $5.17¾. Canadian dollars reached a new high point for the year, closing at a premium of ⅝ of a cent, up ¼ cent on the day.

Bids for foreign currencies were lively, but rates changed so rapidly that dealers reported its difficult to make trades. The market was in confusion at the height of the rush.

Early in the day it appeared that most of the selling of dollars originated in Paris because the franc was especially strong against the dollar while the pound was up only about a cent. Later, however, the pound also showed much strength against the dollar and the net change of 3 cents for the day in the pound indicated that dollar selling emanated from London also.

Blame U. S. Conditions.

The dollar's dip below par was attributed by some dealers to conditions in this country. The big drop in grain prices this week and the circulation on the European continent of reports that the dollar would be depreciated below its present level by another official boost in the price of gold by the United States terasury were fuel for the European raid on United States currency.

Bankers in this country, however, did not believe that another change in the gold rate was imminent. Whether the rumors being circulated in Europe were inspired by bear raiders or whether Europeans had a tip denied American financiers they were unable to say. They suspected the former explanation.

Report Flight from Taxes.

There were also occasional reports of another flight from the dollar, encouraged it was pointed out, not merely by doubts of the safety of the present parity of the dollar, but also by the prospects of increased taxation here, including heavy inheritance taxes.

Foreign gold currencies other than the French gold franc were also exceptionally strong yesterday. Both Dutch guilders and Belgian belgas gained sufficiently to run to a slight premium over their new parity with the American dollar.

Bar gold in the London market declined half a penny to an equivalent of $34.78 a fine ounce, at which price approximately $2,786,400 was purchased. It was reported that the fall in the dollar today caused cancelation of engagements for gold shipments to this country which had not left Europe.

SECURITIES ACT PENALTIES HELD TOO DRASTIC

Assailing the federal securites act as an obstacle to national recovery, directors of the Illinois Manufacturern association yesterday publicly urged that the law be modified to hasten the reëmployment of 8,000,000 persons in the durable goods industries.

The criminal penalties set up by the act were the particular target of the association's criticisms. All such penalties should be removed except for willful, deliberate and intentional fraud, the association declared.

Under the present provisions, it was asserted, companies manufacturing heavy goods are unable to sell bonds. A large part of the private capital which formerly went into the durable goods industry is now being diverted in other channels, such as state and federal and similar agencies.

STOCKS MOVE UP AS TRADERS SEE INFLATION SIGNS

Aviation Issues Advance on Air Mail Bids.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, April 20.—The signs were with the bull side of the stock trading fraternity today and enough buying enthusiasm developed to boost most departments of the market to moderately higher levels. Preferred shares once more took the lion's share of profits but the rails, metals, rubbers and a variety of specialties were prominent, especially in the late trading. Aviation issues preëmpted the limelight for a while in the afternoon as the new airmail bids were being reported. Some of them performed quite impressively, Wright for example rising five points.

The turnover at 1,911,000 was the heaviest in nearly two months. Sentiment for the rise was stimulated to some degree by a resurgence of inflationary ideas based on the decline in the dollar and a belief that the weakness in commodities this week would strengthen forces in congress working for inflation through silver legislation, repayment of closed bank deposits and the like.

Trade News Favors Bulls.

Trade news continued in favor of the bull viewpoint and the omission of the margin requirements in the revised stock control bill reported by the senate committee brought a further ray of light into the picture. Traders were further encouraged by the action of wheat.

Business picked up sharply in the final twenty minutes or so of trading and the ticker finished several minutes behind. Closing prices in a big proportion of cases were around the best levels of the day.

Airplane issues eased slightly from their best levels as the early spurt subsided but came back with the rest of the list toward the last. United Aircraft recorded a net gain of more than 2 points, Douglas finished a point higher and Curtiss-Wright bettered its position by a good fraction.

Dairy shares also came to life in the afternoon, due mainly to the New York state order calling for an advance in the price of milk beginning next Monday. National Dairy and Borden achieved new tops for the year.

Utility Stocks More Active.

Activity was more pronounced than it has been for some time in the utility shares and such issues as Consolidated Gas, American Water Works and North American rose to the best levels in months. An individual feature of note was Ingersoll Rand, which jumped 15 points on its first sale of the year. Rails banked their strength chiefly on the carloadings report showing a moderate gain over last week.

In the preferred group, issues with dividend accumulations and fortified by expanding earnings were in demand. Brooklyn and Queens Transit, Budd Manufacturing, Capital Administration, American Type Founders, U. S. Rubber and Goodrich preferred were among the senior issues to attract profitable attention.

Liquor shares provided the nearest approach to a sour note in the market with National Distillers, Schenley and others moving against the trend for fractional losses. Some of the mining stocks eased a bit.

FORD (ENGLAND) SHARES RISE ON TRADE REPORT

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 20.—Despite the fact that this was the third year in succession that the Ford Motor company of England paid no dividends to shareholders, there was a jump of Ford Motor shares from $5 [par] to $8.18 on the stock market today, indicating that the market expected an encouraging statement from Sir Percival Perry, chairman, at today's annual meeting at Dagenham.

In his report Perry said that during 1933 sales in the domestic market amounted to $30,936,870 and in foreign lands $33,269,160. He declared that the export trade for the first time bore the proper proportion to capital and overhead charges and also made a profit despite the fact that it represented only 51.4 per cent of the Ford products, principally of American origin, sold abroad during the company's first year of existence.

The Ford company's business in the near east was much better than in 1932, while the companies trading in Rumania, Egypt, and Greece had earned a profit against a loss in 1932.

McClintic Marshall Names Chicagoan Vice President

Bethlehem, Pa., April 20.—(AP)—A Chicagoan, E. J. Paulus, succeeds the late Col. E. A. Gibbs as vice president of the McClintic Marshall company. Robert MacMinn, former eastern sales manager for the Bethlehem Steel corporation subsidiary, replaces Paulus in charge of sales at Chicago.

Bippus, Rose & Burt Take Offices in Otis Building

Rupert F. Bippus, former Illinois securities commissioner, announces that his law firm, Bippus, Rose & Burt, beginning today, will have offices in the Otis building, 10 South La Salle street.

ALL GRAINS RISE ON RENEWAL OF INFLATION TALK

Wheat Nets ¾ Cent; Corn Gain Is Largest.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Inflation talk was again a factor in the grain markets yesterday and all classes closed higher. Scattered liquidations developed at times, but there was no material pressure except on wheat and rye early. All dips brought in commission house buying in coarse grains and at no time did they show any disposition to weaken. Wheat dropped ¾ to ⅞ of a cent and rye 1⅜ to 2 cents early, but all markets turned strong later and many of the early sellers covered on the way up.

Final trades in all grain were well toward the top. Wheat closed ¾ of a cent net higher, corn 1 to 1⅛ cents, oats ¾ to 1 cent, rye ½ to 1 cent, and barley ¾ to 1 cent. May wheat, which touched 74⅛ cents on the break, was back to 75⅝ to 75¾ cents at the close. May corn finished at 44¼ to 44⅜ cents and May oats at 27¾ to 27⅞ cents.

Sterling Rally Helps.

Increased expectation of pressure of silver legislation in the face of President Roosevelt's outspoken opposition to such action was the main influence. This was helped along by a sharp upturn in sterling exchange.

The trade also showed more disposition to pay attention to crop and weather reports. A sharp upturn came in wheat at one time on a bullish construction placed on the Modern Miller's weekly summary, which emphasized the lack of both surface and subsoil moisture in the American northwest. Private reports said dust storms had occurred in the southern parts of three Canadian provinces.

While North American wheat markets were on the upgrade yesterday—Winnipeg closing ¼ of a cent higher—Liverpool dropped to a new low for the season on all deliveries in English funds, closing ⅜ to ½ pence per cental lower. The decline there was offset by the advance in sterling with prices unchanged to ¼ of a cent higher in American funds.

Coarse Grains Strong.

Pronounced strength in cash corn and oats with the basis on both the local sample market advancing to a new high for the season, and the continued limited movement to terminals brought in increased outside speculative support. At the top corn was 4 to 4½ cents and oats 2⅝ to 3⅞ cents above the low level of Tuesday.

Reports of an increasing need of moisture for the new oats crop over a wide area had some effect on this grain. In the main, however, the prospect of a good cash demand dominated the market. Chicago handlers sold 132,000 bushels of cash corn yesterday, while Kansas City reported more than 100,000 bushels of white corn had been sold to the south and southeast in the last few days.

There appears to be no letup in the flow of foreign rye into the United States despite the import duty of 15 cents a bushel. According to reports from New York a cargo of Polish grain was expected to arrive at Albany, N. Y., yesterday and another cargo is expected next Wednesday.

HOG SALES HOLD IN PRICE RUT, TOP EASING 5 CENTS

Cattle Decline Further; Lambs Strong.

Little change was recorded in the hog market yesterday. The bulk of sales was about in line with the preceding session and steady with the close of last week, but the top at $4.00 was off 5 cents from Thursday's high mark. The general average at $3.85 remained unchanged. This price has not changed for three days and is only 5 cents under the average at the opening of the week. For fully two weeks the hog market has been virtually marking time, prices changing only slightly. Daily averages during the first five days of last week held at $3.95 and $4.00 and this week at $3.80 to $3.90.

Trading progressed slowly at the opening yesterday, but somewhat better action was displayed in the final rounds, with the clearance better than usual for Friday.

Federal Buyers Active.

Federal buyers were in the trade for the usual number of "relief hogs," buying largely at $3.75 to $4.00 in the 160 to 210 pound averages. The supply of pork held by the relief corporation has been decreasing steadily since the middle of February, falling off 22 per cent in the last two weeks. A survey of packing houses holding pork for this account showed 22,444,000 pounds still available on April 14, against 41 million pounds in mid-March and 66,076,000 pounds on Feb. 17.

Further declines were recorded in the cattle market yesterday. Weighty kinds, the branch that showed the sharpest gains on the recent bulge, were off the least on the break and prices for 1,200 pound averages and over were well above a week ago. In-between classes were hit hardest. The plainer classes of light and medium weight steers also showed severe loss at the close, compared with the high point of the week. Butcher stock prices weakened again in sympathy with the reactionary turn taken by steers. Calves tumbled 50 cents, with top vealers going down to $6.00.

Cattle Sell Slowly.

Yesterday's light run of 2,000 cattle was slower in clearing than 10,000 were on earlier sessions this week. Nothing of the class the trade is quoting at $8.00 arrived yesterday, but some good 1,213 to 1,476 pound beeves were sold at $7.65, the top sale of the day. Well finished 1,300 to 1,400 pound steers would sell at $8.00, members of the trade believe. Yesterday's bulk fetched $5.25 to $7.50, still almost $2.00 above a year ago and slightly higher than at this time in 1932.

Lambs advanced 10 to 15 cents after a strong start on eastern account. Large local packers were the most aggressive on the late rise, paying up to $9.85 for Colorado wooled stock. Freshly shorn lambs sold at $7.75 and fall shorn at $8.50. Native springers were in demand around $10.50. Aged sheep retained the recent gains, with top wooled ewes going to packers at $5.25.

DELAY ARMOUR PLAN RULING UNTIL TODAY FOR LEGAL REASONS

The meeting of Armour & Co. directors yesterday to consider the plan for recasting the company's capital structure was recessed until this morning when the subject will again be taken up. The delay was made to give attorneys and others time to whip the program into final shape before it is formally ratified by the board.

Officers indicated after the meeting yesterday that formal approval may be given this morning by the board. Whether or not final action is taken, however, it was indicated that an official statement outlining the main proposals will be given out. The legal complications of the proposed changes are great, officials said. Six lawyers are giving all their time toward perfecting the program.

HOLC TO PROBE DELAY IN MAKING ILLINOIS LOANS

Washington, D. C., April 20.—(AP)—Representative Dirksen [Rep., Ill.] announced tonight he had received assurances from John H. Fahey, chairman of the Home Owners' Loan corporation board, that personal investigators would be dispatched to Illinois at once to discover why loans have not been speeded up in that state.

Dirksen's announcement came after a two hour conference, held at Fahey's invitation, upon a resolution which the Pekin representative recently introduced asking a congressional investigation into the Illinois situation. The congressman said he turned over to the board's chairman a mass of complaints against the Illinois administration of the corporation which have poured into his office during the last fortnight.

"What we want is the speedy closing of loans, the actual disbursement of money, and the alleviation of the anxiety which has been caused by the continued and inexcusable delays in consummating these loans," Dirksen said. "We are going to obtain that kind of service or find out why. I have every reason to believe some heads will fall as a result of the Fahey investigation."

REAL ESTATE BOARDS NAME CODE AUTHORITY

Appointment of the eight members of the real estate code authority to be chosen by the National Association of Real Estate Boards was announced last night at the offices of the national realtors' group in this city. They are Hugh Potter of Houston, Tex., president of the association; J. Soule Warterfield of Chicago, member of the association's executive committee and also of its code committee; Guy W. Ellis, Miami, Fla.; H. Clifford Bangs, Washington, D. C.; Joseph Laronge, Cleveland; Joseph W. Catharine, New York; Paul E. Stark, Madison, Wis., and H. L. Gianetti, Pasadena, Cal.

The code authority is to consist of eleven voting members, eight of whom have been selected by the association. Three are to be nonmembers of the realty body.

1,010 POUND HOG SELLS FOR $5.05; TAX TOTALS $22.73

A stag hog weighing 1,010 pounds sold at the stockyards yesterday for 50 cents per hundred pounds or a total of $5.05. The buyer paid the government $2.25 per hundredweight processing tax on this animal, a total of $22.73.

The animal was much too big for the regular packing house equipment for the handling of hogs and had to be taken into the cattle division for slaughter. It was fully as heavy as an average steer.

This stag at one time was a prize boar, having won first honors at many of the local fairs and shows, and weighed 910 pounds when awarded third place at the national swine show. He was 4 years old.

FLOUR DECLINES 55C A BARREL IN LAST WEEK

Minneapolis, Minn., April 20.—(AP)—The downward swing of wheat early this week again was reflected in flour prices here today with family patents falling to the lowest level since the 30 cents a bushel processing tax on wheat went into effect last July.

A drop of 15 cents today followed the sharp drop in wheat here yesterday and coupled with recessions totaling 40 cents earlier in the week, family flour sold as low as $6.30 a barrel, which includes the processing tax of about $1.38 a barrel.

In mid-June last year, family flour ranged from $5.50 to $5.70 a barrel.

CATTLE FEEDERS FIGHT U. S. PLAN FOR PROCESS TAX

Cite Effect of Levy in Depressing Hogs.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Protest meetings of cattle feeding farmers of the middle west and far west have been held this week in an effort of the beef producers to sidetrack the efforts of the agricultural adjustment administration to enforce the new law empowering the AAA to impose a processing tax on beef.

The AAA has just announced it will hold a conference of the producers and others in the live stock industry in Chicago next Thursday. The purpose of the conference, it is announced, is for "initiating action on a beef cattle production adjustment program under terms of the amendment to the agricultural adjustment act which made beef cattle a basic commodity."

Fear Farmers Will Pay Tax.

The imposition of the processing tax is being protested by those farmers attending the local meetings this week largely because the producers believe it will be paid by the farmers themselves. They cite the fact that hogs are bringing but 3 to 4 cents a pound, with corn pegged through the government loans on 260 million bushels in storage at about 45 cents a bushel.

The processing tax on hogs amounts to 2¼ cents, so that the hog market in reality should be bringing the farmers 5¼ to 6¼ cents. The producers also cite the trend toward consumption of beef since pork prices have gone up, with the result that beef prices are now well above their depression period levels. Supplies of beef cattle on hand in the farm areas are comparatively light, and the farmers have been holding back shipments to strengthen prices, utilizing what forage is available instead of feeding heavily with corn.

Cite Supply and Demand.

The rise in both beef and lamb prices, secured without the obnoxious processing tax, detailed forms and reports, and the policing necessary under the AAA system, is credited by the informed cattlemen with having come about in the natural shifts of supply and demand. People consumed more beef and lamb in 1932 and 1933, when prices were low, than they had in previous years and the surpluses such as the AAA reports in cotton and wheat do not exist in the beef and lamb feeding business, the farmers maintain.

Typical of the midwest viewpoint is that of D. M. Lane of Vermilion county, Illinois, who has been shipping his finished top cattle to Chicago recently. He is a veteran cattle and hog feeder, and reports his recent sales of cattle brought him a profit.

Assails Government Inteference.

"There are two factors that are working against the hog farmers now," said Lane. "One is the processing tax and the other is the direct sales of hogs to packers. One stifles the demand for pork, and the other stifles competition on the open market. The hog market will not be any better until the government quits fooling with it and goes back to its own business of running the government instead of business."

Officials of the AAA at the conference next week expect to launch some sort of beef production control measure and urge that "the producers themselves be primarily active in formulating and administering any adjustment program adopted."

LARD FUTURES ADVANCE ON REMOVAL OF HEDGES

Packers' buying of lard futures, which the trade attributed to removal of hedges against export and domestic sales, resulted in a strong market yesterday, with the close 10 cents higher. Cash lard was 10 cents higher at $5.95 and loose and leaf up 12½ cents at $5.87½.

Distribution of side meats in the south by the government relief agency is claimed to be partly responsible for the slow demand for bellies of late. Futures finished unchanged to 5 cents lower, and cash lots were steady at $7.87½. Prices:

URUGUAY SEEKS RECIPROCITY IN TRADE WITH U. S.

Tarifs of Both Countries Handicap Commerce.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, April 20.—There is plenty of room for improvement in United States-Uruguayan trade, although there is little immediate prospect of such improvement taking place. There is plenty of room for it for the reason that business has fallen away to a lamentable degree. Uruguay has suffered the effects of world depression very severely and her foreign trade has fallen to a very low ebb.

Uruguayan exports consist almost entirely of meat, wool, hides, and live stock by-products, and the restrictions imposed by European countries, ranging from limited quotas to total barring in the matter of meat, has reduced the country's purchasing power to a low figure. Moreover, high customs tarifs, which at present discourage importation of well nigh everything but articles of prime necessity, combine with exchange restrictions to make a resuscitation in trade difficult to accomplish. Uruguay has gone the whole hog in the matter of protecting new home industries, with the result that the foreign article is virtually barred.

Frozen Credits Hamper Trade.

It is estimated that frozen foreign credits at present exceed twenty millions gold pesos. This factor alone tends to discourage importation since foreign exchange is difficult, if not impossible, to obtain.

Under normal conditions Uruguay imports from European countries considerable quantities of agricultural and industrial machinery, building materials, motor lorries, tools, hardware, silks, toilet articles, and drapery goods—all of which could be purchased in the United States—but for the last three years the importation of these articles has sunk to a negligible quantity.

From the United States Uruguay imports automobiles, typewriters, lumber, agricultural and industrial machinery, spares and accessories, but here again her purchases in recent years have fallen off 70 per cent.

In the matter of tarif concessions designed to promote business Uruguay has already declared during the recent Pan-American conference that she is willing to reduce some of her high tarifs in return for like treatment from other nations.

U. S. Tarifs Are Obtacles.

Such a reciprocal lowering of tarif barriers with the United States would undoubtedly give a big fillip to trade with Uruguay, but would imply the admittance into the United States of Uruguayan meat and a lowering of the tarif on wool and hides.

Uruguay is in much the same position as Argentina. She wants new markets for her agricultural and live stock products but is up against the fact that the United States possesses a superabundance of the same products. The problem is a knotty one to solve. Reduced to essentials, it means that in order to sell more manufactured goods to Uruguay the United States must buy Uruguayan produce.

The quota system and exchange restrictions imposed by European countries have stifled triangular trade as it used to exist, and now there appears to be no other course open than the establishment of a straight two way trafic between Uruguay and the United States if business is to be restored to its one time prosperous level.

NORTH AND NORTHWEST SIDE POSITIONS FOR RESIDENTS OF THOSE SECTIONS AVAILABLE SATURDAY MORNING AT 11 O'CLOCK SHARP!

The man who is looking for permanency and a place where he can take care of his family, is not going to stop trying Saturday morning. That kind of man with a residential address, good references, who isn't afraid of time and work, between about 24 and 46 years of age, neat, polite, who is willing to start on comm. basis that should average about $120 the first month and more later, will be here promptly at 11 o'clock this Saturday morning WITHOUT FAIL to talk it over. I shall be glad to tell you about the opportunity in this world-wide electric unit business and give you proof of incomes of men who started without any past experience. I manufactured pianos in Chicago for 30 years and yet have made good in this wholly different business and will get men selected into earnings this coming week.

Call at 11 this morning, Room 215, at 1046 Wilson-av. I shall look for you if you are in earnest.

BEFORE BORROWING Get the Facts About HOUSEHOLD'S REDUCED RATE ON $300 LOANS

LOANS OF $30 TO $300 MADE

On amounts above $100 Household's charge is below the maximum rate permitted by the State Small Loan Law. We believe we do the largest business in the Chicago area because:

1. We offer good service at reasonable cost
2. We only make loans that are helpful to the customer.
3. We give free, authentic information on managing people's incomes.
4. If desired we give free, authentic, information on buying economically.

HOW LOANS ARE MADE.

Household makes loans of $30 to $300 only to families, that is to husband and wife on their signatures. They can be repaid in monthly installments over 20 months or sooner. Loans are made on the basis of the information furnished by husband and wife. We do not question your employer, your neighbors, your relatives, or the people with whom you do business. All of our offices are equipped so that your business can be handled in a private room.

Each Month Thousands TAKE ADVANTAGE OF LOCAL'S SERVICE

It Will Satisfy You

Phone Your Request and immediately thereafter call at the office and obtain the money.

Service

Local was organized to make loans—in small or large amounts—to serve the needs of wage earners and salaried men and women. It is our aim to render this service quickly to every one who requests a loan. At all of our branches transactions are conducted in private offices by courteous employés.

Methods

We make loans on salary, ON YOUR SIGNATURE ONLY, without endorsers. Also on FURNITURE, AUTOS or other PERSONAL PROPERTY. All transactions are confidential. Loans granted without notice to employer, friends or relatives.

Rates

Local's rates on large furniture loans are less than the legal rate. All small loans at the regular legal rate. Charges are computed monthly on the unpaid balance.

Amounts—Terms

You can borrow any amount from $25 to $300; small loans receive the same courteous attention as larger loans. You make your own terms, 10 to 20 months, more or less. Regardless of the agreement you have the privilege to repay any day, week or month to reduce the cost.

ARKANSAS GOVERNOR ORDERS HALT IN USE OF CONVICTS TO PULL COTTON PLANTING MACHINES.
Because pulling farm implements ordinarily is the work of a mule, Gov. J. M. Futrell of Arkansas yesterday ordered use of convict teams for this purpose be stopped. Drawing the 100 pound implements is not harmful to men, however, he said. The picture shows four teams of six convicts each on Tucker prison farm, two teams pulling and two resting. (Story on page 7.)
